The Mission of Duke University

James B. Duke's founding Indenture of Duke University directed the members of the University to “provide real leadership in the educational world” by choosing individuals of “outstanding character, ability and vision” to serve as its officers, trustees and faculty; by carefully selecting students of “character, determination and application;” and by pursuing those areas of teaching and scholarship that would “most help to develop our resources, increase our wisdom, and promote human happiness.”

To these ends, the mission of Duke University is to provide a superior liberal education to undergraduate students, attending not only to their intellectual growth but also to their development as adults committed to high ethical standards and full participation as leaders in their communities; to prepare future members of the learned professions for lives of skilled and ethical service by providing excellent graduate and professional education; to advance the frontiers of knowledge and contribute boldly to the international community of scholarship; to promote an intellectual environment built on a commitment to free and open inquiry; to help those who suffer, cure disease and promote health, through sophisticated medical research and thoughtful patient care; to provide wide ranging educational opportunities, on and beyond our campuses, for traditional students, active professionals and life-long learners using the power of information technologies; and to promote a deep appreciation for the range of human difference and potential, a sense of the obligations and rewards of citizenship, and a commitment to learning, freedom and truth.

By pursuing these objectives with vision and integrity, Duke University seeks to engage the mind, elevate the spirit, and stimulate the best effort of all who are associated with the University; to contribute in diverse ways to the local community, the state, the nation and the world; and to attain and maintain a place of real leadership in all that we do.

Adopted by the Board of Trustees on February 23, 2001.
The information in this bulletin applies to the academic year 2004-2005 and is accurate and current, to the extent possible, as of May 2004. The university reserves the right to change programs of study, academic requirements, teaching staff, the calendar, and other matters described herein without prior notice, in accordance with established procedures.

Duke University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national and ethnic origin, disability, sexual orientation or preference, gender, or age in the administration of educational policies, admission policies, financial aid, employment, or any other university program or activity. It admits qualified students to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students. The university also does not tolerate harassment of any kind.

Questions, comments or complaints of discrimination or harassment should be directed to the Office of the Vice-President for Institutional Equity, (919) 684-8222. Further information, as well as the complete text of the harassment policy, may be found at http://www.duke.edu/web/equity/.

Duke University recognizes and utilizes electronic mail as a medium for official communications. The university provides all students with e-mail accounts as well as access to e-mail services from public clusters if students do not have personal computers of their own. All students are expected to access their e-mail accounts on a regular basis to check for and respond as necessary to such communications, just as they currently do with paper/postal service mail.

Information that the university is required to make available under the Student Right to Know and Campus Security Acts may be obtained from the Office of University Relations at 684-2823 or in writing to 615 Chapel Drive, Box 90563, Duke University, Durham, North Carolina 27708.

Duke University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia 30033-4097; telephone number 404-679-4501) to award baccalaureates, masters, doctorates, and professional degrees.

When you consider Duke Divinity School in preparation for ministry, you are looking at one of the leading centers of theological inquiry.

Theological education at Duke draws together the academy, the church and the world, and our mission requires that we engage and enhance all three in overlapping ways. Our reputation for excellence is built on the strengths of a faculty whose members combine rigorous scholarship, engagement in the wider world, and a commitment to the church that is distinctive among theological schools.

The divinity school’s vocation is to equip students for faithful leadership and critical reflection on the church’s role in a dramatically changing global culture. This is not a passive experience. Rather, it is one of active, demanding formation that occurs best in a community of shared experiences that help shape ministerial identity.

Duke Divinity School is one of the 13 theological schools founded and supported by the United Methodist Church, which has been and continues to be central to the school’s mission. Additionally, the school is a major ecumenical center by virtue of its Wesleyan tradition and its commitment to the catholicity of the church.

We seek to provide intellectual leadership for the church’s ministry in the world. Our faculty is highly respected in such major areas as the history of interpretation and theological interpretation of Scripture; theological ethics; pastoral leadership; studies in the Wesleyan tradition; theology and medicine; and racial reconciliation.

We welcome students from a variety of diverse denominations and perspectives, and ask that all members of the community be willing to test their cherished views and assumptions. In a world polarized by stereotypes and divisions, we strive to create a dynamic center in which we have enough in common to make conversation possible and enough differences to make it necessary.

Duke Divinity School is highly invested in assuring a substantive role for clergy in the contemporary world. If the church is to thrive, we must identify tomorrow’s pastoral leaders, educate and form them well, and sustain their learning over the course of their ministry. There is no substitute for a passionate, learned clergy.

During 2001-02, we celebrated the 75th anniversary of Duke Divinity School, the first graduate professional school of Duke University. We adopted the theme “Transforming Ministry,” for we are convinced that the vocation of ministry is about transforming people’s lives—transforming the people who are in ministry, the people with whom they work, and our own practices as we seek to be faithful to the Gospel.

Transformation includes an appreciation of the past as well as a focus on the future. We seek to embody a vital sense of tradition without lapsing into traditionalism. Church historian Jaroslav Pelikan summarizes the distinction succinctly: “Tradition is the living faith of the dead; traditionalism is the dead faith of the living.”

We invite you to join our community of learning, worship, and transformative service as you seek to answer God’s call to ministry.

Grace and Peace,

L. Gregory Jones
Dean
General Information
History

Duke University began as a simple, one-room schoolhouse in rural Randolph County, North Carolina. Established as Union Institute by Quakers and Methodists in 1838, it became Normal College in 1851. Normal was reorganized as Trinity College in 1859, when the Methodist Church became a major financial supporter. In 1892 Trinity College moved to Durham, North Carolina.

In 1924 James B. Duke established a trust fund for educational and charitable purposes. The chief beneficiary, Trinity College, became Duke University. The purpose for establishing the trust was clear: "I have selected Duke University as one of the principal objects of this trust because I recognize that education, when conducted along sane and practical, as opposed to dogmatic and theoretical lines, is, next to religion, the greatest civilizing influence . . .. And I advise that the courses at this institution be arranged, first, with special reference to the training of preachers, teachers, lawyers, and physicians, because these are most in the public eye, and by precept and example can do most to uplift mankind." The School of Religion began its work in the academic year 1926-27, and formal exercises for its opening were held on November 9, 1926. In 1940 the name was changed to Duke Divinity School.

During its history, the Divinity School has had outstanding teachers, scholars, and administrative leaders. Since the founding of the school in 1926, the following persons have served as deans or acting deans: Edmund Davidson Soper, 1926-28; Elbert Russell, 1928-41; Paul N. Garber, 1941-44; Harvie Branscomb, 1944-46; Gilbert T. Rowe, acting dean of the faculty, 1946-47; Paul E. Root (elected in 1947, but died before assuming office); Harold A. Bosley, 1947-50; James Cannon III, acting dean 1950-51, dean 1951-58; Robert Earl Cushman, 1958-71; Thomas A. Langford, 1971-81; Jamerson Jones, 1981-82; Dennis M. Campbell, 1982-1997. The current dean, L. Gregory Jones, was installed on October 3, 1997.

Its graduates have distinguished themselves by making significant contributions to the church and the world.

The Role of the Divinity School

Duke Divinity School represents theological inquiry and learning within the greater university. By history and indenture, it stands within the Christian tradition, mindful of its distinctive lineage in and its continuing obligation to the United Methodist Church. Duke Divinity School, although United Methodist in tradition and dependency, receives students from many Christian denominations and offers its educational resources to representatives of the several communions who seek an education for church-related ministry. From its inception, it has been ecumenical in aspiration, teaching, and practice, as well as in its faculty. Educational policy has consistently aspired to foster a Christian understanding “truly catholic, truly evangelical, and truly reformed.”

The principal purpose of Duke Divinity School is the professional education for the ministry, which in today’s world is manifested in a variety of forms. Although the conventional and inherited styles of ministry are now undergoing change, the divinity school curriculum continues to prepare students for informed and discriminating exercise of the church’s historic offices through the ministry of word, sacrament, order, service, pastoral care, and teaching. Duke Divinity School believes these offices will remain, although the form and context of the local church may change.

With this in mind, the divinity school tries to prepare students for the mature performance of their vocation. It hopes to develop in each graduate a disciplined intelligence, informed by sound learning and equipped for worthy professional service. Its resources are offered to students with a diversity of ministerial aims, although the school seeks, by recruitment and financial support, to prepare persons for ordination.
or lay professional vocations in the churches. In all its endeavors, Duke Divinity School aims to serve Jesus Christ through service to the church and the world.

The Relation of the Divinity School to Duke University

Duke Divinity School is an integral part of the university and shares fully in its activities, privileges, and responsibilities. The Sunday services in the university chapel give divinity school students each year an opportunity to hear several of the country’s leading preachers. The university libraries make a rich collection of books and other materials easily accessible. Without additional fees, selected courses in the graduate and professional schools are open to divinity school students, as well as the general cultural and recreational resources of the university.

Divinity School Library

The Divinity School Library contains a collection of more than 347,000 volumes in the fields of religion and related disciplines and affords a wealth of material for the seminary student. An integral part of the university’s library system, which possesses more than 5,235,000 volumes, the Divinity School Library occupies facilities within the divinity school building. The library currently subscribes to over 700 religious periodicals, offers study facilities for students in its reading rooms, and houses a reference collection in religion. Although some of the library’s collection is stored off-site, the vast majority of the collection can still be browsed within the library’s open stacks.

Staffed by the library director, associate director, and electronic services librarian trained in both theology and library science, by two circulation managers, and by a number of student assistants, the Divinity School Library offers a variety of services to assist the student in selecting and locating information. The book, electronic, microform, and periodical collections are carefully chosen to support basic course work as well as advanced research in all major fields of religious studies.

The Divinity School Library offers a wide variety of computerized resources, including an online catalog and other databases available through the Web as well as an array of specialized CD-ROM databases in religion. The library’s Web page, www.lib.duke.edu/divinity, contains information about services and electronic resources, links to Web sites in religion, and online forms for interlibrary loan, reference questions, and more. A computer classroom with 11 Internet workstations is available for student use in the library. The library also provides power, printing, and network connections for laptop computer use, and offers wireless connectivity to the Internet in two areas of the library.

The seminary student may also use the resources and facilities of all other Duke libraries, including extensive electronic resources, public documents, maps, periodicals, newspapers, microforms, and special collections (within which are 98 prized ancient Greek manuscripts). Students may arrange to borrow in person from the other libraries of the Triangle Research Library Network (North Carolina Central University, North Carolina State University, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill).

Center for Studies in the Wesleyan Tradition

The Center for Studies in the Wesleyan Tradition was founded in 1979 and is supported by a permanent endowment of Duke Divinity School. The center supports a wide variety of programs designed to advance teaching, research, and publication in Wesleyan history and theology.

Library. The Baker Collection of Wesley and Methodist materials housed in both the Divinity School Library and the Rare Book, Manuscript, and Special Collections Library, is one of the two largest and finest such collections extant. The late Professor Frank Baker was the world’s foremost authority on John Wesley and was, for many years editor of the Bicentennial Edition of Wesley’s Works, a project begun at Duke Divinity School. The Baker Methodist Research Center in the Divinity School Library celebrates the lives of Frank Baker and his wife, Nellie Baker and occasionally exhibits materials from the collection.

Visiting Professors. The center brings distinguished visiting professors to teach in the divinity school.

Visiting Scholars. The center makes research grants available to scholars from around the world to work for various periods of time in the divinity school and sponsors the Summer Wesley Seminar.

Visiting Lecturers. The center has an extensive program of visiting lecturers that exposes students and faculty of the divinity school to leading figures in the Wesleyan tradition from throughout the world. These have included: Professor Peder Borgen, University of Trondheim, Norway; Dr. Manfred Marquardt, the Methodist Theological Seminary, Reutlingen, Germany; Ruediger Minor, bishop of the Eurasia Area, Moscow, Russia; the Reverend Helmut Nausner, district superintendent, Vienna, Austria; Professor Norman Young, Queens College, the University of Melbourne, Australia; Walter Klaiber, bishop of Frankfurt, Germany; and Neville Richardson, University of Natal, South Africa.

Publications. The center is committed to a program of scholarly publication. In 1983, support was given for preparation of a reader in theology in the Wesleyan tradition that was published in 1984. The center also translated Theologie in Hymnen, a study by Teresa Berger of Charles Wesley’s hymnody published in 1995. Professor Richard Heitzenrater directs the international Wesley Works Project, a 35 volume critical edition of John Wesley’s writings, of which 16 volumes have appeared since 1976.

The Center for Theological Writing

The Duke Center for Theological Writing was established in 2001 to promote writing as a central practice of the church and its ministry. The center seeks to strengthen theological interpretation, teaching, preaching and communication both at the seminary level and throughout the church, through a combination of tutorial services, lectures, Web-based programs, and special colloquia.

Writing Assessment: Students will first become acquainted with the center through the mandatory first-year writing assessment. All incoming students are required to submit one or two of their course papers for assessment early in their first semester. Trained facilitators evaluate the papers and meet with each student for half an hour to provide advice on the paper’s strengths and weaknesses, as well as resources to assist the student in honing his or her writing skills.

Tutoring: Tutors are available at the center throughout the week for consultation with students at every stage of the divinity curriculum. Students are asked to make an appointment and to submit their work at least twenty-four hours before that appointment.

About the CTW. Dr. John Utz is the director of the Center for Theological Writing. The center also employs two writing tutors for individual meetings with students. The center’s offices may be found at 003 Divinity Bldg. For more information, consult Duke Divinity School’s Web site, under “Projects and Programs.”
Faculty

The faculty of Duke University Divinity School, regarded as one of the world’s strongest theological faculties, is committed to excellence in teaching, research, publication, and service to the church, the university, and the wider community. The Duke faculty is particularly well-known for its strong commitment to the church and its ministry. It includes persons who come from all over the United States and the world. Virtually all major Christian traditions are represented, and identity with specific communities within the Christian tradition is taken seriously by faculty members. Because of its distinguished faculty, the Divinity School is an international center for research and publication in the theological disciplines and for reflection on the practice of ministry.

Faculty Biographical Information

Bishop Arichea began his ministry by serving pastorates in Bataan and Manila in the Philippines and teaching for 8 years at Union Theological Seminary. In 1969 he joined the United Bible Societies as a translation consultant, working in the Philippines (1969-72), Thailand (1972-74), and Indonesia (1974-1987). In 1987 he was moved to Hong Kong to become the Asia-Pacific regional translation coordinator, a position he held for eight years before he was elected to the episcopacy (in absentia) in November 1994. As bishop, he was assigned to the Baguio Episcopal Area in the Philippines. He retired from the episcopacy in December 2000. While with the Bible Society, he co-authored four handbooks for translators (Galatians, 1 Peter, Jude and 2 Peter, and the Pastoral Letters) in addition to writing numerous articles on Bible translation, most of which were published in The Bible Translator. Positions in the Philippine church include: Chairperson of the National Council of Churches in the Philippines, 1997-1999, and President, Philippine Bible Society, 1997-1998, 2001 to the present. His continuing ministry to the churches in the Philippines includes a monthly column for The Filipino Methodist entitled “Biblical Passages People Love,” which started in 1982. He has also written numerous Bible studies for young people and on the subject of women in the Scriptures, the latest of which is entitled “Laying to Rest the Misconception of the Subordinate Role of Women in the Church.” He is bishop in Residence both at Duke Divinity School and at Union Theological Seminary in the Philippines where he also serves as professor of New Testament. He is married to Ruth Mandac (MRE ’65), with whom he has three children.

Michael Battle, Assistant Professor of Spirituality and Black Church Studies. B.A., Ph.D. (Duke University), M.Div. (Princeton University), S.T.M. (Yale University).

A priest in the Episcopal Church, Michael Battle teaches spirituality and black church studies. He is the author of Reconciliation: The Ubuntu Theology of Desmond Tutu (1997) and is currently at work on A Christian Spirituality of Non-Violence, in consultation with Arun Ghandi, the grandson of Mahatma Ghandi. He has worked as an inner-city chaplain with Tony Campolo Ministries, and overseas in Uganda and Kenya with the Plowshares Institute. A participant and worship committee member of the Seventh Assembly of the World Council of Churches, he has served on its central committees in Geneva and Johannesburg. A research fellow in residence with Archbishop Desmond Tutu, Dr. Battle was ordained by the Archbishop in Cape Town, South Africa. He holds certification in spiritual direction from the Shalem Institute. Before joining the Duke faculty in 1999, he taught at the University of the South’s School of Theology.
Teresa M. Berger, Professor of Ecumenical Theology. L.Th. (St. John’s College, Nottingham, England); M.Th., Dipl. theol. (University of Mainz, Germany); Dr. theol. (University of Heidelberg); Dr. theol. habil. (University of Münster).

Professor Berger’s academic interests lie at the intersection of ecumenical, liturgical, and feminist theology. She has published research on such subjects as the hymns of Charles Wesley, ecumenical readings of the Scriptures, and gender analysis and liturgical history. She has taught theology at the Universities of Mainz, Münster, Berlin (Germany) and Uppsala (Sweden). Her current teaching focuses on World Christianity, particularly liberation and feminist theologies from the Third World. Professor Berger is a Roman Catholic from Germany. Her most recent publications include: Women’s Ways of Worship: Gender Analysis and Liturgical History (1999) and Dissident Daughters: Feminist Liturgies in Global Context (2001).

Douglas A. Campbell, Assistant Professor of New Testament. B.A. (University of Otago); M.A., Ph.D. (University of Toronto).

Dr. Campbell’s main research interests comprise the life and thought (i.e. theology and its development) of Paul with particular reference to soteriological models rooted in apocalyptic as against justification or salvation-history. However, he is interested in contributions to Pauline analysis from modern literary theory, from modern theology, from epistolary theory, ancient rhetoric, ancient comparative religion, modern linguistics and semantic theory, and from sociology. His recent publications include The Rhetoric of Righteousness in Romans 3:21-26, and he edited The Call to Serve: Biblical and Theological Perspectives on Ministry in Honour of Bishop Penny Jamieson.

Kenneth L. Carder, Professor of the Practice of Pastoral Formation and Director of the Center for Excellence in Ministry. B.S. (East Tennessee State University); M.Div. (Wesley Theological Seminary); D.Min. (Vanderbilt Divinity School).

Dr. Carder served as bishop of the Mississippi Area of the United Methodist Church from July 2000 Â¬ 2004 and before that was bishop of the Nashville Area for eight years. He has been the pastor of Church Street United Methodist Church in Knoxville, Tenn. and in Oak Ridge, Concord, and Bristol, Tenn., Abingdon, Va.; and Rockville, Md. He is the author of three books, Sermons on United Methodist Beliefs, A Bishop’s Reflections, Living Our Beliefs and a study guide for Who Are We? The Doctrine, Mission, and Ministry of the United Methodist Church. He has also contributed articles to several journals, including Christian Century, Circuit Rider, and Christian Social Action. During the 2000-04 quadrennium, Bishop Carder served as president of the General Board of Discipleship and chair of the Council of Bishops Committee on Theological Education.

J. Kameron Carter, Assistant Professor in Theology and Black Church Studies. B.A. (Temple University); M.Th. (Dallas Theological Seminary); Ph.D. (University of Virginia).

Professor Carter teaches courses in both theology and black church studies. His academic interests range from systematic theology and theological exegesis to philosophy, literature, and cultural studies. He draws significantly on certain patristic and medieval approaches to theology and philosophy in engaging the contemporary theological and cultural imagination. He has a book forthcoming from Oxford University Press entitled Race: A Theological Account. He is pursuing research toward work tentatively entitled Dramas of Suffering: Cornel West, Hans Urs von Balthasar and the Meaning of Modernity, as well as research on religion in the black intellectual imagination.

Before joining the Duke faculty in 2000, Dr. Chapman was a research fellow with the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft at the University of Tübingen and a visiting scholar at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. His book The Law and the Prophets: A Study in Old Testament Canon Formation redescribes the early history of the Old Testament as a scriptural collection and explains the abiding significance of that history for biblical theology. Dr. Chapman’s current research focuses on biblical hermeneutics, interpretive method and theological approaches to Scripture. He is co-editor of a volume of interdisciplinary essays on these topics entitled Biblischer Text und theologische Theoriebildung. An ordained minister in the American Baptist Churches, U.S.A., Dr. Chapman has served rural and inner-city congregations with a particular emphasis on worship renewal and hunger ministries. He is also presently active in the Baptist World Alliance as a member of both the Workgroup on Theological Education and the Commission on Doctrine and Interchurch Cooperation.

James L. Crenshaw, Robert L. Flowers Professor of Old Testament. B.A. (Furman University); B.D. (Southern Baptist Theological Seminary); Ph.D. (Vanderbilt University); D.D. (Furman University).

Professor Crenshaw’s academic interests are in literary and theological interpretations of the Hebrew Bible. He teaches courses on biblical theology, wisdom and prophetic literature, prayer in the Old Testament, narrative art in the Hebrew Bible, the problem of evil, Job, Ecclesiastes, Proverbs, and introduction to the literature and history of ancient Israel. Among his publications are Prophetic Conflict, Samson, A Whirlpool of Torment, Ecclesiastes, and Story and Faith. His book Old Testament Wisdom: An Introduction, originally published in 1981, appeared in a revised and enlarged edition in 1998. A former editor of the Society of Biblical Literature monograph series, he currently edits a series, Personalities of the Old Testament. A Baptist minister, he has been active in Baptist and Christian (Disciples of Christ) churches for more than four decades. He was awarded the Guggenheim Fellowship, a Pew Evangelical Scholarship, an NEH Fellowship, and grants from the Society for Religion in Higher Education, A.A.T.S. and A.C.L.S.

Ellen Davis, Professor of Bible and Practical Theology. A.B. (University of California, Berkeley), Cert. Theo. (Oxford), M.Div. (Church Divinity School of the Pacific), Ph.D. (Yale).

Professor Davis is interested in theological interpretation of the Old Testament, with particular concern for Christian preaching. Her current work focuses also on developing an exegetically based response to the ecological crisis. She is the author of Swallowing the Scroll: Textuality and the Dynamics of Discourse in Ezekiel’s Prophecy; Imagination Shaped: Old Testament Preaching in the Anglican Tradition; Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and the Song of Songs; Getting Involved with God: Rediscovering the Old Testament; and Who Are You, My Daughter? Reading Ruth through Image and Text. A lay Episcopalian, she has been involved in inter-religious dialogue for more than 30 years. Her previous teaching appointments were at Union Theological Seminary (New York City), Yale Divinity School, and the Virginia Theological Seminary.

Susan G. Eastman, Assistant Professor of the Practice of Bible and Christian Formation. B.A. (Pomona College); M.Div. (Yale Divinity School); Ph.D. (Duke University).

Professor Eastman’s scholarly focus is on the New Testament, particularly Paul’s letters, in relationship to the formation of Christian identity through the life of the local church. Her current work is on Paul’s use of relational imagery to proclaim the gospel’s power to transform and sustain Christian communities over time. She is an ordained priest of the Episcopal Church, in which she has served parishes since 1982. Her most recent publication is “Whose Apocalypse? The Identity of the Sons of God in Romans 8:19,” in The Journal of Biblical Literature.
Frederick P. Edie, Assistant Professor of the Practice of Christian Education; Director, Duke Youth Academy for Christian Formation. B.A. (Furman University); M.Div. (Vanderbilt Divinity School); Ph.D. (Emory University).

Dr. Edie’s research interests lie at the intersection of theology, social and biological sciences and religious education. He is particularly interested in the interplay between “heart,” “body” and “mind” in the dynamics of Christian formation. His dissertation explores these themes in the context of the fourth century catechumenate and the rites of Christian initiation. Edie is also interested in the problem of forming Christians for faithful witness in a world that seeks to domesticate them. He is an ordained elder in the United Methodist Church, a member of the South Georgian Annual Conference and has also served parishes in Nashville and San Diego.

James Michael Efird, Professor of Biblical Interpretation. A.B. (Davidson College); M.Div. (Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary); Ph.D. (Duke University).

Having served on the Duke Divinity School faculty since 1962, Professor Efird has concentrated on making biblical scholarship understandable and useful for men and women preparing primarily for parish ministry. In addition, he has taken this approach to the laity of the church in many different denominations. Professor Efird’s teaching, research, and writing cover the broad spectrum of both the Old and the New Testaments and are reflected in 13 books and in over 50 articles in various journals and Bible dictionaries. Among his books are New Testament Writings and Revelation for Today.

Curtis W. Freeman, Research Professor of Theology and Baptist Studies and Director of the Baptist House of Studies. B.A., Ph.D. (Baylor University); M.Div. (Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary).

Curtis Freeman teaches historical theology. His dissertation and earlier research was on Augustine of Hippo, but more recently his work has explored areas of free church theology. His two edited books, Ties That Bind (Smyth and Helwys), and Baptist Roots (Judson Press), and numerous articles seek to describe the development of a distinctly Baptist theological tradition. He is a contributor to the volume Baptist Sacramentalism in the series, “Studies in Baptist History and Thought” (Paternoster Press) for which he serves as an editor. He also serves on the Doctrine and Interchurch Cooperation Commission and the Theological Education Committee of the Baptist World Alliance. He is currently working on a book entitled Other Meanings (InterVarsity), which examines the eclipse and re-emergence of the practice of spiritual exegesis in the history of the church.

Mary McClintock Fulkerson, Associate Professor of Theology and Women’s Studies. B.M. (University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill); M.Div. (Duke University); Ph.D. (Vanderbilt University).

Professor McClintock Fulkerson's primary teaching interests are feminist theologies, contemporary Protestant theology, authority in theology, and ecclesiology. Her work is published in journals such as Journal of the American Academy of Religion, the Journal of Feminist Studies in Religion, and Modern Theology. Her book, Changing the Subject: Women’s Discourses and Feminist Theology, examines the liberating practices of feminist academics and non-feminist church women. Her current work is on the ecclesial practices that enable resistance to racism and other contemporary forms of social brokenness. Her next book interprets the doctrine of the church in light of racial diversity and the differently abled. An ordained minister in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), Professor McClintock Fulkerson has been involved in national ecclesiastical bodies and chaired the New Hope Presbytery’s Task Force on Human Sexuality. She also teaches in the Duke Women's Studies program.
Amy Laura Hall, Assistant Professor of Theological Ethics. B.A. (Emory University); M.Div., Ph.D. (Yale University).

Amy Laura Hall is the author of Kierkegaard and the Treachery of Love (Cambridge University Press, 2002) and numerous articles in scholarly journals in theology and ethics. She is presently involved in an extensive research project to document the rise in the last century of the medically enhanced child and the scientifically calibrated family. She is considering, for example, ways that medical marketing has encouraged a distinction between well-planned and accidental reproduction. Professor Hall serves on the Steering Committee of the Genome Ethics, Law, and Policy Center at Duke University. She has served on the Duke Medical Center’s Institutional Review Board and as an Ethics Consultant to the V.A. Center in Durham. A member of the Bioethics Task Force of the United Methodist Church, Hall has been asked to present her work on reproductive ethics to the World Council of Churches in Geneva, as well as to academic audiences in Zurich, Aarhus, and Oxford. While her primary research work concentrates on bioethics at the beginning of life, she also serves on the Core Faculty of the Institute on Care at the End of Life. An ordained elder in the Southwest Texas Conference, she has served in both suburban and urban parishes.

Stanley M. Hauerwas, Gilbert T. Rowe Professor of Theological Ethics. B.A. (Southwestern University); B.D., M.A., M.Phil., Ph.D. (Yale University); D.D. (University of Edinburgh).

Professor Hauerwas teaches theological ethics. He has sought to recover the significance of the virtues for understanding the nature of the Christian life. This search has led him to emphasize the importance of the church, as well as narrative, for understanding Christian existence. His work cuts across disciplinary lines as he is in conversation with systematic theology, philosophical theology and ethics, political theory, as well as the philosophy of social science and medical ethics. Of his many books, perhaps the best known are The Peaceable Kingdom, A Community of Character, Suffering Presence, and (with Will Willimon) Resident Aliens: Life in the Christian Colony. His most recent books are Christians Among the Virtues, Wilderness Wanderings: Probing Twentieth Century Theology, and Sanctify Them In the Truth: Holiness Exemplified. He lectures widely to church and academic audiences, but his work clearly indicates that his fundamental interest is in the upbuilding of moral discourse within the contemporary Christian community. Dr. Hauerwas delivered the prestigious Gifford Lectureship at the University of St. Andrews, Scotland for the year 2000-2001 later published as With the Grain of the Universe: The Church’s Witness and Natural History.

Professor Hays is internationally recognized for his work on the letters of Paul and on New Testament ethics. His scholarly work explores the innovative ways in which early Christian writers interpreted Israel’s Scripture. His book The Moral Vision of the New Testament was selected by Christianity Today as one of the 100 most important religious books of the twentieth century. His other books include The Faith of Jesus Christ, Echoes of Scripture in the Letters of Paul, First Corinthians (Interpretation Commentaries), The Letter to the Galatians (New Interpreter’s Bible), and (with co-editor Ellen Davis) The Art of Reading Scripture. His work, widely published in scholarly journals, has been translated into several languages, and he has lectured internationally to academic audiences. An ordained United Methodist minister, he has preached in settings ranging from rural Oklahoma churches to London’s Westminster Abbey. Professor Hays has served on several editorial boards, including the Journal of Biblical Literature and New Testament Studies. He was co-convener of the Scripture Project, a research initiative sponsored by the Center of Theological Inquiry, Princeton, and he is currently serving as co-convener of a new C.T.I. research project: “The Identity of Jesus.” His academic honors have included the John Wesley Fellowship, the Pew Evangelical Scholars Program grant, the Award of Merit for Biblical Exposition from the Associated Church Press, and the Henry Luce III Fellowship in Theology.
Richard Heitzenrater, William Kellon Quick Professor of Church History and Wesley Studies, B.A., B.D., Ph.D., (Duke University).

Dr. Heitzenrater is acknowledged as the major Wesley scholar of his generation. Best known for his discovery of the “key” to Wesley's Oxford diaries, Heitzenrater’s breakthrough illuminates the importance of the Oxford period for Wesley’s life and work and continues to shape the course of Wesley studies. Professor Heitzenrater is general editor and director of the Wesley Works Project, an international publishing venture that has yielded 16 of an intended 35 volumes of Wesley’s writings. Professor Heitzenrater's own contribution to the Wesley Works Project is found in seven volumes of the Journals and Diaries, important tools for general historians of the eighteenth century. Among Heitzenrater’s published books are Wesley and the People Called Methodists; The Elusive Mr. Wesley; The Poor and the People Called Methodists; and Mirror and Memory: Reflections on Early Methodism.

Reinhard Hütter, Associate Professor of Christian Theology. M.Div. equiv. (Evangelical Lutheran Church of Bavaria, Germany), Th.M. (Duke University), Dr. theol. (University of Erlangen), Dr. theol. habil. (University of Erlangen).

Professor Hütter joined the Divinity School faculty after teaching at the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago from 1990-1999. He teaches systematic and philosophical theology. In his recent work he has sought a bridge between contemporary queries and classical commitments, between European and North American theologies, and between divided church traditions. The author of three scholarly books and numerous articles, reviews, and translations, he has also co-edited four books. His most recent books include Suffering Divine Things: Theology as Church Practice and Bound to Be Free: Evangelical Catholic Engagements in Ecclesiology, Ethics, and Ecumenism. He was awarded the Henry Luce III Fellowship and was also accepted as a research fellow at the Center of Theological Inquiry at Princeton. He is presently working on his next book, Freedom: a Theological and Philosophical Inquiry.

Willie J. Jennings, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Programs and Assistant Research Professor of Theology and Black Church Studies. B.A. (Calvin College); M.Div. (Fuller Theological Seminary); Ph.D. (Duke University).

Dr. Jennings teaches in the areas of systematic theology and black church and cultural studies. The author of numerous articles, his research interests include these areas as well as liberation theologies, cultural identities, and anthropology. Dr. Jennings is a native of Grand Rapids, Michigan. An ordained Baptist minister, Professor Jennings has served as interim pastor of several North Carolina churches and continues to be an active teaching and preaching minister in the local church.

Dean L. Gregory Jones is a theologian whose work centers on the nature of forgiveness, and how Christians can appropriate the Christian faith to live lives of transformative service. Dr. Jones is known for teaching that fosters students' imaginations to explore the implications of theology for everyday life, for research that promotes interdisciplinary conversation among scholars, and for commitment to ecumenical dialogue. The author or editor of twelve books, he has also published more than one hundred articles and essays. His book, Embodying Forgiveness, was named an Outstanding Book by both Christianity Today and The Academy of Parish Clergy. Jones co-edited, with Stephanie Paulsell, The Scope of Our Art: The Vocation of the Theological Teacher. His most recent book is Everyday Matters: Intersections of Life and Faith. He is also an active contributor to popular publications; his reviews, opinion-editorials, and other articles have appeared in a variety of popular publications. Dean Jones and his wife, the Rev. Susan Pendleton Jones, have written “Adult Bible Studies” for the United Methodist Publishing House. Prior to his arrival at Duke, Dr. Jones was chair of the theology department at Loyola College in Maryland, where he was cited, in 1995, by the Catholic Review as among “Teachers Who Make a Difference.” He is an ordained elder in the Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church.

Emmanuel Katongole, Associate Professor of Theology and World Christianity. B.Ph. (Pontifical University, Rome); Diplom. (Makerere University); B.Div. (Pontifical University, Rome); M.A. Rel. Studies (K.U.Leuven); Ph.D. (K.U.Leuven).

Professor Katongole’s current research interests examine postmodern and postcolonial theology especially in Africa, with a particular focus on issues of African history, politics and social memory. He has just finalized research on his next book on African Politics, Theology and Social Imagination. His previous publications include Beyond Universal Reason. The Relation between Religion and Ethics in the Work of Stanley Hauerwas (Notre Dame University Press, 2000) and an edited volume, African Theology Today (University of Scranton Press, 2002). Dr. Katongole is actively involved in the academic life and scholarly initiatives at a number of universities in Africa. He is a regular visiting professor at Uganda Martyrs University (Uganda) and at St. Augustine’s College (Johannesburg, South Africa), where he teaches courses in theology, ethics and African philosophy. As a priest in the Roman Catholic Church he has served parishes in Uganda, Belgium, New York, Indiana, Pennsylvania, and currently in Cary, North Carolina.

Susan A. Keefe, Associate Professor of Church History. B.A. (University of Pennsylvania); M.A., Ph.D. (University of Toronto).

A church historian and specialist in the study of Carolingian manuscripts, Professor Keefe has taught at Duke since 1988. Her work over the past 15 years has involved texts on baptism and the creeds, especially as they relate to the instruction of the clergy. She has traveled extensively throughout Europe, visiting remote libraries, churches, and monasteries to study original manuscripts. Her book, Water and the Word—Baptism and the Instruction of the Clergy in the Carolingian Empire: A Study of Texts and Manuscripts, was published by the University of Notre Dame Press in Fall, 2002.

Richard Lischer, James T. and Alice Mead Cleland Professor of Preaching. B.A. (Concordia Senior College); M.A. (Washington University); B.D. (Concordia Seminary); Ph.D. (University of London).

A native of St. Louis, Professor Lischer’s graduate theological training is in systematic theology. He is an ordained minister in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America and has nine years of pastoral experience in rural and suburban settings. He teaches in the areas of homiletics and ministry. In his scholarly work, Dr. Lischer has sought to portray proclamation as an integrated theological activity. He has published and lectured widely in the areas of theology, ministry, and preaching. He has held many distinguished lectureships, including the Lyman Beecher Lectures at Yale Divinity School. His earliest book is a study of Christian anthropology, Marx and Teilhard: Two Ways to the New Humanity. A Theology of Preaching and The Company of Preachers deal with the theological and rhetorical dimensions of preaching. Speaking of Jesus reflects his parish experiences with grassroots evangelism. His award-winning book The Preacher King: Martin Luther King, Jr. and the Word that Moved America is a study of Martin Luther King as a preacher. He is co-editor, with Will Willimon, of the Concise Encyclopedia of Preaching. Doubleday published a memoir of his first, rural ministry, Open Secrets, in 2001.
Roger L. Loyd, Professor of the Practice of Theological Bibliography. B.A. (McMurry College); M.Th. (Southern Methodist University); M.L.S. (North Texas State University).

A recent member of the board of directors and past president of the American Theological Library Association, Professor Loyd is known as a librarian who seeks to complement the building of an excellent library collection with the intelligent and fiscally responsible use of technology. An elder in the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church, Loyd has served pastoral and campus ministry appointments, and prior to his Duke appointment, he was associate librarian and assistant professor of theological bibliography for 12 years at Perkins School of Theology (SMU). He is the editor of A History of the Perkins School of Theology by Lewis Howard Grimes.

W. Joseph Mann, Adjunct Professor of Parish Work. B.A. (University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill), M.Div., S.T.M. (Yale University).

Joseph Mann has been with the Rural Church Division of The Duke Endowment since 1989, serving as director since July 1996. As director of the Rural Church Division, he is responsible for making requests to the trustees of The Duke Endowment from eligible beneficiaries. Many of the grants made through the Rural Church Division are made to Duke Divinity School or to students in the school who serve as student pastors or as assistant pastors in rural United Methodist churches in North Carolina. Prior to joining the Endowment staff, Mann was director of continuing education at Duke Divinity School. Earlier he served as United Methodist campus minister and director of the Wesley Foundation at North Carolina State University, and as associate minister at Wesley Memorial United Methodist Church in Wilmington, N.C.

Joel Marcus teaches New Testament with an emphasis on the Gospels and the context of early Christianity in first-century Judaism. His work attempts to fuse historical and theological concerns. His previous books include two monographs on Mark and the first part of a two-volume commentary on the same Gospel in the prestigious Anchor Bible series (Doubleday, 2000). He has also published a collection of Good Friday sermons entitled Jesus and the Holocaust: Reflections on Suffering and Hope (Doubleday, 1997).

Keith G. Meador, Professor of the Practice of Pastoral Theology and Medicine, Director, Theology and Medicine Program. B.A. (Vanderbilt University); M.D. (University of Louisville); Th.M. (Duke University); M.P.H. (University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill).

Keith G. Meador, teaches pastoral theology and pastoral care. He established the Theology and Medicine Program in the Divinity School and gives leadership to varied programmatic initiatives one of which is the Caring Communities Program, which seeks to support health ministries and form caring communities throughout the Carolinas through education of clergy, health care providers, and lay leaders in health ministries. Another component of the Theology and Medicine Program is the Health and Nursing Ministries Program, a jointly sponsored curriculum with the Duke School of Nursing for educating congregational nurses. His scholarship focuses on pastoral theology interpreted through practices of caring and their formation within the Christian community, as well as the investigation of health ministries as a manifestation of these practices. A physician and board certified psychiatrist, Dr. Meador’s work builds on his clinical, research and teaching background in mental health, pastoral theology, and public health about which he lectures widely and has published numerous publications including the recently co-authored book, Heal Thyself: Spirituality, Medicine, and the Distortion of Christianity. He holds a joint appointment as a clinical professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences in the Duke School of Medicine and serves as a senior fellow in the Duke Aging Center.
Anathea Portier-Young, Assistant Professor of Old Testament. B.A. (Yale University), M.A.B.L (Graduate Theological Union/Jesuit School of Theology at Berkeley), Ph.D. (Duke University).

Anathea Portier-Young's scholarship combines literary and theological approaches to the Old Testament with an interest in hermeneutics, history of interpretation, and the relationship between the Old Testament and Christian theology. She has focused in particular on theological themes of God’s mercy and justice, the alleviation of suffering, and traditions of violent and non-violent action. Her dissertation “Faithful Action: Jewish Theologies of Resistance in the Antiochian Persecution,” contextualizes the broad persecution under Antiochus IV Epiphanes. The thesis calls for a new appreciation of the dynamic interrelationship between ethics, theology, and the interpretation of Scripture in this pivotal period of Jewish history. Her next book, entitled Cursed Be Their Anger, will examine the narrative of the vengeance of Simeon and Levi in Genesis 34, with particular attention to later appropriations of this text in biblical and post biblical literature. Portier-Young has published an article on Tobit in the Catholic Biblical Quarterly and has an article on Joseph and Aseneth forthcoming in the Journal for the Study of the Pseudepigrapha.

Jefferson Powell, Professor of Law and Divinity, jointly with the Law School. B.A. (St. David's University College in Wales); M.Div., J.D. (Yale University); A.M., Ph.D. (Duke University).

Valerie B. Rosenquist, Adjunct Assistant Professor of Parish Work and Associate Director of The Duke Endowment Rural Church Division. B.A. (LeMoyne College); M.Div., Ph.D. (Duke University).

Valerie Rosenquist has been with the Rural Church Division of The Duke Endowment since 1996, serving as associate director. In this capacity, she is responsible for making grant requests to the trustees of The Duke Endowment from eligible beneficiaries. Many of the grants are made to Duke Divinity School, or to students in the school who serve as student pastors in rural United Methodist churches in their building programs and in outreach ministries. Prior to joining the endowment staff, Rosenquist was pastor of a rural church and taught history at North Carolina State University. She is author of The Iron Ore Eaters: A Portrait of the Mining Community of Moriah, N.Y. (Garland Press).

J. Warren Smith, Assistant Professor of Historical Theology. B.A. (Emory University), M.Div., S.T.M., Ph.D. (Yale University)

Dr. Smith's general area of study is historical theology with a primary focus on patristic theology. His dissertation to be published by Crossroad is entitled Passion and Paradise: the Mystical Psychology of Gregory of Nyssa. The work focuses on Nyssen’s treatment of the passions in the context of the eschatological transformation of human beings into the image of a passionless God. This work is a part of his larger interest in the relation between God’s creative purpose from the beginning and God’s final redemption of creation in the eschaton. Dr. Smith's article, “Suffering Impassibly Christ's Passion in Cyril of Alexandria's Soteriology” was published in the fall 2002 issue of Pro Ecclesia. He is a United Methodist minister and member of the North Georgia annual conference.
David C. Steinmetz, Amos Ragan Kearns Professor of the History of Christianity. B.A. (Wheaton College); B.D. (Drew University); Th.D. (Harvard University).

Professor Steinmetz is a specialist in the history of Christianity in the later Middle Ages and Reformation. In recent years he has concentrated on the history of biblical scholarship and learning in Europe from 1350 to 1600. Before coming to Duke in 1971, he taught at Lancaster Theological Seminary of the United Church of Christ. He has been a visiting professor at Harvard University and at the University of Notre Dame as well as a Guggenheim Fellow at Cambridge University and a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellow at the Herzog August Bibliothek in Wolfenbüttel, Germany. He serves as the general editor of the series, Oxford Studies in Historical Theology. He is currently editing a book for Cambridge entitled, The Cambridge Companion to Reformation Theology. He is a United Methodist minister in the North Carolina Annual Conference and a former president of the American Society of Church History.

Peter Storey, Ruth W. and A Morris Williams, Jr. Professor of the Practice of Christian Ministry. B.A. (Rhodes University); L.L.D. (Albion College); D.D. (Ohio Wesleyan University).

Professor Storey is former president of the Methodist Church of Southern Africa, past president of the South African Council of Churches, and was Methodist Bishop of the Johannesburg/ Soweto area for 13 years. A native South African, he was a national leader in the church struggle against apartheid, and is no stranger to arrest and threats on his life. In 1984, he co-led an ecumenical delegation to the United Nations, the U.S. Congress and Europe, urging intensified pressure on the apartheid regime. Committed to non-violence, Professor Storey co-chaired the regional Peace Accord structures intervening in political violence before South Africa’s first democratic elections. Later, President Nelson Mandela appointed him to help select the nation’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission. Specializing in urban ministry, he has served as director of a 24-hour crisis intervention service in Sydney, Australia, and senior minister of the Inner-City Methodist Mission in District Six, Cape Town, and the Central Methodist Mission in Johannesburg. In the 1960s, Professor Storey served as Mandela’s prison chaplain on Robben Island. He has authored many publications and was a weekly columnist for South Africa’s Sunday Independent, a national newspaper. He presented the Franklin S. Hickman Lectures at Convocation and Pastors’ School at Duke Divinity School in 1987, and is host of the latest Disciple Bible Series, Disciple 4.

James L. Travis III, Clinical Professor of Pastoral Care. B.A. (Mississippi College); B.D., Th.M. (Southern Baptist Theological Seminary); Ph.D. (Emory University).

Professor Travis’ clinical and academic interests have combined over 40 years of pastoral care and education in psychiatric and general hospitals. Earlier publications address issues such as liturgical worship in a psychiatric hospital and New Testament implications for pastoral care and counseling. Certified as a chaplain supervisor by the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education, he is interested in the formation and development of persons in the pastoral role, medical ethics, and pastoral care. His research interests include the relationship of pastoral care to health care and the measurement of objectives in CPE programs. Dr. Travis is chaplain to Duke University Hospital and director of pastoral services at Duke University Medical Center.

William C. Turner, Jr., Associate Professor of the Practice of Homiletics. B.S., M.Div., Ph.D. (Duke University).

Professor Turner’s ongoing work focuses on pneumatology and the tradition of spirituality and preaching within the black church. Articles on “Black Evangelicalism,” “The Musicality of Black Preaching,” and “The Black Church and the Ecumenical Tradition” reflect his teaching and writing interests. He taught in the areas of theology and Black Church Studies and directed the Office of Black Church Affairs prior to his appointment in homiletics. Professor Turner travels widely as a preacher and lecturer and is actively involved in local church and community activities. Dr. Turner held positions within Duke University in student affairs and African-American Studies before joining the Divinity School faculty.
John Utz, Director, Center for Theological Writing, Adjunct Assistant Professor of Literature and Theology, M.A.R., Ph.D., (Yale University)

Dr. Utz is interested in the renewal of the role of writing within the life of the church and the formation of its ministry. His work explores both the theological depths of conventional literature and the rhetorical challenges of writing theology well. As the director of the Duke Center for Theological Writing, he oversees programming, tutoring, curriculum, and electronic support that will strengthen our use of language at the seminary level and throughout the church. His research interests include the role of literature in grief and remembrance and the relationship between theology and aesthetics, in addition to a broader interest in American literature and culture. His teaching revolves around the historical employment of literary texts for pastoral and ethical discernment; recent courses include The Poetic Imagination and Christianity and Contemporary Literature.

Allen D. Verhey, Professor of Christian Ethics, B.A. (Calvin College); B.D. (Calvin Theological Seminary), Ph.D. (Yale University)

Dr. Verhey’s work has focused on the application of Christian ethics, especially in the area of medical and health practice. He has published widely, the author, editor or co-editor of 12 books, Reading the Bible in the Strange World of Medicine, is his latest. Verhey was director of the Institute of Religion at the Texas Medical Center for 2 years and served as the Blekkink professor of religion at Hope College for 10 years before coming to Duke Divinity.

Grant Wacker, Professor of Church History. B.A. (Stanford University); Ph.D. (Harvard University).

Grant Wacker joined the faculty after teaching in the Department of Religious Studies at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from 1977 to 1992. He specializes in the history of evangelicalism, pentecostalism, and world missions. He is the co-editor or author of six books, including Heaven Below: Early Pentecostals and American Culture. He is presently working on an interpretive survey of religion in United States history, with Randall Balmer and Harry S. Stout, to be published by Oxford University Press in 2004, and a cultural biography to be titled, Billy Graham and Modern America. Since 1997 Professor Wacker has served as a senior editor of the quarterly journal, Church History: Studies in Christianity and Culture.

A minister of the British Methodist Church, Dr. Wainwright taught theology in Cameroon, West Africa (1967-73), Birmingham, England (1973-79), and Union Theological Seminary, New York (1979-83). He has held visiting professorships at the University of Notre Dame, the Gregorian University in Rome, and the Uniting Faculty of Theology in Melbourne, Australia. He is author of Eucharist and Eschatology, Doxology, Worship with One Accord, and For Our Salvation: Two Approaches to the Work of Christ, and an editor of The Study of Liturgy and The Study of Spirituality. He was a member of the Faith and Order Commission of the World Council of Churches and currently chairs the international dialogue between the World Methodist Council and the Roman Catholic Church. His churchly interests are reflected in his books, The Ecumenical Moment and Methodists in Dialogue. His latest book is an intellectual and spiritual biography, Lesslie Newbigin: A Theological Life. President of the international Societas Liturgica in 1983-85 and of the American Theological Society in 1996-97, he was honored by the publication of Ecumenical Theology in Worship, Doctrine and Life: Essays Presented to Geoffrey Wainwright on his Sixtieth Birthday (1999). He teaches across the entire range of Christian doctrine and is particularly interested in the truth claims of faith and theology.
Lacey C. Warner, Assistant Professor of the Practice of Evangelism and Methodist Studies and the Royce and Jane Reynolds Teaching Fellow. B.A. (Trinity University); M.Div. (Duke University); Ph.D. (Trinity College, University of Bristol).

Professor Warner’s research interests in the historical theology of evangelism seek to inform and locate contemporary church practices within the larger Christian narrative. An aspect of her research focuses on nineteenth century women’s church work particularly evangelistic ministries assumed by women within the Wesleyan heritage. She is working on a book titled Saving Women: Re-visioning Evangelism that is supported by a grant from the Association of Theological Schools and Lilly Foundation. The author of several articles examining the historical context and theological motivations of women in evangelistic ministries, Dr. Warner’s dissertation addresses these themes within the late nineteenth century ministry of Methodist Deaconesses. Before coming to Duke, Dr. Warner taught on the faculty at Garrett-Evangelical Seminary as the E. Stanley Jones assistant professor of evangelism. An ordained elder, Dr. Warner is a full member of the Texas Annual Conference in the United Methodist Church having most recently served urban congregations in the Kingswood Circuit of the British Methodist Church.

Tammy R. Williams, Lecturing Fellow, Theology and Black Church Studies. B.S. (Georgetown University); M.Div. and Ph.D. candidate (Fuller Theological Seminary).

In her current doctoral work on the Lord’s Supper in the Afro-Baptist tradition, and in previous publications, Williams explores the social significance of the church’s practices. Her most recent article “Is There a Doctor in the House?” reflects on the practice of healing in African American churches. Williams is a licensed American Baptist preacher. She has preached in various church settings in England and South Africa, while pursuing studies at Cambridge and the University of Natal as a recipient of the Parish Pulpit Fellowship. She has been awarded fellowships from both The Louisville Institute and the Fund for Theological Education.

William H. Willimon, Professor of Christian Ministry. B.A. (Wofford College); M.Div. (Yale University); S.T.D. (Emory University); D.Hum.Litt. (Wofford College); D.D. (Westminster College, LeHigh University, Campbell University, Lafayette College, Colgate University, Centre College).

Professor Willimon teaches courses in preaching and worship in addition to his duties as dean of Duke University Chapel. Before coming to Duke, he served as pastor in churches in Georgia and South Carolina. His research and publication includes work in liturgics, homiletics, and pastoral care. He is the author of 50 books, two of which have been selected by the Academy of Parish Clergy as “the most useful book for pastors” in the years in which they were published. He has served the church as an editor of new worship resources, curriculum writer, and as a member of the United Methodist Commission on Worship. He is on the editorial board of a number of professional journals, including Quarterly Review and Christian Century and he has lectured in the United States, Korea, and Europe. Professor Willimon is an elder in the South Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church, and he was selected by a Baylor University survey as one of the “Twelve Most Effective Preachers in the English-Speaking World.”

Requirements and Procedures

The Divinity School is a fully accredited member of the Association of Theological Schools and is one of 13 accredited seminaries of the United Methodist Church. It considers candidates for admission that hold a bachelor's degree, or its equivalent, from a college approved by a regional accrediting body.

Preseminary Curriculum. The Divinity School follows the guidelines of the Association of Theological Schools with respect to undergraduate preparation for theological study. In general, this means a strong background in liberal arts, especially the humanities. A well-rounded background in English language and literature, history, philosophy, psychology, religion, social science, and foreign languages is especially desirable.

Application Procedures for Master of Divinity (M.Div.) and Master in Church Ministries (M.C.M.). Application forms, secured from the admissions office or downloaded from the Web site, should be filed six to 12 months in advance of the intended date of enrollment. There are three application deadlines for August enrollment: November 1, February 15 and April 1. There is no January enrollment; students may only start in August. Completed applications (including all supporting credentials) must be received in the admissions office by 5 p.m. on the application deadline day. Merit based scholarships will be awarded to those students who complete their application for the November 1 or the February 15 deadline. Those students whose applications are completed after the February 15 deadline will not be considered for merit based scholarships. Offers of admission for the M.Div. and M.C.M. programs will be made within three weeks of each application deadline.

The student should provide the following supporting documents and information: (1) one copy of the official transcript from each college, university, or seminary attended sent by the institution directly to the director of admissions; (2) one supplementary transcript, sent as soon as possible, showing completion of work that was in progress when the earlier transcript was made; and (3) the names of five persons who are best qualified to judge the applicant as a prospective student in the Divinity School and who will be contacted by the applicant for written letters of recommendation. Of these five references, two should be academic, two should be church (e.g. home pastor(s), campus minister, or denominational official), and one should be a general character reference.

Applicants for the Master of Church Ministries with a track in Health and Nursing Ministries must be registered nurses licensed or eligible for licensure in North Carolina. Applicants to this program must also supply, as one of their two academic references, a letter of recommendation from a former nursing supervisor or colleague, or member of the faculty of the nursing school they attended, attesting to their professional conduct and competence.

Materials submitted in support of an application are not released for other purposes and cannot be returned to the applicant. A nonrefundable $35 application fee must accompany the application, and the application cannot be processed without this fee. An application processing fee waiver is not available. Applicants are strongly urged to come for on-campus visits prior to final admission.

Admission Requirements. Those persons are encouraged to apply for the M.Div.:

1. who have or will have been awarded a bachelor’s degree from a regionally accredited college or university prior to their intended date of enrollment;
2. who have attained at least an overall B- (2.75 on 4.0 scale) academic average; and
3. who are committed to some form of ordained or lay ministry.

Applicants are evaluated on the basis of academic attainment, future promise for ministry, and vocational clarity and commitment. Students who are denied admission must wait one calendar year before reapplying to the Divinity School.

Admission to Limited Program. Limited program designates a special relationship between the school and the student, designed to encourage and support academic achievement. Students may be admitted to limited program for a number of reasons, including an undergraduate degree in a program other than liberal arts or an undergraduate transcript that does not fully meet Divinity School standards.

Limited program means reduced schedules of work, with the amount determined by the senior associate dean for academic programs (ordinarily no more than three courses each of the first two semesters), and also includes a review of work at the end of each semester by the Committee on Academic Standing until limited program status is lifted.

Application Procedures for Master of Theological Studies Program (M.T.S.). Application forms, which can be secured from the admissions office, should be filed six to 12 months in advance of the intended date of enrollment. Completed applications (including all supporting credentials) must be received in the admissions office by 5 p.m. February 1, 2005, for August 2005 enrollment. Enrollment for the M.T.S. program is competitive, with a maximum of 20 students enrolling each August. Offers of admission for the August M.T.S. class are announced during the last week of February.

The student should provide the following supporting documents and information:

1. one copy of the official transcript from each college, university, or seminary attended sent by the institution directly to the director of admissions;
2. one supplementary transcript, sent as soon as possible, showing completion of work that was in progress when the earlier transcript was made;
3. the names of two college (or seminary) professors who are best qualified to judge the applicant as a prospective student in the Divinity School and who will be contacted by the student for written letters of recommendation;
4. the names of two persons willing to serve as general character references who will be contacted by the student for a written letter of recommendation; and
5. the name of one person who will serve as a church reference.

Materials submitted in support of an application are not released for other purposes and cannot be returned to the applicant. A nonrefundable $35 application fee must accompany the application, and the application cannot be processed without this fee. An application processing fee waiver is not available. Applicants are strongly urged to come for on-campus visits prior to final admission.
Admission Requirements. Those persons are encouraged to apply for the M.T.S.:
1. who have been awarded a bachelor’s degree from a regionally accredited college or university prior to their intended date of enrollment;
2. who have attained at least an overall B+ (3.25 on a 4.0 scale) academic average;
3. who demonstrate program goals commensurate with this degree program; and
4. where applicable, who are committed to some form of lay ministry.

Application Procedures for Master of Theology Program (Th.M.). Application forms, which can be secured from the admissions office, should be filed six to 12 months in advance of the intended date of enrollment. There are three application deadlines for August enrollment: November 1, February 15 and April 1. There is no January enrollment; students may only start in August. Offers of admission will be made within three weeks of each application deadline.

The student should provide the following supporting documents and information: (1) one copy of the official transcript from each college, university, or seminary attended sent directly to the director of admissions by the institution; (2) one supplementary transcript, sent as soon as possible, from the seminary showing completion of work that was in progress when the earlier transcript was made; (3) the names of three seminary professors who are best qualified to judge the applicant as a prospective student in the Divinity School and who will be contacted by the student for written letters of recommendation, and (4) the name of one denominational official qualified to appraise the applicant’s ministerial work who will be contacted by the student for a written letter of recommendation.

Materials submitted in support of an application are not released for other purposes and cannot be returned to the applicant. A nonrefundable $35 application fee must accompany the application, and the application cannot be processed without this fee. An application processing fee waiver is not available. Applicants are strongly urged to come for on-campus visits prior to final admission.

Admission Requirements. Those persons are encouraged to apply for the Th.M.:
1. who have been awarded a bachelor’s degree from a regionally accredited college or university;
2. who have or will have been awarded the M.Div. degree (or the equivalent) from an accredited theological institution;
3. who have attained at least an overall B+ (3.25 on a 4.0 scale) academic average in their foundational theology degree;
4. who desire to continue or resume their theological education for enhancement of professional competence in selected areas of study.

Other than one scholarship per year for an international student, Master of Theology students are not eligible for any form of financial assistance through the Divinity School. Applicants are strongly urged to come for on-campus visits prior to final admission.

Policies and Procedures for International Students. In recognition of the invaluable contributions that students from outside the United States bring to theological discourse and to community life, Duke Divinity School welcomes all fully qualified international students to apply for all degree programs. Although applications from international students are accepted for all degree programs, the Divinity School prefers, due to the contextual nature of ministry to a congregation and our commitment to the needs of the world church, that students pursue the Master of Divinity and the Master in Church Ministries degrees in their respective home countries or regions.
Completed applications (including all supporting credentials) for international students must be received in the admissions office by 5 p.m., February 15, 2005, for August 2005 enrollment.

International students must, in addition to the information required of all students, submit the following with the application materials: (1) If the student's native language is not English, certification of English proficiency must be demonstrated by scores from the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Applicants to the M.Div. and M.C.M. degrees must also submit scores from the Test of Spoken English (TSE). Both tests are administered through the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, New Jersey. The Divinity School requires a TOEFL score of at least 580 on the paper-based test, or 237 on the computer-based test, and a TSE score of at least 50. An international student who completes an undergraduate degree at an accredited college/university in the United States may be allowed to waive these tests. (2) A statement of endorsement must be sent from an official (bishop, general secretary, etc.) of the student's native ecclesiastical body, affirming that ecclesiastical body's support for the student's pursuit of theological studies in the United States and welcoming the student into active ministry under its jurisdiction following the student's study in this country. (3) The Divinity School must have a statement demonstrating financial arrangements for the proposed term at the Divinity School. (Estimated minimum expenses per academic year for a single international student are $27,748 (see section on financial information). Figures are based on 2004-2005 charges and are subject to change. Living costs for additional family members should be figured on the basis of a minimum $400 per month for spouse and $260 per month per child.

Following acceptance, all entering international students must submit the full amount of the first year's tuition to the Divinity School Financial Aid Office by no later than June 1. The International Office will not be notified to begin the visa application process until the Divinity School receives the full tuition deposit. These funds will then be deposited in the student's university bursar account. If the international student does not enroll, the full amount of these funds deposited in the student's bursar account will be refunded to the student or his/her funding source.

Policies and Procedures for Students with Disabilities. Duke University and the Divinity School are committed to equality of educational opportunities for qualified students with disabilities in compliance with Section 504 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990. A student seeking information regarding documentation guidelines and procedures for receiving consideration for reasonable accommodations should contact Dr. Emma Swain at the University's Office of Services for Students with Disabilities. Please call (919) 668-1267 or visit the Office's Web site at www.access.duke.edu/studentissues.asp.

Admission as a Special Student. Special student status is a restricted category of admission for persons who do not have need of a degree program and who desire access to the rich offerings of the Divinity School curriculum for particular purposes (courses are taken for credit). Special student status may be granted after a person has submitted an application and all transcripts of undergraduate academic work, and when all three letters of recommendation have been received from listed references. Completed applications (application and all supporting credentials) for special student status must be submitted by July 1, 2005 for August 2005 enrollment. Admission as a special student is for one year (two semesters) only. A student desiring to continue as a special student beyond the one-year limit must re-apply. If a student is United Methodist and pursuing deacon's orders as a special student, he or she must obtain approval from the admissions office to extend studies beyond the one-year limit. Admission as a special student is distinct from admission to a degree program. There is no obligation on the part of the Divinity School to offer admission to the Master of Divinity, Master in Church Ministries, or Master of Theological Studies degree programs to persons who have been previously accepted as special students. Special students are ineligible for any form of financial assistance through the Divinity School.
Admission Acceptance. M.Div., M.C.M., and Th.M. applicants whose applications are completed by the November 1 deadline and who have been accepted to the Divinity School must indicate their acceptance of admission with a payment of a non-refundable admission fee of $100 as soon as possible and no later than February 1. M.Div., M.C.M. and Th.M. applicants whose applications are completed after November 1 and before the February 15 deadline and who have been accepted to the Divinity School must indicate their acceptance of admission with a payment of a non-refundable admission fee of $100 as soon as possible and no later than April 1. M.Div., M.C.M. and Th.M. applicants whose applications are completed after February 15 and before the April 1 deadline and who have been accepted to the Divinity School must indicate their acceptance of admission with a payment of a non-refundable admission fee of $100 as soon as possible and no later than May 1. Upon matriculation, the $100 fee is used to open the student’s account and is subtracted from the first semester fees.

M.T.S. applicants must indicate their acceptance of admission with a payment of a non-refundable admission fee of $100 on or before March 30 with the exception of Petry Scholarship recipients whose admission and fees are due by March 15. Upon matriculation, the $100 fee is used to open the student’s account and is subtracted from the first semester fees.

To complete admission, students must complete and return the student health form to the student health service. The admissions office must also receive a final transcript verifying the conferral of the undergraduate (for the M.Div., M.T.S. and M.C.M.) or seminary (for the Th.M.) degree.

Persons who do not matriculate at the time for which they were originally admitted forfeit admission unless they present a written request for deferral to the director of admissions. The application will then be placed in the deferred file and remain active for one calendar year. Deferrals of admission for the M.T.S. degree program are not permitted.

Transfer of Credit. Transfer of credit from theological schools accredited by the Association of Theological Schools is allowed by the Divinity School towards the Master of Divinity, Master in Church Ministry, and Master of Theological Studies degrees. Credit from another institution will normally be limited in the M.Div. program to one-third of the total number of credits required for graduation by the Divinity School and to one-quarter for the M.T.S. and M.C.M. Theological courses completed more than five years prior to the intended date of enrollment will not be considered for transfer credit. Only courses with a grade of B- or higher will be considered for transfer.

A student applying for a transfer from another seminary must include the following with the required application materials: (1) a statement of explanation and purpose for the proposed transfer; (2) a letter of honorable dismissal written by the academic dean or registrar of the seminary from which transfer is sought; (3) a letter of recommendation written by the director of either field education or student life of the seminary from which transfer is sought; and (4) on a separate sheet, a list designating all courses taken via the Internet, distance learning centers, extension centers, or other electronic media associated with the home seminary. Applicants for transfer into a degree program are evaluated on the same basis as other applicants.

Changing Degree Programs Once Enrolled at the Divinity School. Students enrolled in Duke Divinity School wishing to seek admission into a different degree program may reapply by submitting a statement of purpose as well as an additional letter of recommendation. In the case of transfer into the M.Div. or M.C.M. programs, the letter of recommendation may be from either a Duke Divinity School faculty member or a church-related official (pastor, campus minister, denominational official, etc.). In the case of transfer into the M.T.S. program, the letter should be from a Divinity School faculty member. Basic admission requirements for the specific degree program must be met in order to be considered.
Educational Requirements for United Methodist Elders and Deacons

• Elder’s Orders—As is true with most mainline denominations, the United Methodist Church requires completion of the Master of Divinity (M.Div.) degree for those seeking orders to “Word, Service, Sacrament, and Order” as an elder in full connection. During the 1996 General Conference of the United Methodist Church, legislation was passed enabling a new ordering of ministry with ordained orders for deacon and elder. Duke Divinity School offers the theological education necessary to complete the academic requirements for those persons who are considering either the order of deacon or the order of elder through the United Methodist Church. The following summary outlines the various routes of academic preparation within Duke’s degree offerings or through Special Student status:

• Deacon’s Orders—For those seeking ordination to “Word and Service” as a deacon in full connection, the United Methodist Church has provided three educational options:
  1. Completion of a basic theological degree (M.Div., M.C.M., M.T.S.) that includes the requirements for 24 credit hours (nine courses at Duke) in basic graduate theological studies (Theology, Old Testament, New Testament, Mission of the Church, Evangelism, Worship, Church History, and the two-semester class United Methodist Doctrine, Polity, and History).
  2. For those who already hold a professional master’s degree in the area of specialized ministry in which the candidate will serve (M.S.W., M.A., etc.), the candidate must, in addition, complete 24 credit hours (nine courses at Duke) in basic graduate theological studies at a graduate theological seminary recognized by the United Methodist University Senate. This academic route may be fulfilled as a Special Student.
  3. For those age 35 or older, there is the possible alternate route to ordination as a deacon through professional certification or licensing and additional graduate credit in one’s area of specialization, as well as the required 24 credit hours of basic graduate theological studies. This academic route may be fulfilled as a Special Student.

For more information on the various routes of theological education for ordination, a candidate is encouraged to contact the United Methodist Division of Ordained Ministry’s Section on Elders (615-340-7416) or Section on Deacons (615-340-7371). Additionally, it is always prudent to maintain communication with one’s own Annual Conference regarding respective conference’s additional requirements for theological education and preparation for ministry.

Conduct Covenant: Duke Divinity School

We, the faculty and students in the Divinity School of Duke University, make covenant, individually and corporately, to uphold the highest standards of personal and academic integrity. This includes, but is not limited to, never lying, cheating, stealing, causing harm to self or others, or defacing property. Set aside by our calling, we hold ourselves and each other to the highest standards of conduct.

As a Divinity School committed to forming and educating persons for the ministry of Jesus Christ, we covenant together to embody truth in every aspect of our lives, including our academic work. In joyful obedience to Christ, we gratefully involve our bodies, minds, and spirits in this community of discipline and love, recognizing that we are a people called to worship God by the Spirit of truth.*

For more information on the Conduct Covenant and judicial procedures, please see Appendix II in the Appendices section in the back of this bulletin.

Readmission to Duke Divinity School

Persons seeking readmission to the Divinity School’s degree programs must complete the following requirements: (1) submit a new application; (2) submit an additional statement detailing reasons for withdrawal and reasons for seeking readmission at this time, and describing activities and employment undertaken since withdrawal; (3) submit the names of at least three persons willing to serve as references who will be contacted by the student, one of which must be an ecclesiastical official; and (4) transcripts of all academic work undertaken since withdrawal from the Divinity School.

These new materials, supplemented by the individual’s original application and Divinity School academic and field education files, will be reviewed by the members of the admissions committee for an admission decision. An interview with the director of admissions prior to the processing of the application for readmission is encouraged and may be required. Any questions about readmission procedures should be addressed to the director of admissions. Applications for readmission will be evaluated on the basis of academic attainment, future promise for the ministry, and vocational clarity and commitment.

*Duke Divinity School is a Christian community shaped by the Gospel of Jesus Christ. While we do not expect members of other faith traditions to share the theological framework out of which this covenant was developed, we welcome into our community anyone who is willing to live and work under the standards of conduct specified herein.
Student Life
Corporate Worship

One of the most important aspects of training for Christian life is vigorous, inspiring, and varied participation in corporate worship. The corporate worship of the Divinity School, under the guidance of the Divinity School chaplain, is centered in York Chapel. Eight services are held weekly: services of morning prayer on Monday through Friday, a service of Word and Table on Wednesday, a service of Word on Thursday, and a service in the Revivalist tradition (Pentecostal Holiness, and Charismatic) on Friday. The Divinity Choir sings regularly for weekday worship. Faculty members, administrators, and students share joint responsibility for these services that express the variety and diversity of theological and liturgical traditions represented in the community.

The Divinity School enjoys a particularly close relationship with Duke Chapel. Throughout the year, Divinity School administrators and faculty, as well as guests of national and international stature, preach at Sunday morning worship services. Each year many of our students join the 200-plus member Duke Chapel Choir that provides choral music on Sunday mornings and special music programs throughout the academic year, including an annual Christmas performance of Handel’s Messiah. Divinity students and faculty also contribute to the leadership of the ministry of Duke Chapel by chairing and serving on standing committees: Faith and the Arts, Supportive Ministries, Worship, Prophetic Concerns, and Leadership and Development. Students are also strongly encouraged to involve themselves in the life of a local church community, either through the field education program or on one’s own initiative.

Spiritual Formation Groups

The curriculum of Duke Divinity School seeks to cultivate—as one unified reality—a life of prayer, a life of study, and a life of service. Central to this reality is the experience of spiritual formation through prayer in small groups. Entering M.Div. and M.C.M. students (optional for M.T.S. students) participate in a year-long immersion in groups of seven to eight colleagues led by a local pastor or staff member. These groups meet weekly for an hour to share concerns, to discuss how to be formed as disciples, how to be faithful in one’s spiritual life, to reflect theologically on the nature of Christian service, and, primarily, to pray together. Additionally, this opportunity is intended to help prepare seminary students for the challenge of being spiritual leaders in their own respective contexts of ministry. Many students continue this invaluable first-year experience by participation in a variety of student-initiated spiritual formation groups during their second and third years. First year spiritual formation also includes two retreats that provide an opportunity for prayerful reflection and solitude in the midst of a rigorous academic schedule.

Student Activities and Organizations

“We the students of the Divinity School of Duke University covenant together to be a community of faith under the Gospel of Jesus Christ. We seek to be faithful to the Gospel, to live a life of grace and justice, and to make known to the world the love of God for the world" (Preamble, Constitution of the Student Association). In the absence of common living and dining accommodations, community life in the Divinity School centers on a number of organizations and activities.

The Student Association. The Student Association is comprised of all students in the Divinity School. The Association is served by the Student Life Ministry (SLM), an organization with a threefold purpose:

1. to express itself as a community of faith in witness and fellowship;
2. to provide student programs, activities, and services; and
3. to collect and raise money, through dues and other channels, to help accomplish these purposes.

Members of the SLM are students who are nominated and elected annually by the student body. Within the SLM, there are several ministry teams designed to provide students with opportunities to express and share personal, professional, and spiritual development with each other. These include:

The Basin and Towel Ministry Team is responsible for offering the community opportunities to participate in educational programs, spiritual/theological reflection, and outreach and service focused on the scriptural call to social justice and compassion.

The Campus Relations Ministry Team is responsible for facilitating interaction between the Divinity School and the greater university. Divinity School representation at the Graduate and Professional Student Council meetings will be provided by members of this team. The team helps create opportunities for fellowship with graduate students from other programs, provides interdisciplinary academic programming, and helps keep Divinity students informed of larger campus issues and activities.

The Community Care Ministry Team is responsible for hospitality and nurture within the Divinity School community. This includes maintaining the community Prayer Board, meeting regularly to pray for the Divinity School community, and working with the Office of the Divinity School chaplain to coordinate appropriate responses to students in crisis or with special needs. This team also organizes and administers the student mentor program, KOINONOI.

The Fellowship Ministry Team plans community-wide events for students and faculty and their families. The activities include social gatherings during orientation, meals and parties at holiday times, and fellowship times throughout the school terms. The team also sponsors “Live at the Lampstand,” a popular monthly event through which students, faculty, and staff share their various musical and artistic talents with the entire community.

The Spiritual Formation Ministry Team will assist the Divinity School chaplain with the promotion of spiritual formation within the Divinity School by helping coordinate and oversee student-led spiritual formation groups, as well as providing other appropriate programming.

The Student Publications Ministry Team is responsible for oversight of student publications, including the student newspaper, The Divine Nous, and the annual literary magazine.

In addition to these ministry teams, the following student organizations receive funding from and/or have representation in the SLM:

Black Seminarians’ Union. This organization’s purpose is to ensure the development of a theological perspective commensurate with the Gospel of Jesus Christ and relevant to the needs of black seminarians and the black church. Its goal is to improve the quality of life theologically, academically, spiritually, politically, and socially for the entire Divinity School community.

Church Educators Fellowship. As a professional organization for persons who serve or intend to serve as professional Christian educators, CEF interprets the role of the Christian educator in the total ministry of the church and provides support, fellowship, and professional relationships. In addition to monthly program meetings, a Christian education emphasis week is held each spring.

Divinity Choir. Membership is open to all qualified students. The choir sings regularly for weekday worship and at special seasonal programs and services. New members are chosen by informal auditions that are arranged for all that are interested.

Divinity Spouses. This organization provides social, spiritual, and educational activities for married students and their spouses with the aim of helping spouses know that they are also important, contributing, and welcomed members of the Divinity School community.

Internationally Minded People of Faith (IMPF). A group for international students and students with interest in international study and mission that meets for fellowship and to discuss experiences and issues.

Order of St. Luke. Formed to recover the worship and sacramental practice that has sustained the church since its formation in apostolic times, the Order of St. Luke is a religious order within the United Methodist Church. Members seek to recover the spiritual disciplines of John and Charles Wesley as a means of perceiving and fulfilling the church’s mission. Membership in the order is open to all seminarians.

Sacred Dance Group. A group of students who participate in the leadership of community worship through the expression of dance.

Sacred Worth. The purpose of this group is to serve the Divinity School community by increasing awareness of lesbians and gays in the church. All members of the community are invited to participate, and the group seeks to promote understanding about homosexuality in the church through various opportunities for discussion and dialogue.

Spiritual Formation Groups. While students advance in the area of academics, they have a corresponding need to attend to their spiritual development. In addition to the required spiritual formation groups for entering M.Div. and M.C.M. students, there are several student-initiated small groups for upperclass students. These groups meet regularly throughout the academic year to nurture spiritual growth. Students, faculty, and staff are all invited to participate.

Student Pastors’ Association. Students actively serving their denominations in an ordained or lay capacity have the opportunity to meet, to share, to plan, and to act on their common needs and concerns.

The Divine Nous. This student newspaper reports on activities, posts information on field education opportunities, and announces important events in the community. The paper also gives students a forum for voicing opinions, perspectives, and ideas.

Theological Student Fellowship. TSF is a student group formed for students who seek to understand, study, and discuss evangelical perspectives on issues in theological education and the church. Meetings are bi-weekly.

Ubuntu Groups. Spiritual formation groups of 10 to 12 students which meet on a weekly basis to discuss the impact of race on individual lives, the Divinity School, and society at large.

Women’s Center. The Women’s Center serves the entire Divinity School community through a focus on the special needs and contributions of women in ministry in and to the church and society. The office, coordinated by two women students, is a resource center for the whole community, in addition to a support and action center for women in particular.

Faculty Committees. The student body is also represented on various faculty committees. Students serve with faculty and administration on the Admissions, Field Education Policy, Financial Aid Policy, Faculty Search, Worship, Fine Arts, Lectures, and other committees.

Graduate and Professional Student Council (GPSC). The organization which represents and advocates for the interests and needs of graduate and professional students at Duke University. Divinity students who are interested are encouraged to participate in this body. For more information, please see the following Web site: www.duke.edu/gpsc. For general information about Duke University graduate and professional student life, see the following Web site: www.gradschool.duke.edu

Living Accommodations

Off-Campus Housing. The majority of Divinity students live in off-campus apartment complexes because of their proximity to the school and their competitive rental rates. Off-campus rental properties are not inspected or approved by Duke University, nor does the university or its agents negotiate with owners for students. For assistance with off-campus housing options for graduate and professional students, please contact Duke Community Housing at (919) 660-1785 or visit the Web site: www.communityhousing.duke.edu. For assistance with Divinity School roommates, contact the Admissions Office of the Divinity School.

On-Campus Housing. Limited on-campus housing is available for single and married (with or without children) graduate students at Central Campus Apartments and Townhouse Apartments. In recognition of the unique challenges that face entering international students, priority for assignment to graduate student housing will be awarded to those students who arrive from abroad on student visa status. Applications received from domestic students prior to May 1 will be wait-listed. After May 1, space that has not yet been assigned to international students will be made available to domestic students in the order in which applications were received. All students who request university housing are strongly encouraged to apply early. For more information, contact Housing Administration, 218 Alexander Street, Apt. B., Durham, NC 27705, (919) 684-4304 or visit http://rlhs.studentaffairs.duke.edu/house04/.

Students with disabilities who wish to explore the possibility of reasonable accommodations in on-campus housing should contact Dr. Emma Swain at the Office of Services for Students with Disabilities at (919) 668-1267.

Residential Advisor On-Campus Housing. On-campus housing is available to graduate students who serve in residential advisor (R.A.) positions. This program includes free room and a stipend. Many Divinity students find this a helpful way to finance their theological education and to get involved in the larger university community. Students interested in serving as residential advisors should contact the Residence Life and Housing Services West Campus, Box 90918, 107 West Union, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0918, (919) 668-0746 or visit http://rlhs.studentaffairs.duke.edu and click on “announcements”. Residential advisor applications are normally due the last week in January, and advisors are selected in March for the following academic year. However, interested students admitted to the Divinity School after March should contact the Residential Life Office in the event that openings are still available.
Dining Services. Dining Services facilities accepts points, flex, and cash and are located throughout the Duke campus. More information about the specific dining units is available by visiting the Dining Services website at http://auxweb.duke.edu/dining or by contacting the Dining Services Administrative Office at 660-3900, Box 90898, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0898. West Campus facilities include The Great Hall, The Loop, Alpine Bagels, Chick-fil-A, The Faculty Commons, Subway/Breyers, Pauly Dogs (all located in the West Union Building), the Armadillo Grill, McDonald's, Alpine Atrium (located in the Bryan Center), The Perk (located in Perkins Library), JD's (located in the Law School), Sanford Deli (located in the Sanford Institute Building), Quenchers (located in the Wilson Recreation facility), Rick's Diner and The Blue Devil Beanery (both located in West Edens Link) and the Terrace Café (located in Duke Gardens). Other dining options not on West Campus include The Marketplace and Trinity Café (East Union Building-East Campus), Blue Express (located in the Levine Science Research Center) and Grace's Café (Trent).

Child Care Resources

Duke University's Staff and Family Programs in the Office of Human Resources has designed a Web page to assist interested persons in choosing quality child care or early education programs in the Durham area. This office also offers information and consultation on many family and work issues, including elder care, babysitters, nanny agencies and services, summer camps and programs, a lending library, a directory of classes on parenting, etc. Please visit this helpful site at http://www.hr.duke.edu/childcare/. In addition to doubling the capacity of its on-campus child care facility, Duke has also partnered with Child Care Services Association in order that Duke faculty, staff, and students will receive priority for vacant spaces at several area child care centers. For more information regarding this Duke Child Care Partnership, visit the Duke Human Resources website at www.hr.duke.edu/dccp.

Student Health

The aim of the university health service is to provide medical care and health advice necessary to help the student enjoy university life and community.

Student Health Center. Student Health provides primary and on-site urgent care. The Student Health Center is located in the sub-basement of Duke Hospital South in the Orange Zone. Emergency transportation, if required, can be obtained from the Duke campus police. Residential staff personnel or Divinity School administrators should be consulted whenever possible for assistance in obtaining emergency treatment.

The facilities of the university health service clinic are available during both regular and summer sessions to all currently enrolled full-time and part-time degree students. The facilities of the university infirmary are available during the regular sessions, from the opening of the university in the fall until graduation day in the spring, to all currently enrolled full-time and part-time degree students. All currently enrolled full-time and part-time degree candidates are assessed a mandatory student health fee each semester (in the 2003-2004 academic year, the fee was $262 per semester). Non-degree students are not assessed the fee. For more information on the student health fee, visit http://healthydevil.studentaffairs.duke.edu/.

Student Insurance. Student insurance provides coverage for most specialists, emergency room, off-site urgent care, and major medical expenses. The university has made available a single student health insurance plan ($1,363) for major medical care for all full- and part-time degree students for a 12-month period (all prices are subject to change). Each full- or part-time degree student must purchase this student insurance or complete the waiver statement indicating that he/she is covered by other generally comparable insurance. The family insurance plan also covers primary health care for the family at Duke health care facilities at 80 percent of the usual, customary, and reasonable allowance after the deductible has been satisfied. For more information on the insurance plans, please contact the plan administrator: Hill, Chesson, and Associates, P.O. Box 52207, Durham, NC 27717-2207, (919) 489-7426 or visit the Web site: www.hillchesson.com

Students with Disabilities. Duke University and The Divinity School are committed to equality of educational opportunities for qualified students with disabilities in compliance with Section 504 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. A student seeking information regarding documentation guidelines and procedures for receiving consideration for reasonable accommodations should contact Dr. Emma Swain at the University’s Office of Services for Students with Disabilities. Please call (919) 684-5917 or visit the Office’s Web site at http://aaswebsv.aas.duke.edu/skills/OSSDwebsite/. The Divinity School’s Disabilities Services Liaison is Gregory F. Duncan, associate dean for student services.

Counseling and Psychological Services. Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) is a component of student services that provides a coordinated, comprehensive range of counseling and developmental services to assist and promote the personal growth of Duke students. The professional staff is composed of psychologists, clinical social workers, and psychiatrists experienced in working with students of all ages. They are also available to the entire university community for consultation, educational activities in student development, and mental health issues affecting not only individual students but the campus community as a whole.

CAPS maintains a policy of strict confidentiality concerning information about each student’s contact with the CAPS staff. There are no charges for initial evaluation, brief counseling/ psychotherapy, or self-development seminars. Appointments may be made by calling 660-1000 or coming by the office in 214 Page Building, West Campus, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. If a student’s concern needs immediate attention, that should be made known to the secretary, and every effort will be made to arrange for the student to talk with a staff member at the earliest possible time.

Sexual Assault Support Services. Located in the Duke Women’s Center, the Office of Sexual Assault Support Services offers advocacy, support, information resources in the university, and a crisis information and referral line (681-6882) for victims of sexual assault and past sexual violence. S.A.S.S. offers support groups for survivors and their friends or partners, as well as on-going educational programs to alert students to problems of interpersonal violence. For more information, call the Duke Women’s Center at 684-3897.

Harassment Policy. In order to create and maintain an environment in which everyone can work and learn free from harassment, inequitable treatment, and unlawful discrimination, Duke University has adopted a far-reaching harassment policy. This policy applies to all persons who are enrolled or employed at Duke University while they are on campus or are participating in a university-sponsored activity off-campus. The policy covers not only sexual harassment issues, and not only harassment against individuals in protected classes such as race, gender, and disability, but harassment of any kind that meets the threshold of severity or persistence. The university’s Office of Institutional Equity is responsible for administering the harassment policy. Additionally, each school at the university has designated Harassment Prevention Advisors (HPA) who are responsible for receiving complaints and offering advice on an informal basis. The Divinity School’s Harassment Prevention Advisors are Dr. Laceye Warner, assistant professor of the practice of evangelism and Methodist studies, and Gregory F. Duncan, associate dean for student services. For more information on Duke’s Harassment Policy or to view the Harassment Policy, please visit the following Web site: www.duke.edu/web/ equity/harass.htm.
Motor Vehicle Registration

Students possessing or maintaining a motor vehicle at Duke University must register it at the beginning of the academic year for purposes of parking. If a motor vehicle is acquired and maintained/parked after academic registration, it must be registered within five calendar days after operation on the campus begins.

Students may register vehicles at University Parking Services (2010 Campus Drive) or by visiting the Parking Services Web site at www.parking.duke.edu. At the time of registration the student will need: license plate number, social security number, local address and phone number, and year/make/color of motor vehicle. The fee can be paid by check, cash, or credit card.

Campus Security

The Duke University Police Department provides comprehensive law enforcement and security services to all components of Duke University. Under the federal Campus Security Act (20 U.S.C. 1092f), prospective students may obtain a copy of the university's annual security report by visiting the Duke University Police Department at 502 Oregon St., Durham, N.C. or by calling (919) 684-3350. You can also visit the Duke Police Department Web site at www.duke.edu/web/police/. This report includes campus crime statistics and the university's safety and security policies.

Cultural Resources

Divinity School students enjoy access to the many resources of the university community, particularly in the area of the performing arts. Two active campus film societies sponsor screenings of major motion pictures on Saturday and Sunday evenings. Other films of a classical nature are offered on Tuesday through Thursday nights, with free films for children scheduled every other Saturday morning. Opportunities in music, dance, and drama are provided by the following: the Duke Artists Series, Broadway at Duke, the Chamber Arts Society, Hoof 'n Horn, the Duke University Collegium Musicum, Duke Players, Duke Dance, the Duke University Symphony Orchestra and the Wind Symphony, the Duke University Jazz Ensemble, the Cimompi Quartet, Dance Black, and the Modern Black Mass Choir, among others.

Athletic Programs

In addition to unrestricted access to all university athletic and recreational facilities, Divinity students enjoy other benefits from Duke's commitment to college athletics. The university is a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, and offers intercollegiate competition in a variety of sports. Admission to all intercollegiate athletic events except men's basketball is free to graduate and professional students using their university I.D. cards. Season tickets to men's basketball games are subject to a camp-out and lottery system operated by the Graduate and Professional School Council. The university supports a strong intramural program in which the Divinity School participates enthusiastically. In recent seasons the school has fielded teams in football, men's, women's, and co-rec basketball, volleyball, soccer, and softball.

Tuition during 2003-2004 was charged at the rate of $1,665 per course. The figures shown are for a program carrying eight courses per year. Students will be charged for additional course enrollments.

Master of Theology Candidates. A student who is a candidate for the Th.M. degree will be liable for tuition for eight courses. All other costs and regulations for the Th.M. degree are the same as those for the M.Div. degree. Th.M. students are not ordinarily eligible for institutional financial aid, although they may qualify for federal loans.

Special Student. A special student is one who is enrolled for academic credit, but who is not a candidate for a degree at that time. The tuition will be charged on a course basis. No financial aid is available.

International Students. All entering international students must submit the full amount of the first year’s tuition to the Divinity School financial aid office by no later than June 1 for Fall enrollment. (See further details in the admissions section entitled “Policies and Procedures for International Students”). All returning international students are required to make an appointment with the financial aid office prior to June 1 to review funding sources for the upcoming academic year (including field education grants, outside resources, scholarships, and other employment). If there are funding concerns, the international office will help the student explore work authorization and visa options.

Audit Fee. Anyone seeking to audit a course in the Divinity School must, with the consent of the instructor concerned, secure permission from the senior associate dean’s office. In accordance with the general university practice, a fee of $100 per course will be charged to all auditors who are not enrolled as full-time students.

Late Registration Fee. Continuing students who fail to register during the registration period must pay a fee of $50 to the bursar.
Course Continuation Fee. In instances where a student has registered for but not completed all the courses or requirements for their program, a $100 fee is required. Register for CCF 101,102.

Estimated Total Costs. The total cost for nine months (including tuition for eight courses, all applicable fees, books, room, board and other living expenses) for a student to attend Duke Divinity School varies according to individual tastes and requirements and is estimated to be $27,748.

Housing Fees. Estimated minimum off-campus housing cost for a single student (one-bedroom apartment) is approximately $4,366 during 2004-2005. A shared apartment in an off-campus, privately owned apartment complex averages $400-$485 per person per month in rent and utilities. Rates for Central Campus Apartments will be quoted to applying students upon request to the manager of apartments and property. Refunds on housing fees will be made in accordance with the established schedules of the university.

Athletic Fee. Divinity School students may secure admission to all regularly scheduled university athletic contests (except men’s varsity basketball games) held on the university grounds during the entire academic year simply by presenting the student identification card. Season tickets to the men’s varsity basketball games are secured through a lottery system and cost approximately $150 per season.

Motor Vehicle Registration Fee. For specifics see the chapter “Student Life” or visit www.parking.duke.edu.

Payment and Penalty. Invoices for tuition, fees, and other charges will be sent by the bursar’s office and are payable by the invoice due date. As a part of the agreement of admission to Duke University, a student is required to pay all invoices as presented. If full payment is not received, a late payment charge as described below will be assessed on the next invoice and certain restrictions as stated below will be applied. A monthly tuition payment plan is now available through Tuition Management Systems. For more information on this plan, please call 1-800-722-4867 or write to Tuition Management Systems, P.O. Box 3013, Cedar Rapids, Iowa 52406-9114. If payment in the amount of the total amount due on the student invoice is not received by the invoice due date, a penalty charge will be accrued from the billing date of the invoice. The penalty charge will be at a rate of 1.25 percent per month (16 percent per annum) applied to the past due balance on the student invoice. The past due balance is defined as the previous balance less any payments and credits received during the current month and also any student loan memo credits, related to the previous balance, which appear on the invoice.

An individual will be in default of this agreement if the total amount due on the student invoice is not paid in full by the invoice due date. An individual who is in default will not be allowed to register for classes, receive a transcript of academic records, have academic credits certified, be granted a leave of absence, or receive a diploma at graduation. In addition, an individual in default may be subject to withdrawal from school.

Refunds of tuition and fees are governed by the following policy:

1. In the event of death, a full tuition and fees refund will be granted.

2. In all other cases of withdrawal from school, tuition will be refunded according to the following schedule:
   - withdrawal before the opening of classes—full refund;
   - withdrawal during the first or second week—80 percent;
   - withdrawal during the third through fifth week—60 percent;
   - withdrawal during the sixth week—20 percent;
withdrawal after the sixth week–no refund. No refund will be granted for reduction in course load after the drop-add period.

Tuition or other charges paid from grants or loans will be restored to those funds on the same pro rata basis and will be refunded to the student or carried forward. These regulations apply to all Divinity School students–degree candidates, special students, and auditors.

Debts. No records are released, and no students are considered by the faculty as candidates for graduation, until they have settled with the bursar for all indebtedness. Bills may be sent to parents or guardians provided the bursar has been requested in writing to do so. Failure to pay all university charges on or before the times specified by the university for the semester will bar the student from class attendance until the account is settled in full.

Student Financial Aid

A student should select a school on the basis of educational opportunity. At the same time, financial consideration will be a legitimate and often pressing concern. Each student should formulate at least a tentative plan for financing the entire seminary education. Although the exact method of financing the full theological degree may not be assured at the beginning, a student should have a clear understanding of the expenses and available sources of income for the first year and the assurance that there exist ways of financing subsequent years. As Duke Divinity School seeks to handle its financial resources with a view toward Christian charity and stewardship, the school expects responsibility and integrity of students befitting their Christian commitment. While the financial aid office is willing to aid students with financial counsel, the student and the student’s family will bear a significant share of the educational expenses. In addition to personal and family resources, earnings, and loans, a student may seek financial assistance from his or her local church, civic groups, and foundations. The Divinity School financial aid may include scholarships, grants, field education grants, employment, or loans. Students should plan a financial program that incurs as little indebtedness as possible.

Most Divinity School students receive some form of financial assistance, and students need to be mindful that such aid is a privilege to be enjoyed thanks to the many benefactors who have graciously given funds to the school. The total amount of aid available through the Divinity School is limited. Further, the conditions set forth by the individual or institutional donors determine the circumstances under which the grants can be made. Almost without exception, the donors require ecclesiastical endorsement and/or declaration of ministerial vocational aim.

In the interest of providing reasonable accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Divinity School will permit students with appropriately documented disabilities that prevent them from carrying a full course load (minimally three courses per semester) to enroll in either one or two courses per semester and retain eligibility for Divinity School financial assistance. Such accommodation will be authorized by the associate dean for student services. Contested decisions regarding this accommodation may be brought before the financial aid appeals committee. Students so authorized are free to reduce their course load accordingly while maintaining Divinity School, and, where applicable and permitted, other forms of financial assistance. Students so authorized to enroll less than full time and retain eligibility for Divinity School financial aid are expected to return to full-time enrollment if and/or when their medical condition improves sufficiently to permit it.

Students who have questions about the Divinity School’s response to their financial aid request should first contact the financial aid office. Where desired, students may file an appeals form for full review by the financial aid appeals committee.
Tuition Grants. Grants for M.Div. and M.C.M. students, ranging up to 33 percent of tuition in the first year and 22 percent of tuition in succeeding years, are offered in amounts commensurate with demonstrated need as determined by a review of financial aid application materials. Several tuition grants based on demonstrated need and ranging up to 22 percent of tuition per year are awarded to M.T.S. students in the first and second years of study. Because of the purpose of and educational objectives of the school, resources for tuition grants are primarily available to students with declared aims leading to ordination or recognized lay ministries.

The principles regarding the disbursement of institutional grants are as follows:

1. Tuition grants are recommended on the basis of demonstrated need and availability of funds. All students must file a Divinity School Application for Financial Aid, the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). In some cases previous year federal income tax documents, which substantiate need and provide full information on potential resources may be requested. In order to receive tuition grant assistance from the Divinity School, a student must be enrolled for at least three courses per semester and maintain an overall academic average of 2.0 or higher. Falsification of a financial aid application is a serious offense subject to the provisions of the Divinity School’s Judicial Procedures.

2. Grants will be made within the limits of the conditions set forth governing each source.

3. The conditions at the beginning of the academic year determining financial needs shall be the governing criteria for the year. Financial aid programs are set up on a yearly basis, except for those students who may enter the second semester and/or those few whose status may change.

4. Financial aid grants are made on an academic-year basis. The assistance may consist of tuition grants, field education grants, employment, and loans. A new application must be filed each year.

5. Tuition grants are balloononed for the first year of study to assist students as much as possible through their transitional first year at Duke. Consequently, grants for the second and third years of study will be less than those awarded for the critical first year.

6. Financial aid application forms are available through the Divinity School financial aid office. Financial aid application deadlines are April 5 for entering M.T.S. students and May 3 for M.Div., M.C.M., and returning M.T.S. students. Financial aid applications for students anticipating fall matriculation are reviewed beginning the prior March. Student pastors serving United Methodist churches can be notified after the pastoral charge and annual conference determine salary schedules.

7. Ordinarily, tuition grants are not available beyond six semesters for a student enrolled in four courses per semester (eight for students enrolled in three courses per semester).

8. Financial aid resources for M.T.S. students are limited. Candidates are encouraged to apply early.

9. Special students and Th.M. students (with the exception of one international scholar annually) are not eligible for any form of financial assistance from the Divinity School. Th.M. students are eligible to apply for denominational and federal loans.
Merit Scholarship Program

A limited number of merit scholarships are available to encourage qualified students to pursue their preparation for the Christian ministry. Scholarships are not deferrable. Students applying for admission to the M.Div., M.C.M., and M.T.S. degrees are automatically considered for scholarships. Merit scholarships are awarded for August admission on the basis of merit and require full-time enrollment. To retain scholarships, students must maintain satisfactory academic progress as defined in this section.

Satisfactory Academic Progress for Students with Merit Scholarships

The principles regarding Satisfactory Academic Progress are as follows:

1. If a scholarship student’s GPA declines over two consecutive semesters but remains above the 3.0 GPA threshold, a consultation with the academic dean and associate dean for student services will be required.

2. If a scholarship student’s cumulative GPA at the end of each academic year (August to May) falls in the range from 2.5 to under 3.0, the student will be placed on scholarship probation for the first semester of the next academic year:
   a) Students on probation must inform and receive approval from the academic dean re: courses registered for during the probationary semester; such students will be required to follow the paradigm.
   b) The student’s cumulative GPA must be above the 3.0 threshold at the end of the probationary semester; if not, the student forfeits the scholarship. If the cumulative GPA exceeds the 3.0 threshold following the probationary semester, the student retains the scholarship.
   c) Only one probationary semester is granted during a student’s tenure at the Divinity School. Consequently, if the cumulative GPA of a scholarship student who has already been on probation falls below 3.0 a second time, the student must forfeit the scholarship.

3. A scholarship student whose cumulative GPA at the end of each academic year (August to May) falls below 2.5 automatically forfeits the scholarship with no probationary period allowed.

4. Academic misconduct (cheating, plagiarism, etc.) may result in scholarship forfeiture.

Divinity Fellowships. Divinity Fellowships, ranging up to 100 percent of tuition per year are awarded to entering M.Div. and M.C.M. students. To be considered, students must have a minimum cumulative 3.5 GPA from their undergraduate or graduate program and have started the candidacy process for ordination in the UMC or the process that leads to ordination in another denomination. Recipients must enroll in four courses per semester. Divinity Fellows will also participate in at least one sustained-learning forum with clergy, laity, faculty, and selected master’s and doctoral students.

Fellows will also receive a full-time summer field education placement in one of 15 teaching congregations from across the country.

Duke Scholarships. Duke Scholarships, ranging up to 100 percent of tuition are awarded to both entering and returning students who demonstrate outstanding academic achievement and exceptional promise for either ordained or diaconal/lay ministry. Up to eight scholarships are awarded annually to entering Master of Divinity and Master in Church Ministries candidates. Up to three additional scholarships are offered to rising middler students in these programs (who have completed at least seven... courses). The scholarship will be renewed each year so long as the recipient (1) maintains satisfactory academic progress and (2) is growing in his or her understanding, skills, and commitment to the ministry of the church. The specific amount of the scholarship will vary according to the recipient’s academic course load and will not exceed 100 percent of tuition for the academic year.

Ray C. Petry Scholarships. Up to four Petry scholarships, ranging up to 100 percent of tuition are awarded to entering M.T.S. students on the basis of academic excellence and promise of significant future contributions in the field of religious studies. The Petry Scholarships are renewable in the second year of study assuming the recipient maintains satisfactory academic progress. The specific amount of the scholarship will vary according to the recipient’s academic course load and will not exceed 100 percent of tuition per academic year.

Distinguished Service Scholarships. Up to seven Distinguished Service Scholarships, ranging up to 75 percent of tuition per year, are awarded to entering Master of Divinity and Master in Church Ministries students who combine outstanding leadership and service in the church with strong academic achievement. These scholarships are renewable in the second and third years of study assuming the recipients (1) exhibit continued ministerial promise and growth as reflected in participation in field education and the life of the Divinity School and Durham communities and (2) maintain satisfactory academic progress. The specific amount of the scholarship will vary according to the recipient’s academic course load and will not exceed 75 percent of tuition for the academic year.

Dean’s Scholarships. Up to 12 Dean’s Scholarships, ranging up to 75 percent of tuition are awarded to entering Master of Divinity and Master in Church Ministries students. Factors taken into account include ethnic origin, missional responsibilities for the church at home and abroad, and denominational needs. These scholarships are renewable in the second and third years of study assuming the recipients (1) exhibit continued growth in the understanding of and commitment to Christian ministry and (2) maintains satisfactory academic progress. The specific amount of the scholarship will vary according to the recipient’s academic course load and will not exceed 75 percent of tuition for the academic year.

Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Endowed Fund Scholarships. Up to five scholarships annually are given to entering students who belong to ethnic minorities. These scholarships reward outstanding promise for ministry and strong academic performance. The scholarship award is a minimum of $2,000 and is not renewable for the second and third years of study.

International Student Scholarships. In cooperation with the Crusade Scholarship Committee of the United Methodist Church and other authorized church agencies, international students are selected and admitted to courses of study. The Divinity School offers one scholarship per year to an international student in the Master of Theology degree program. The scholarship offers up to one year’s full tuition.

Financial Resources

Other Scholarship Awards. Named scholarships funded by permanent endowments as listed on the pages following are awarded annually. In addition, the Divinity School receives funds designated for scholarships each year from several other sources including the Dickson Foundation of Mount Holly, North Carolina; the Will Ervin Fund of Richlands, North Carolina; the H.E.S., Inc. of Los Angeles, California; the Magee Christian Education Foundation of Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania; and numerous individuals and service organizations.
Personal. In order that both the Divinity School and churches may be able to extend the use of their limited funds to as many students as possible, a student who desires a theological education should be willing to defray as far as possible the cost of such an education. Resources may include savings, earnings, gifts, support or loans, and if married, earnings of a spouse. In calculating anticipated income, the student first considers personal resources.

Church. Many local churches, conferences, or other governing bodies provide gifts and grants for theological education, such as ministerial education funds that provide grants and/or service loans to theological students. The student makes application to the home church, annual conference, presbytery, or other governing body. The financial aid office cooperates with these church agencies in making recommendations and in handling the funds. United Methodist students and others must be under the care of the appropriate church body to be eligible for church support. The school cannot compensate for a student's indisposition to receive church funds when such are available on application through the Annual Conference Ministerial Education Fund or other agencies.

The Divinity School, as a member school of the Association of United Methodist Theological Schools, takes cognizance of and subscribes to recommended policy and practice regarding the administration of United Methodist Church funds for student financial aid as adopted by the association, June 1, 1970, and as bearing upon tuition grants, as follows:

Resources for tuition grants, scholarships, or the like are primarily available to students with declared vocational aims leading to ordination or recognized lay ministries and supported by commendation or endorsement of appropriate church representatives. At the same time, we believe that consideration for a tuition grant may be accorded to students who adequately indicate conscientious concern to explore, through seminary studies, a recognized church-related vocation. Finally, it is our judgment that, where the above-mentioned conditions are deemed to be absent respecting a candidate for admission, the decision to admit such a candidate should be without the assurance of any tuition subsidy deriving from church funds (AUMTS Minutes, June 1, 1970).

Field Education Grants. Varying amounts ranging from $6,800 (academic year) to a maximum of $9,400 (summer) are made available through the Divinity School and The Duke Endowment to students who are approved to participate in the field education program. The offices of field education and financial aid work together in determining placement and grant amount.

This program includes the summer interns, winter interns, and student pastors. See full description under the section on field education. Full-time students not participating in the field education program may work up to 20 hours per week in outside employment. Persons participating in the field education program, either summer or winter, may not engage in other forms of employment.

Pre-Enrollment Ministry Discernment Placements. A 10-week rural church placement in North Carolina is available for up to eight entering United Methodist Master of Divinity students during the summer prior to their enrollment in the Fall semester. The Duke Endowment will provide a $3,750 salary and a $4,050 scholarship. The church will provide room, board, and travel expenses. (Please see the Field Education section for further details.)

The Duke Endowment Student Pastor Grants. United Methodist students serving under episcopal appointment as student pastors in the state of North Carolina may qualify for tuition assistance of no more than $4,900 through The Duke Endowment. Please see the Field Education section for further details.

Loans. Loan funds held in trust by the university, as well as United Methodist student loans and funds supplied by the federal government, are available to qualified students. The application should be submitted by July 1.

Unless otherwise indicated, all correspondence concerning financial aid should be directed to: Financial Aid Office, Duke University Divinity School, Box 90969, Durham, North Carolina 27708-0969.

Employment. Students or spouses desiring employment with the university should apply to the Duke University Employment Office. Students or spouses make their own arrangements for employment either in the city of Durham or on campus.

Endowed Funds

Certain special funds have been established as endowments, the income from which is used to provide financial aid through scholarships and field education grants for students, support for professorships, library resources, and enhancement of the Divinity School program. The funds listed below serve as essential resources for the preparation of persons for leadership in Christian ministry. Individuals do not apply for any of these funds. All awards are made through appropriate committee action according to university guidelines.

The African-American Alumni Legacy Scholarship Endowment Fund was established in 2000 by graduates and friends to honor the memories of Joseph Bethea, Herbert Edwards, C. Eric Lincoln, Samuel Proctor, and Grant Shockley. The fund helps to affirm the breadth and value of experiences at Duke, and to make it possible for new generations of leadership to be trained in the great traditions of the Black church.

The Aldersgate Endowed Scholarship Fund was established in 1989 by Lucy and J. Wesley Jones of Fayetteville, North Carolina, through a major matching gift challenge that yielded subsequent generous contributions to the fund by graduates and friends of the Divinity School. The fund is currently the largest single endowed resource for student financial aid. The Aldersgate name celebrates the times of spiritual insight essential for faithful Christian ministry.

The Alexander Scholarship Endowment Fund was established in 1992 by Milton Donald Alexander, Jr., of Blythewood, South Carolina, to honor his family and to encourage excellence in the preparation for Christian ministry. The fund gives priority to students from South Carolina.

Field Education
A Program for Ministerial Formation

Field education is a vital and exciting component of the Divinity School’s academic program. Ministry contexts provide abundant opportunity for action as well as reflection, enabling students to work with their personal and spiritual gifts and experiences as well as the rich conceptual material offered by the Divinity School. In these settings students are typically (1) working to clarify and test their calls to ordained or lay ministry; (2) exploring ministerial roles and identity; (3) building and strengthening the diverse skills required for ministry; and (4) learning to understand and approach ministry theologically as well as psychologically, sociologically, and organizationally.

Field Education Credit Requirements

Two units of approved field education placement are required for graduation in the Master of Divinity degree program and one for the Master in Church Ministries program. The Master of Theology and Master of Theological Studies degrees have no field requirements. A unit is defined by one term placement, either a full-time summer term of 10 or 12 weeks or an academic term of 30 weeks at minimally 10 hours per week. To be approved, the field setting must provide ministerial identity and role, distinct ministerial tasks, qualified on-site supervision, a service-learning covenant, regular supervision conferences, and effective evaluation.

To qualify for credit the student must apply and be approved for a credited placement, develop and complete a learning covenant with acceptable quality of work, cooperate with the supervisor, and prepare an evaluation of the experience. Evaluation will be done by the field supervisor, student, lay committee, and field education staff. The student’s faculty advisor will review the evaluations and render the appropriate credit towards graduation.

Prerequisite for the initial field placement is enrollment in or completion of one of the designated Church’s Ministry electives. Prerequisite for the second placement in the M.Div. program is completion of 16 academic credits and the first field placement. The first placement must be completed within 12 months of the completion of the Church’s Ministry course, the second following the middler evaluation.

Guiding Ministerial Formation

Development of readiness for ministry is the responsibility of each student. If the field education staff has reservations about a student’s readiness for a field placement, they will specify requirements preparatory to the assignment. If the student requests,
Field Settings for Ministerial Formation

Students may elect to meet their field learning requirement in one of several ways. They may volunteer in ministry. The setting must meet the requirements set by the Divinity School, but students, with the direction of the office of field education, have latitude in selecting their settings. They must invest a minimum of 300 hours in preparation and presence, a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 30 weeks in the setting, and comply with the requirements specified by the Divinity School.

Students may use a setting where they have found employment by a congregation or church agency (self-initiated placement). Approval by the office of field education for credit, 300 hours of preparation and presence, at least 10 hours per week, plus compliance with Divinity School requirements regarding setting, supervision, and structure are required.

Field placements are often made in settings that have been developed and approved by the Divinity School. These offer opportunities for ministerial service with supervision, appropriate identity, and evaluation. All these settings meet field placement requirements.

A variety of ministry settings is available for particular student goals: parish settings (rural, suburban, and urban patterns); institutional settings (public housing, mental retardation centers, and retirement homes); campus ministry settings (positions on the campuses of a variety of schools) urban ministries, and overseas congregations.

While the Divinity School offers this rich diversity of settings for personal and ministerial formation, the large majority of placements fall in local churches in small communities. Because of the Divinity School’s ties with the United Methodist Church, most field placements occur in that tradition. However, the Divinity School will do everything possible to assist every student in finding at least one placement in his or her own denominational tradition. Each student is required to complete one credit in a local church setting, unless permitted by the Field Education Committee to do otherwise.

Student pastors may use their call or appointment for placement credit by registering with the field education office, participating in an assigned mentoring group, and submitting requisite evaluation materials.

Master of Divinity students may use a basic unit of clinical pastoral education to meet one placement requirement.

Pre-Enrollment Ministry Discernment Program

Each year, during the summer prior to enrollment, the Divinity School offers up to 10 entering United Methodist Master of Divinity students an opportunity to explore the nature of the church, the role of ministry, their personal ‘gifts and graces’ for ministry, their persons in relation to the office of ministry and the implications of these experiences for their emerging Christian vocation.

Anticipating the first year of theological education and the first field education placement, this program provides students close-range introduction to the nature and dynamics of the practice of ministry under trained and committed pastoral supervisors and lay persons. Orientation events and theological reflection exercises conducted at three-week intervals together with in-course Divinity students provide critical support and learning opportunities which enhance the process of spiritual, vocational and personal discernment. Honest perspective from pastors and laity on the students’ use of this opportunity gives students an early read on their potential for leadership in the community of faith.

These experiences fall exclusively within United Methodist congregations in the state of North Carolina, primarily in rural or semi-rural settings. They provide a $3,450 salary, a $4,300 scholarship, and room, board and travel expense for the 10-week term.
Ordinarily, 10-week terms begin the Memorial Day weekend and conclude the second Sunday of August. In order to participate in this program, students must have access to personal transportation and be available to serve anywhere in North Carolina.

Since the Ministry Discernment Program occurs prior to enrollment at Duke Divinity School and, thus, participants have neither enrolled in nor completed the prerequisite Church Ministry elective, such placements will not receive field education placement credit.

Internship Program

A full-time internship embraces both a full-time salaried position and a learning commitment in a single context over a six- to 12-month period. These opportunities provide in-depth practice of ministry skills particular to the student’s field placement setting and vocational goals. Internships must encompass an advanced level of specialized field experience that is more complex and extensive in its serving and learning potential than the basic field education short-term placement. The internship may be individually designed to meet the needs and interests of the student, provided that the plan includes a student learning covenant, approved supervisory standards, and an investigation-research project acceptable to the assigned faculty adviser. When these components are satisfactorily met and the evaluation reports are filed, credit for up to two courses may be assigned to the internship. No additional academic credit may be accumulated during the intern year. Grading for the two course credits will be on a pass/fail basis.

Internship settings may be student-initiated or negotiated by the school. In either case an agency contract covering all agreements must be made and filed with the office of field education. Types of settings occasionally available for internship placement include campus ministry and college chaplaincy positions; parish ministry positions such as associate pastor or director of education; and institutional positions.

To be eligible to register for an internship, the student must have completed at least one-half of his/ her degree program and be registered as a student in good standing in the Divinity School. Application forms and processing for internships will be done through the office of field education.

Students Serving As Pastors

Students frequently serve as pastors of churches or part-time associates during the period of their study in the Divinity School. These appointments or calls are arranged by the appropriate denominational official or body. The Divinity School recognizes this arrangement and recommends that the student consult with the office of field education, as agent of the dean, before accepting an appointment as pastor or associate pastor.

The office of field education cannot arrange these appointments or calls. This is within the jurisdiction of denominational authorities, and students should initiate their own arrangements. The office of field education, however, requires a student application for appointment prior to accepting one. The office also provides area church officials with recommendations for students upon request.

Students who serve in these capacities ordinarily may enroll in no more than three courses per semester, thus requiring eight semesters to complete the Master of Divinity degree. Student pastors are not permitted to enroll in summer study of any kind. Relaxation of this requirement requires the permission (on the appropriate form) of the supervising church official, the pastor-parish or other personnel committee, the field education staff, and the senior associate dean for academic programs. Students are strongly and actively discouraged from attempting to commute more than 50 miles one-way on a daily basis. Extensive commuting will jeopardize the student's academic program, health, ministry, and family life.

In keeping with the goal of the school to develop competence in ministry, students should use their pastoral appointments as learning contexts. Student pastor mentoring groups, comprised of four to six students together with a learned pastor, meet weekly for counsel, direction, and critical theological reflection. Biennial evaluation is required in the pastor's parish. If all the conditions outlined for credit are met, and all reports are completed and filed at the appropriate time, credit may be extended. If, however, the parish setting proves inadequate for the student's needs for ministerial growth and development, the field education staff will convene a review committee consisting of the student's faculty advisor, a member of the Field Education Committee, and one of the field education staff to review the student's needs and take appropriate action to assist the student in growth. Examples of such action are: requiring an alternative field experience, or a basic unit of clinical pastoral education, psychological evaluation, personal therapy, spiritual direction, and leave of absence from the school.

Clinical Pastoral Education Policy

CPE WITHOUT ACADEMIC CREDIT

1. Conference/Judicatory Requirement — Many denominational conferences and judicatories are now requiring candidates for ministry to complete a unit of clinical pastoral education in an accredited CPE center. To satisfy this requirement, a student may enroll in an accredited Association of Clinical Pastoral Educators (ACPE) CPE program of his/her choice. The student is responsible for paying the CPE center directly for all fees related to enrollment in and completion of the unit. The student is also responsible for having the CPE center mail directly to the office of field education the original or certified copy of the supervisor's final evaluation indicating the unit was successfully completed and a full unit of CPE credit extended. The office of field education will be responsible for notifying the student's appropriate denominational/judicatory officials regarding successful completion of the required CPE unit.

2. Field Education Requirement — Students may also use a unit of clinical pastoral education to fulfill the first or the second field education... requirement. In this case, a student must initially consult with the director of field education and then enroll in an accredited ACPE CPE program. The student is also responsible for having the CPE center mail directly to the office of field education the original or certified copy of the supervisor’s final evaluation indicating the unit was successfully completed and a full unit of CPE credit extended. The office of field education will then notify the Divinity School registry to this effect, and field education credit will be recorded. Field education credit for a CPE unit is granted on the basis of the office of field education staff’s approval of both the program and experience.

3. Personal/Professional Growth — Students may enroll in a unit of clinical pastoral education for the sole purpose of personal growth and professional/pastoral skills development (no judicatory and/or field education credits are needed/requested). The student is responsible for paying the CPE center directly for all fees related to enrollment in and completion of the unit.

CPE WITH ACADEMIC CREDIT

1. Academic Credit — In all cases above, if a student also desires academic credit (2 course credits) for an accredited clinical pastoral education unit, then he/she must register for CPE 100 or CPE 200 during the Divinity School course registration period. The student will be responsible for the Divinity School tuition costs related to the CPE unit’s two-course equivalency. The Divinity School tuition charge for these two course credits will be at the current Divinity School tuition rate at the time the academic credit is officially recorded on the student’s record. The respective CPE center’s fee will be paid by the Divinity School (up to $450—if the center’s fee is more than $450, the student is responsible for the difference). The student is also responsible for having the CPE center mail directly to the office of field education the original or certified copy of the supervisor’s final evaluation indicating the unit was successfully completed and a full unit of CPE credit extended. The office of field education will then notify the Divinity School registry to this effect, and academic credit for two courses will be recorded.

The Divinity School will consider academic credit for CPE units completed in prior semesters. However, the Divinity School will not reimburse the student for CPE center fees incurred. In these cases, the student will pay the current Divinity School tuition rate at the time the academic credit is officially recorded on the student’s record. Approval of the academic credit for a CPE unit from an ACPE accredited agency will be determined by the director of field education and the academic dean.
International Programs

In a South African neighborhood.
A Global Perspective for Duke Divinity School

As an institution within the church, the Divinity School seeks to contribute to and learn from the life of the church in an increasingly globalized world. This desire to contribute and to learn takes its shape from Christ’s invitation to share in God’s love for the world. Through its international engagements, the Divinity School also seeks to respond to God’s call for unity in diversity among the churches and in the world. As an institution that educates and forms students for ministry, the Divinity School seeks to engage students with the life of the church in a wider world as part of their education and formation. The Divinity School also seeks to play a full part in the internationalization of Duke University. Besides giving students an ever deeper appreciation for the international context of their lives, the Divinity School encourages faculty to develop cross-cultural research programs that in turn inform course development and teaching.

The Home Country. Now in its 20th year, the International Studies Committee of Duke Divinity School serves as an ongoing resource to welcome and accommodate the students from other countries who make a significant contribution to the community. A student organization, the Internationally Minded People of Faith, extends that hospitality on behalf of the student population of the Divinity School, including the organization of an international worship service each semester. Every year, we have about 10 international students from various countries. Because of financial limitations and the maturation of higher theological institutions in other parts of the world, a majority of the international students come for a shorter period of time and for advanced degrees.

Furthermore, the Lecture Program Committee brings a succession of distinguished scholars and church leaders to speak in the Divinity School. Among these have been Lesslie Newbigin, Gustavo Gutierrez and Jacques Dupuis.

In addition to courses in World Christianity (including Theology in Context: The Church in Latin America, Theologies of Third World Women, and Liberation Theologies) and courses in the history of religion under the graduate program, various other departments offer courses related to international studies. Geoffrey Wainwright from Great Britain, Peter Storey from South Africa, Emmanuel Katongole from Uganda, Teresa Berger and Reinhard Hütter from Germany, Douglas Campbell from New Zealand and Bishop Daniel Arichea from the Philippines add an international and ecumenical flavor to the faculty.

Travel Seminar. Friends, students, and alumni of the Divinity School journey to South Africa for a two-week summer “Pilgrimage of Pain and Hope” led by Rev. Peter and Elizabeth Storey and Rev. Tiffney Marley. They meet seminary leaders and students at John Wesley College, our partner seminary of the Methodist Church in Southern Africa, and meet with church leaders who are engaged in issues of racial reconciliation in post-apartheid South Africa. They worship in multilingual services in several churches, and visit townships and informal settlements where hundreds of thousands live with no electricity or running water. They also observe the work of the Methodist Church through the “Chain of Hope” pre-schools where children in poverty are receiving an education as well as hot meals and lots of love.

In 2005, the Divinity School will host Pilgrimages of Pain and Hope in Uganda. and Brazil. Dr. Emmanuel Katongole, associate professor of theology and world Christianity, will lead the Uganda pilgrimage. Dr. Rosalee and Rev. Samuel Ewell, Duke alumni and faculty at South American Theological Seminary, will lead the Brazil pilgrimage.

For more information about these programs, contact the Office of Black Church Studies.

Visiting scholar Simanga Kumalo in York Chapel.
International Partnerships. The Divinity School has a regular, on-going program of study abroad at the University of Erlangen, Germany. Each year one German student is enrolled for a year at Duke, while an American student is selected to study in Bonn or Erlangen. This program, carried on for many years with the University of Bonn, has been augmented by faculty seminars.

The Divinity School's partnership program in Southern Africa began when Rev. Peter Storey, the area's former bishop and current Williams Professor of the Practice of Christian Ministry, came on staff. In August 2000 Dean Jones and Rev. Susan Pendleton Jones toured Southern Africa which led to the development of a formal partnership with John Wesley College. That relationship has been further enhanced by Divinity School students serving field education placements in Southern Africa, Richard Hays and Stephan Chapman teaching at John Wesley College. The Divinity School has also hosted faculty, staff, and an exchange student from South Africa.

Duke University is one of the supporting members of the American Schools of Oriental Research. Accordingly, students and faculty in the Divinity School have the privilege of attending the Albright Institute of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, the American Center of Oriental Research in Amman, and other similar institutions without charge for tuition. They may also compete for the four fellowships offered annually by the schools.

The Canterbury Study Abroad program, “Anglican Spirituality Course,” supervised by Dr. Michael Battle, brings divinity students from around the world to explore Anglican spirituality in light of diverse cultures and nations at Canterbury Cathedral in England for three weeks.

Individual students from time to time have made private arrangements for study abroad. This study has most often taken place in England or Scotland, with academic credit usually transferable toward the Duke degree. Most recently, one of our students fulfilled her field education requirement through working for a semester within the Anglican Church in Mozambique, while two others spent a year in Cochabamba, Bolivia, working in a shelter for women and children on the streets of the city. The Divinity School is also strengthening its international field education opportunities, e.g. with summer internships in South Africa and Chile.

Students and faculty participate in regular exchanges with the seminary of John Wesley College in South Africa as part of a new partnership between the Divinity School and the Methodist Church of Southern Africa.

International Service. The involvement of Duke Divinity School with international institutions and cultures has always gone beyond one-way educational opportunities. Over the years, faculty, alumnae and alumni, and students have lived and worked in locations abroad, under both ecclesiastical and secular auspices. For the past 10 years both in-course and graduating United Methodist students have served for one year as pastor of a British Methodist circuit. The latest listings include approximately 100 seminary graduates in ministry overseas, including two recent graduates in Brazil and two in Haiti.

Divinity students often participate in international service projects on a short-term basis. Several have taken part in evangelistic or construction work-teams, chiefly in the Caribbean. Faculty, too, are engaged in a variety of activities outside the United States. In addition to innumerable conferences and lectures in Canada and Europe, professors have taught and given papers in numerous countries: for example, Professor Hauerwas delivered the prestigious Gifford Lectures in 2001 at the University of Saint Andrews, Scotland.
The Office of Black Church Studies

The Office of Black Church Studies is a conduit for the engagement of the Divinity School with the Black church, Black theology and the Black community. It represents an appreciation for the study of and involvement in Black religious experiences. The OBCS and its affiliates seek to illuminate the several dimensions of these experiences, to investigate and expose the contributions which the Black Church has made and can make to both the Black Community and American culture, and to actualize the potential for service to the Church through its special concerns for ministry and mission to Black people in both the church and the world.

The Office of Black Church Studies has four principal objectives: (1) to insure that students of color are exposed to adequate resources to prepare them academically, vocationally and spiritually for ministry allowing them to derive the greatest possible value from theological education; (2) to call the entire Divinity School community and the church into ongoing dialogue about the global black church and allow this exchange to inform understandings of contemporary church leadership, particularly as it relates to difference/otherness and reconciliation; (3) to facilitate connections with alumni, congregations and community organizations and (4) to foster an appreciation for the epistemic and prophetic distinctiveness of the black religious experience. In keeping with these objectives, the Office of Black Church Studies provides the following programs, activities, and services:

Academic Study. American theological education has long ignored the concerns and contributions of the black religious experience, a circumstance that the Divinity School curriculum addresses through (1) offering courses whose content and methods draw upon scholarship about and by African-Americans and (2) the inclusion of African-American scholarship in courses throughout the curriculum. Courses taught in Black Church Studies and related areas include but are not limited to:

- Introduction to Black Theology
- The Black Church in America
- Black Religion and Social Conflicts in America
- The Life and Thought of Martin Luther King, Jr
- Contemporary Black Culture and Consciousness
- Selected Topics in Black Church History
- Leadership in African-American Churches for the 21st Century
- African-American Christian Spirituality
- Theology and the Black Activist Tradition
- God and Caesar
- The Faces of Jesus in Africa
- The Nation-State and Theology of Africa
- Postcolonial Identities and Theologies in Africa
- The Rwanda Genocide and the Challenge for the Church.
Preaching and Lecture Series. Fall and Spring preaching and lecture series provide frequent opportunities to hear outstanding black preachers in Divinity School classes and worship services. The Gardner C. Taylor Preaching Series brings outstanding black preachers to the campus, and the Martin Luther King, Jr. Lecture Series brings to the Divinity School community lecturers of national stature to address the issues of justice, peace, and liberation in relation to the insights of the Gospel and the black religious experience.

Global Partnerships: The Office of Black Church Studies assists the school in managing its Africa partnerships. Currently, the school has a partnership with the Methodist Church of Southern Africa in which students are able to participate in field education placements and the Pilgrimage of Pain and Hope (study seminar). Through the Spiritual Formation groups, students participate in prayer partner relationships with students from John Wesley College. Additionally, faculty from South Africa have taught at the Divinity School and vice versa.

The office also assists with the management of programs in Brazil and Uganda. The aim of these efforts is to engage the Divinity School in a global dialogue regarding the black church and black spirituality.

Continuing Education. In cooperation with the Center for Continuing Education, the Office of Black Church Studies provides programs for black pastors in the region, including the Gardner C. Taylor Black Preaching Series, the Martin Luther King, Jr. Lecture Series, and seminars that address concerns of the Black Church. Occasional conferences, colloquies, symposia, and the Annual Convocation and Pastors’ School supplement these offerings.

There are opportunities for academic study for all qualified black pastors and lay persons. The extensive holdings of the Divinity School Library are also available upon application to the librarian of the Divinity School.

Church Relationships. Through the Office of Black Church Studies, the Divinity School reaches out to the black churches in the Triangle area. Such relationships not only afford excellent field settings for ministerial study and work, but they also provide a laboratory in which both blacks and whites together can gain wider knowledge of, deeper appreciation for, and increased sensitivity to the black religious tradition.

The Office of Black Church Studies also acts as a liaison with several clergy and community groups including the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance.

The Office of Black Church Studies provides counsel and advice to prospective black seminarians in undergraduate schools and encourages inquiries concerning study opportunities available at Duke Divinity School. For further information, contact the Office of the Director of Black Church Studies, Duke Divinity School, Box 90968, Durham, North Carolina 27708-0967.
Continuing Education
The Center for Continuing Education: Learning for Life

Duke Divinity School, through the Learning for Life program of the Center for Continuing Education, offers educational programs to a wide variety of people interested in the study of the theology, ministry and practices of the church. Each year, the Center for Continuing Education devotes 2 million contact hours of education to pastors, lay persons and youth. Pastors are invited to participate in conferences, seminars and study leave, while lay persons are invited to study through Lay Academy classes and Laity Weekends. Youth may attend a two-week summer program held on the campus of Duke University. Through all of these opportunities, participants are invited to connect with the divinity school faculty who teach and preach at the events. People of all Christian traditions are invited to continue Learning for Life with Duke Divinity School.

The Convocation and Pastors’ School

The annual Divinity School Convocation and Pastors’ School, a cooperative endeavor with the North Carolina and Western North Carolina Conferences of the United Methodist Church through the Board of Managers of the Pastors’ School, brings together ministers, laypersons, students, and faculty for a series of lectures, sermons, and courses, along with alumni/ae reunions and social occasions. The 2004 Convocation will be held Oct. 11-13.

Annual Lectures

The James A. Gray Lectures. These annual lectures, established in 1950 as part of a bequest made in 1947 by James A. Gray of Winston-Salem, N.C., are delivered during the Divinity School Convocation and Pastors’ School.

The Franklin S. Hickman Lectures. This lectureship was established in 1966 as part of a bequest by Mrs. Franklin S. Hickman in memory of her late husband, Dr. Franklin Simpson Hickman, professor of psychology of religion, Duke Divinity School, and dean of the Chapel, Duke University. This lectureship enables the Divinity School to bring practicing ministers of extraordinary qualities to lecture and preach, often in conjunction with Convocation and Pastors’ School, and to participate in Divinity School classes, worship, and informal sessions with students and faculty.

The Kenneth Willis Clark Lectures. Established in 1984, the Kenneth Willis Clark Lectureship Fund honors the life and work of Reverend Professor Kenneth Willis Clark, a Divinity School faculty member for 36 years. Each year this fund enables the Divinity School to offer a distinguished program with special emphasis on New Testament studies and textual criticism.
The Jameson Jones Lectures. A legacy of the ninth dean of the Divinity School, the Jameson Jones Fund provides for an annual lecture in the practice of ministry. Occasional seminars in preaching are offered in conjunction with the named lectures.

Lay Education

Duke Divinity School provides opportunities for study by laity throughout the year and around the state of North Carolina. Featured programs include Duke Laity Weekends and the Lay Academy of Religion. Each Laity Weekend features members of the Divinity School faculty teaching classes in their areas of expertise, ranging from biblical studies to contemporary issues of faith. The Lay Academy of Religion offers periodic classes in Bible, comparative religions, theology, Christian ethics, and other selected topics.

Duke Youth Academy for Christian Formation

The Youth Academy for Christian Formation seeks to revive interest in theological formation and education as both profession and passion among the nation’s most promising youth. A two-week summer program funded by Lilly Endowment Inc. provides the opportunity for talented youth to pursue an intense process of theological learning and study. Through Christian practices of worship, prayer, hospitality, service, study, and solitude, youth form habits and develop tools for theological reflection, ethical and moral decision making, and discernment for Christian living. The Youth Academy is open to youth of all communions who exhibit a love of learning and a desire for God.

Royce and Jane Reynolds Program in Church Leadership

The Reynolds Program in Church Leadership is a focused effort for renewal in the United Methodist Church through leadership development. The centerpiece of the Reynolds Program is a yearlong, intensive course of study for effective clergy resulting in a Certificate in Church Leadership. The certificate program is a collaborative effort between the Divinity School and the Center for Creative Leadership, an international, nonprofit educational institution committed to enhancing the understanding and development of leadership, located in Greensboro, North Carolina. Twenty-four pastors are selected every year to participate in the certificate program.

Learned Clergy Initiative: Sustained Learning Opportunities

The Learned Clergy Initiative sponsored by Lilly Endowment Inc. provides funding for four annual seminars centered on developing the moral and theological imagination for church leadership, particularly through the formation and sustenance of reflective communities. These interrelated programs are local, regional and national in scope. Both clergy and laity will be invited to participate with Divinity School faculty and students in sessions on cultivating good habits of study, reflection, and conversation.

Study Leave for Ministry Professionals

Duke Divinity School offers ministry professionals of all traditions, lay or ordained, the opportunity to spend a one-week leave in self-directed study, worship and prayer. Participants have full access to the university and divinity libraries and to community worship and lecture opportunities. Class auditing and conversations with the Divinity School faculty are also offered. Study Leave is designed for ministry professionals of all Christian traditions and communions who wish to take a week apart to study at Duke Divinity School.
Seminars and Conferences

The Center for Continuing Education offers a number of seminars and conferences throughout the year. Seminars are opportunities for small-group learning and focused study, while conferences present opportunities for broader consideration. Seminars and conferences are designed for clergy, laity or both.

Ministry in the Vicinity

Ministers and churches in the vicinity of Duke University are especially welcome to avail themselves of continuing theological education programs, facilities, and other services of the Divinity School and its faculty and students. They are invited to attend public lectures, visit with distinguished lecturers, participate in in-residence seminars and conferences, audit selected courses, and use the resources of the Divinity School library. Divinity School faculty, staff and students are generally available for preaching, teaching and other services in churches of the community and region.

For more information about programs offered through the Center for Continuing Education, please call (919) 660-3448, toll-free (888) 845-4216, e-mail div-conted@duke.edu or visit the Divinity School Web site www.divinity.duke.edu.
Additional Study Opportunities
The J. M. Ormond Center for Research, Planning, and Development

This center was established in memory of the late Dr. J. M. Ormond, professor of practical theology of Duke Divinity School and director of the Rural Church Program under The Duke Endowment, 1923-48. The North Carolina Annual Conference established the J. M. Ormond Fund in 1951 as part of the special effort of the North Carolina and the Western North Carolina Conferences of the United Methodist Church to provide additional programs at the Divinity School. The center is jointly supported by the Ormond Fund and the Rural Church section of The Duke Endowment.

The center has two main purposes. First, it assists the church in its ministry by providing research and planning services. Emphasis is given to research and planning studies of rural United Methodist churches in North Carolina. Second, it contributes, through basic research, to the understanding of the nature and functioning of the church. Staff are currently engaged in a major project, Pulpit & Pew: Research on Pastoral Leadership. Funds are available to underwrite consultative and research services of the Center for Duke Endowment eligible rural churches that request assistance.

Pulpit & Pew: Research on Pastoral Leadership

Pulpit & Pew: Research on Pastoral Leadership is a multi-year research project of the Divinity School’s J. M. Ormond Center and funded by a grant from Lilly Endowment Inc. Through a variety of research initiatives, Pulpit & Pew aims to provide answers to three sets of questions: (1) What is the state of pastoral leadership, Protestant and Catholic, at the present time, and what do current trends portend for the future? (2) What is good pastoral leadership? Can we describe it? How does it come into being? (3) What can be done to call forth, nurture, and support good pastoral leadership? Project news and reports can be found at www.pulpitandpew.duke.edu.

Programs in Pastoral Care

Programs in pastoral care beyond the studies incorporated in the M.Div. curriculum are provided in cooperation with Duke University Medical Center. Three such programs are available.

1. The Master of Theology degree with a major in pastoral care is ordinarily a calendar-year program beginning the first full week in June. However, upon the recommendation of the staff, candidates with a quarter or more of clinical pastoral education may begin their program in September. The candidate may plan one of three programs or concentrations:
   a. concentration in pastoral theology relating pastoral care and theological understanding to professional ministry, especially the parish, through coursework and supervised field or clinical experience.

b. concentration in pastoral care and an introduction to the field of pastoral counseling through coursework and a residency year in clinical pastoral education.

c. concentration in pastoral supervision through coursework and a supervisory clinical pastoral education program.

A quarter of clinical pastoral education is considered a prerequisite for all programs. Students who wish to complete the residency year in CPE and earn a Master of Theology degree will normally need a minimum of 18 months to complete the program.

Students in CPE may not have other field education appointments or employment. However, a CPE unit will, when satisfactorily completed, count as one field education unit if taken in relation to either Field Education Seminar I or II. Only one field education requirement may be fulfilled by CPE.

In the context of clinical pastoral education, various professional goals may be sought, including general understanding and skills in pastoral care and specialization in clinical pastoral supervision. Persons specializing in clinical pastoral supervision will advance toward certification with the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education Inc.

2. Single units of clinical pastoral education are offered each summer (beginning the first week in June and running for 10 weeks) and concurrent with the Fall and Spring semesters in the Medical Center. Single units of parish-based clinical pastoral education may be available concurrent with the Fall and Spring semesters. When the unit is completed within one semester, the student may take two other courses in the regular M.Div. program. Only one unit (2 course credits) may be applied to the M.Div. or M.C.M. Students are reminded that ordinarily no more than five courses out of 24 for the M.Div. degree should be taken in any one subdivision.

3. A one-year certificate or non-degree residency program in clinical pastoral education is available through the Duke Medical Center for persons who hold the Master of Divinity degree or the equivalent. Such training usually provides four units of certified clinical pastoral education credit. These persons may enroll in the Divinity School as special students for a course or two each semester.

Admission to either a single unit or the residency program of Clinical Pastoral Education is distinct from admission to the Divinity School. Applications for CPE enrollment are available in the pastoral services office, Duke Medical Center.

For further information concerning any of these programs, write to the Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, Duke Divinity School. See the section on the Master of Theology degree program.

Women’s Studies at Duke University

Divinity School students of all degree programs are encouraged to undertake a certificate in Women’s Studies as a part of their program. The concentration represents a body of interdisciplinary work in feminist scholarship separate from work on women in ministry.

The certificate gives students the opportunity for advanced training in the field; prepares them for a variety of jobs, including those in the academy; and provides a community of scholars dedicated to the study of gender, race, sexuality, and nation. Students earning the certificate are given priority in the selection of teaching and research assistantships in Women’s Studies and are eligible to apply for dissertation fellowships offered by the program.
In addition to the certificate, the program sponsors a yearlong, non-credit interdisciplinary research seminar for graduate students. Known as the Graduate Scholars group, this seminar meets monthly for dinner and discussion, and is led by the director of Graduate Studies. You do not need to be enrolled in the certificate program to participate in the Graduate Scholars group.

Students enrolled in the Certificate Program take four courses, listed below. (Students who have no formal training in women's studies at either the undergraduate or graduate level must begin their certificate with WST 205; all others can move directly into the core course, WST 220.)

One required course:
- WST 220 Foundations in Feminist Theory

Two courses from the following:
- WST 205 Debates in Women's Studies
- WST 210S Selected Topics in Women's Studies
- WST 230 Feminist Knowledge, Interdisciplinarity, and Social Change
- WST 240 Critical Genealogies
- WST 260 Interdisciplinary Debates
- WST 290 Interdisciplinary Research Workshop
- WST 300 Advanced Topics in Feminist Studies
- WST 391-392 Tutorial in Special Topics

One course offered by another academic unit focusing on women, gender, sexuality, race, nation, and/or feminism (must be approved by the Program).

Graduate students pursuing degrees in one of Duke's professional schools or terminal Masters normally complete coursework only.

How to Apply

If you are currently a student in the Graduate School and would like to enroll in the Women's Studies Certificate Program, please complete the application certificateapplication.pdf and forward it to Pat Hoffman, Box 90760 (phoffman@duke.edu).

Women's Studies administers a variety of awards and grants of up to $1500 each to currently enrolled Duke students in recognition of outstanding scholarship and research. The awards have been generously endowed through the Council on Women's Studies, alumnae/i, and friends.

For additional information on the Certificate Program, please contact Pat Hoffman, Program Coordinator at 684-3644 (phoffman@duke.edu) or the Director of Graduate Studies, Associate Professor Tina M. Campt at 684-4267 (tcampt@duke.edu).

Denominational Studies

The Divinity School offers the full array of courses required for elder's and deacon's orders in the United Methodist Church (see below for particulars). It also offers courses in the history and polity of other denominations substantially represented in the student population. Baptist, Christian (Disciples of Christ), Episcopal, Presbyterian, and United Church of Christ courses occur on a regular, usually two-year cycle. Courses on other traditions have been arranged when needed and when staffing was available.

In 1989, the Divinity School began creating advisory committees on denominational studies. Three have been established to date, a Committee on Presbyterian Studies a Committee on Episcopal Studies, and the Board of Directors of the Baptist House of Studies. Others may be established if needed.

The task of such committees is to take under care the persons from the respective traditions who are preparing for diverse ministries at Duke Divinity School. That care shall consist of advising students; counseling and preparing candidates for judicatory examinations or interviews; advising the Divinity School on the curricular and extra-curricular needs of those students; participating as appropriate and necessary in teaching of courses designed with students from the respective tradition in mind; creating an atmosphere at Duke University conducive to the effective preparation of that denomination’s ministers; and holding events, services, and workshops instrumental toward the transmission of denominational practice, tradition, and doctrine.

Theology and Medicine

The Theology and Medicine Program of Duke Divinity School is dedicated to the education of clergy, nurses, physicians, and lay leaders in practices of caring and reflects a commitment to caring for the suffering and dying consistent with the central Christian virtue of charity. This commitment is understood best to be lived out in communities formed for caring in the context of gratitude, faithfulness, and hospitality. The Health and Nursing Ministries Program—a jointly sponsored curriculum with the School of Nursing for educating congregational nurses; the Caring Communities Program—a program which supports health ministries and the formation of caring faith communities throughout the Carolinas; and curricular initiatives with the Duke School of Medicine are among the varied curricular and programmatic initiatives of the Theology and Medicine program.

Health and Nursing Ministries Program

The Divinity School and the Duke School of Nursing have created a joint program in Health and Nursing Ministries. This program offers a strong foundation in both theology and advanced practice nursing with a specific focus on congregational nursing. Both schools seek to address two important challenges of contemporary health care: (1) In the face of expanding and increasingly sophisticated technology, how can caregivers offer a caring presence to human suffering? and (2) How can health promotion and disease prevention be enhanced in light of our understanding of persons as whole human beings? Recognizing that the nursing profession and the church share a commitment to both of these, the Health and Nursing Ministries Program was established to educate nurses for health ministry in the local congregation and in partnership with health care systems. Three different joint programs of study that may be taken either full-time or part-time have been developed in addition to a Post-Master’s Certificate Program.

Master in Church Ministries/Health and Nursing Ministries Track

Offered by the Divinity School, this two-year (full-time) degree program will prepare nurses to serve as health ministers in local congregations. The curriculum provides for the integration of a substantial theological education with a solid foundation of advanced nursing education. With course work in biblical studies, theology and ethics, history of Christianity and pastoral care, health promotion and disease prevention, community-focused health care, and diagnostic skills, nurses will be prepared to work as congregational nurses and health systems congregational nursing coordinators. The typical applicant for this degree will be an accomplished, experienced nurse who desires and understands the need for substantial theological education as preparation for ministry in the local church. One summer is required to fulfill the yearlong 300-hour clinical field experience.

Master of Science in Nursing/ Major in Health and Nursing Ministries

Offered by the School of Nursing, this two-year (full-time) degree is designed to offer students significant advanced nursing preparation as clinicians, clinical investigators and coordinators of health and nursing ministries while equipping them with a basic theological education offered by the divinity school. Graduates of this program will be prepared to serve as congregational nurses, health systems congregational nursing coordinators, health systems care managers, and community health nurses. The typical applicant for this degree will be an accomplished nurse with a desire and aptitude for advanced nursing, who also understands the value of a basic core theological education. One summer is required to fulfill the yearlong 300-hour clinical field experience.

Dual Degree Master in Church Ministries and Master of Science in Nursing

This three-year (full-time) dual degree program is offered jointly by the Schools of Divinity and Nursing for those students who desire both thorough preparation in advanced nursing practice and significant theological study. Graduates of this program will be prepared to develop, implement, and coordinate comprehensive congregational and community-based health ministry programs. The typical applicant for this degree will be a nurse who sees the need for both advanced clinical education and substantial theological preparation, and is interested in advancing the scope of congregational nursing practice at a conceptual level. The 300-hour clinical field experience begins during the summer session after the first year and continues through the spring of the second year. All requirements must be met for admission to both the Divinity School and the School of Nursing.

Post-Master's Certificate in Health and Nursing Ministries

The Post-Master's Certificate in Health and Nursing is designed to educate nurses who have earned the MSN in another clinical specialty and now desire the theological and nursing education necessary to prepare them to serve as congregational health ministers. Students in this program take courses both in the Divinity School and the School of Nursing and may pursuethecertificate on either a full-time or part-timebasis.

Continuing Education Certificate in Congregational Nursing

The Congregational Nursing Continuing Education program is designed to provide Registered Nurses with basic preparation for Congregational Nursing. The content is offered in two options: 1) one-week intensive program offered at off-campus retreat settings, 2) a two-semester program offered one night a week during the fall and spring semesters. In the semester format, the second semester includes fifty hours of field education experience within a faith community.

Caring Communities Program

The Caring Communities Program was created to invest in the communities of the Carolinas by supporting the development and sustenance of health ministries programs through the work of the Health Ministries Resource Center (HMRC).

In keeping with that mission, the program:
• nurtures practices of caring that embody faithfulness, gratitude, and hospitality within communities across the Carolinas;
• develops and systematically implements a curriculum of spirituality and health in health ministry for the interdisciplinary education of clergy, lay and professional providers, administrative and policy leaders, and community decision-makers;
• systematically assesses the practices of health ministry in the region to refine such practices and establish a basis for determining optimal strategies of engagement for the future; and
• establishes the Carolinas as the leader in health ministries and healthcare innovation that links faith communities and healthcare systems through practice, education, and consultation.
The HMRC provides resources and ongoing consultation as part of the Caring Communities Program. It fosters collaboration and provides development assistance in health ministries across the Carolinas. This includes identifying and supporting “best practices” in health, congregational, and nursing ministries. The HMRC is a welcoming place for those seeking information about health ministries and the program and resources of Caring Communities. It includes a health ministries library and space for meeting and community building. An online component provides resources, handouts and sample forms, a newsletter, and a forum for health ministry leaders to share ideas and innovations. The Caring Communities Program is made possible by the generous support of The Duke Endowment.

Duke Institute on Care at the End of Life

The Duke Institute on Care at the End of Life is founded on the conviction that good care for the dying and the grieving includes, but goes far beyond sophisticated medical technology, medical expertise and business efficiency. Rather, the notion of “dying well” flows from traditional virtues of charity and compassion. When death is seen as a basic part of life, care for the dying becomes a ritual focus for families, friends, and community members. By contrast, too many of us today see death as a failure. If we hope to recover the practice of dying well, we must attend to the complexities of the social, cultural, moral, theological, public policy, and economic issues involved in living and dying.

The Duke Institute on Care at the End of Life was created to address such complexities. Its mission is to improve the care of suffering and dying patients through interdisciplinary scholarship, teaching and outreach. The institute, based in the Divinity School, draws together Duke scholars from the Medical Center, the college of Arts and Sciences and other schools of the university. Reaching beyond Duke, the institute will be in partnership with the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill’s School of Social Work, North Carolina Central University, St. Christopher’s Hospice, and King’s College in London, England, among others.

Core faculty for the institute contributes expertise in theology, medicine, nursing, social work, and the humanities. The institute funds scholarships for students who are focused on care at the end of life in theology and medicine, pastoral theology, and the Health and Nursing Ministries Program. The institute also coordinates educational symposia, develops end-of-life curricula, and supports visiting scholars. Through its research grants program, the institute funds innovative scholarship in palliative and end-of-life care.

The institute is dedicated to learning how best to meet the end-of-life needs of all communities, including diverse and previously underserved groups. Public education is a vital component of all the institute’s programs, as the institute is committed to enhancing meaningful public dialogue about the complex issues surrounding care at the end of life.
Curriculum
Degree Programs

The academic work of the Divinity School presently embraces four degree programs: the Master of Divinity degree (M.Div.), ordinarily of three academic years; a one-year program beyond the basic degree, the Master of Theology (Th.M.); and two programs of two academic years, one leading to the degree of Master in Church Ministries (M.C.M.) and the other to the degree of Master of Theological Studies (M.T.S.).

The first three are graduate-professional degrees; the M.T.S., inaugurated in September of 1987, is a general academic degree. Admission to candidacy for any of these degrees presupposes the completion of a Bachelor’s degree or its equivalent.

Students preparing for ordination into the Christian ministry and requiring appropriate graduate-professional education will enroll for the Master of Divinity degree. Students whose acquired academic standing, under this basic degree program, entitles them to further specialized study may advance their command of selected theological disciplines by applying for an additional year of studies leading to the Master of Theology degree. Together, these two degree programs constitute a sequence. Although the Master of Divinity degree fulfills requirements for ordination by prevailing ecclesiastical standards, the Th.M. program may assist in assuring a larger measure of professional preparation. Application for admission to the Th.M. program is open to graduates of other schools who have completed the basic theological degree.

The Master in Church Ministries degree program is designed to prepare qualified persons for ministries in local churches or other organizations. It is appropriate for those persons seeking ordination as deacons in the United Methodist Church. The course of study is arranged to provide grounding in biblical, historical, and theological disciplines as essential background for instruction in and exercise of professional competence in curricular planning, teaching methods, and supervision of educational programs for various age groups. The M.T.S. provides an introduction to the theological disciplines as foundation for a graduate research degree (Ph.D.); preparation for lay religious degrees other than Christian education; grounding for teaching, research, or practice in another field (e.g., history, psychology, music); enhancement of institutional roles; and personal enrichment.

The specific requirements for each of these degrees are found in the succeeding pages. Completed course work cannot be credited toward more than one degree. Reciprocal transfer of credit for course work taken under the M.Div., M.C.M., or M.T.S. programs requires the permission of the senior associate dean for academic programs.

With few exceptions, most courses in the Bulletin of Duke University: The Divinity School carrying a 200 number or above and belonging to the fields noted above are applicable to doctoral programs of study. These courses are open to qualified M.Div., Th.M., M.C.M., or M.T.S. students by permission of the instructor.

Qualified persons who desire to pursue studies leading to the degree of M.A. or Ph.D. in religion, under the administration of the Graduate School, are advised to apply to the dean of that school. Inquiries concerning fellowships or specific requirements of the Program of Graduate Studies in Religion may be addressed to the director, 209 Gray Building.

Administration of the Curriculum

Students are required at the time of each registration period to plan their course of study with the consultation and approval of their assigned faculty advisers. Such programs are subject to the review and approval of the Committee on Academic Policies, the dean, and the senior associate dean for academic programs. It is the responsibility of each student to see that all requirements for graduation (and for ecclesiastical ordination) are met, and that any special permission granted to deviate from the normal program is properly recorded in the personal files in the registry.

Grading System. The Divinity School employs the grading scale with the letters, A, B, C, D, that have been defined as follows: A, excellent; B, good; C, satisfactory; D, passing; F, failure; WI, withdrew illness; W, withdrew, discretion of the dean; WF, withdrew failing; I, incomplete; P, passed; NC, noncredit; Z, year course. At the discretion of the instructor, individuals or classes may in certain instances be graded simply as pass or fail. Such P/F grades shall be limited to no more than 25 percent of a student's total curriculum at Duke and will not be figured in the grade point average. Pass/fail must be elected before the end of drop/add for any enrollment period.

The denotations are defined as follows according to quality points: A, 4; A- 3.7; B+, 3.3; B, 3.0; B-, 2.7; C+, 2.3; C, 2.0; C-, 1.7; D+, 1.3; D, 1.0.

In the core or foundational courses, the grading is as follows: A, B, C, and F. The grade of D does not exist in core or foundational courses. Students are required to obtain the grade of C- or better in order to pass a core or foundational course. Students earning a grade lower than a C- in a core or foundational course shall be obliged to retake the course for credit and pass the course with a grade of C- or better. [See the relevant pages in the Bulletin of the Divinity School for specified core or foundational courses.]

Advanced Placement. Students may, on the basis of undergraduate courses, a religion major, or other substantial preparation, be given advanced placement in one or more of the eight required subjects. Such placement normally presumes at least two college courses in a given area (e.g., Old Testament) with a satisfactory grade average and permits the student to fulfill the requirement by electing an advanced course in the same area (e.g., an advanced Old Testament course in place of Old Testament 11).

Limited Program. Students whose work after admission is not satisfactory may be placed on limited programs by the Academic Policies Committee and are required to reduce their course loads or to make other academic adjustments. Students who during the first year of Divinity School maintain less than a C (2.0) average, including failures, ordinarily will be required to withdraw from the school.
Incompletes. A student may petition the senior associate dean for academic programs to receive a grade of incomplete in a course. This petition must be filed in writing on the prescribed form with the registry on or before the last official day of classes of the semester in question. Such permission may be granted when a student, through some circumstances beyond control, such as illness, has been hindered from meeting the course requirements. Adjudication of the petition will rest with the associate dean and the instructor concerned. The associate dean will communicate in writing to the student regarding the joint decision and any conditions attached thereto. An incomplete becomes either an F or a permanent incomplete unless it is removed through completion of assigned work by the following dates: for incompletes incurred in Fall semester courses, February 1; for incompletes incurred in Spring semester courses, September 1. The grade of permanent incomplete is reserved for instances in which the student’s work in the course was substantial and of passing quality.

Change of Courses or Withdrawal. Students are permitted to change their course registrations, without incurring a penalty, during the prescribed drop/add period at the beginning of each semester. The adding of a course during the second week of drop/add may require the permission of the instructor of that course. Any refund of tuition related to withdrawals will be according to the published schedule.

No student will be permitted to withdraw from a course after one-half of the semester without incurring failure, except for causes adjudged by the senior associate dean for academic programs to be beyond the student’s control. Conditions of genuine emergency and not considerations of convenience will be determinative in considering requests, which must be submitted in writing on academic petition forms.

Leave of Absence. A student wishing to take a leave of absence for one or two semesters, and intending to return to a degree program in the Divinity School, should so notify the senior associate dean for academic programs in writing in advance. No leave of absence will be granted for more than one full academic year, although an emergency extension may be requested from the senior associate dean for academic programs.

Withdrawals from School. Students deciding to withdraw from the Divinity School, for whatever reason, should consult with their faculty advisers and the senior associate dean for academic programs, and must file a written statement of withdrawal prior to departure. All students who have officially withdrawn or whose leave of absence extends beyond one academic year but who wish later to return to the Divinity School will be required to reapply for admission, and provide whatever documentation is required by the director of admissions.

Directed Study. Students may, with permission of their faculty advisers and the instructors involved, take one or two units of Directed Study, preferably not in the same semester. These independent study courses under individual faculty supervision are ordinarily in subjects at an advanced level which cover material not available in the regular curriculum. Students wishing to take more than two courses by directed study must have permission from the senior associate dean for academic programs in consultation with the student’s faculty adviser and the instructor who agrees to direct that study.

Cognate Courses. Students may, in consultation with their faculty advisers, take up to two graduate level courses in other departments of Duke University or at the University of North Carolina. Permission for more than two such cognate courses must be secured from the senior associate dean for academic programs. Courses in Duke’s Department of Religion do not count within this limit.
Graduation with Distinction. Students who achieve a grade point average of 3.85 for overall academic records in the M.Div., M.T.S., and M.C.M. programs are granted the degree summa cum laude. Students with a grade point average of 3.65 or above are awarded their degrees, magna cum laude. Such distinction is calculated on the basis of letter grades only, totaling at least three-quarters of all courses taken at Duke, and will be indicated on the student’s diploma.

Part-Time Students. Students taking less than three courses in any given semester are considered part-time students and are ineligible for financial aid from the school.

Auditors. Full-time students paying for at least three courses are permitted to audit additional courses at no extra cost, if space permits, with the approval of the instructor of the class. Special students, part-time students, or persons not candidates for degrees in the university are charged an audit fee for each such course.

The Basic Theological Degree-Master of Divinity

The faculty of the Divinity School views the curriculum as dynamic, not static; constantly endeavors to review the curriculum as a whole and to tailor individual courses to meet the needs of a rapidly changing world; and periodically commits itself to overall curricular change. Major curricular revisions were instituted in 1948, 1959, and 1967. Another such revision took effect in September of 1987.

This degree program is structured to elicit a positive response to: (1) the challenge to provide an adequate professional education for ministry; (2) the needed variability of ministries in today’s complex world; (3) the norms of university education; and (4) the Christian tradition.

Aims of the Curriculum. The aims of the basic degree program focus on four goals, which should be strongly advanced during the seminary years.

1. The Christian Tradition. To acquire a basic understanding of the biblical, historical, and theological heritage.
2. Self-Understanding. To progress in personal and professional maturity, personal identity, professional competency, and a sensitivity to the world in which we minister.
3. Thinking Theologically. To have the ability to reflect upon major theological and social issues and to define current issues in theological terms and theological issues in contemporary secular terms.
4. Ministering-in-Context. To have the ability to conceptualize and participate effectively in some form of contemporary ministry.

Goals of such scope cannot be neatly programmed in any curriculum, and the degree of achievement (in seminary and beyond) will vary with individuals and their own motives and incentives.

The Basic Curriculum General Description. Graduation requirements for the Master of Divinity degree consist of satisfactory completion of 24 courses, with an overall grade point average of C (2.0) or better: eight basic courses or their equivalent; four limited electives; 12 electives; two units of approved field education; and three evaluations.

The basic curriculum provides for foundational courses in biblical, historical, theological, and ministerial studies representative of the tradition and regarded as indispensable background for subsequent elective work and individual program information. These required courses total eight of the 24 courses necessary for graduation. They are Old Testament 11, New Testament 18, Church History 13 and 14, American Christianity 28, Christian Theology 32, Christian Ethics 33, and Preaching 30.
At least one course must be elected from each of four designated lists of offerings (available at registration) in advanced Church’s Ministry, Biblical Studies, Black Church Studies, and Theologies in Context (the latter covers such fields as Women’s Studies, World Christianity, and Liberation Theology). The opportunity of advanced standing adds further variability to the academic program, depending on the nature and quality of the student’s undergraduate academic work. Twelve courses, half of the required total, are available for working out an individualized program of studies leading to specialized preparation in academic depth and to professional ministerial competence.

Required courses may be staffed by one or more professors and are planned to treat subject matter both in scope and depth at the graduate level.

The formulation of the student’s course of studies is guided by certain broad but normative recommendations for area distribution of courses and by the advice and counsel of appointed faculty advisers or authorized directors.

Students and advisers are directed to read diligently the paragraphs on elective studies and professional aims and distribution of elective studies in the section on administration of the curriculum.

All academic programs are subject to review and emendation by the dean and the senior associate dean for academic programs for the fulfillment of the aims of the curriculum. The declared vocational and professional objective of the student is of central importance both to the student and to the faculty adviser in planning the student’s comprehensive study program.

Six semesters of residential study are ordinarily required for the completion of the degree. With permission of the senior associate dean for academic programs, certified nonresidential study, not exceeding the equivalent of eight courses, may be permitted to a candidate for the basic degree.

The normal academic load is four courses per semester. A student with demonstrated competence may, with the consent of the academic adviser and the senior associate dean for academic programs, enroll for an additional course in the middler and senior years.

General Features of the Basic Curriculum. The following is a brief summary of the basic curriculum:

1. Twenty-four courses and six or more semesters of residency are required for graduation. A normal academic load is four courses per semester.

2. Each student is required to complete two approved assignments in field education (with or without remuneration) under supervision. Such assignments might include an internship, a summer of full-time work, two semesters of part-time work, or involvement in church or community service. The essential criteria for graduation credits are that the amount and quality of supervision be approved by the office of field education, and that the student be required to evaluate and correlate the experience directly.

3. Each student is required to attend and participate in a spiritual formation small group during his/her first year of study.

Admission to candidacy for the Master of Divinity degree is admission to the regular program of studies. The suggested paradigm defines the normal sequence of the student’s developing program. Students enrolled for less than three courses are considered part-time and are not eligible for institutional financial aid.

The curriculum intends to serve graduate-professional aims with maximum flexibility. Twelve elective courses are available and may be programmed to satisfy vocational and professional preferences. In planning a course of study, the student, in consultation with the adviser, should choose a program that will give a broad understanding and appreciation of future professional responsibilities. Members of the faculty and staff welcome inquiries.

Professional ministries include those of the parish, preaching, teaching, and pastoral care; ministries of education in local churches and higher education; missions; campus ministry; specialized urban and rural ministries; chaplaincies, hospital, institutional, industrial, and military; teaching; religious journalism; audiovisual communications; church agencies; and ecumenical ministries at home and abroad. For many of these, further specialized training will necessarily be sought elsewhere beyond the basic degree. For all of these ministries the student's program of studies can be shaped for the particular ministry in view.

Students are encouraged to elect at least one course in each of the following areas or subdivisions of the curriculum beyond the required courses: American Christianity; history of religion; Christian education; world Christianity and ecumenics; biblical exegesis; pastoral care; Christian ethics; worship and preaching; and care of the parish (including church and community). Such advanced courses should be selected with a view to the individual's vocational and professional aims and in consultation with the student's faculty adviser. Students are also encouraged to concentrate, usually in not more than five courses in any one subdivision of the curriculum, in an area directly related to their vocational and professional intention. The program of each student is subject to review and revision by action of the faculty adviser, the committee on academic standing, the senior associate dean for academic programs, or the dean.

Evaluation/Self-evaluation. The successful completion of the M.Div. program rests upon three components: (1) grades; (2) field education; (3) faculty evaluation. Three points of evaluation/ self-evaluation occur. One, after the first field assignment. Two, after the second field assignment. Both the first and second evaluations involve a conference with the student's faculty advisor. When the field education report is delivered to the field education office, the student will make copies and deliver it to his or her advisor. When the faculty advisor receives the field education report from the student, the advisor will examine the report and set up an appointment with the student to review the field education experience and the performance of the student. In consultation with the director of field education, the professor will render the grade P/F (pass or fail) for the student's field education requirement.

The third evaluation, normally after the third semester, reviews the student's progress to date in classroom and field learning and assesses the student's readiness to complete the Master of Divinity program. Specifically examined are the student's (1) understanding of his/her Christian vocation, (2) self perception as a person in ministry, (3) command of skills of ministry, and (4) ability to integrate practice and theology of ministry.

Information from the evaluation is protected by the statutes concerning privacy and confidentiality. It will not be shared by the Divinity School with any extra-university party except upon written release of the student and then only in summary fashion. The instruments to be used for the third include (1) a seven to 10-page typewritten self-evaluation document; (2) field education reports and related data, (3) a self-evaluation of academic performance with a transcript; (4) an episode of ministry such as a verbatim, a sermon, a casestudy, a church program, etc., which indicates some aspect of a theology of ministry; and (5) a 45 minute oral exam over all the materials. The evaluation is a graduation requirement which must be satisfied as any other requirement. Students who require significant additional work as judged by the evaluator will have to complete that work prior to graduation.

Required Limited Electives:
- One course in the Church's Ministry and participation in CHURMIN 1 and 2 (from designated list).
- One course in Black Church Studies (from designated list).
- One course from Theologies in Context (from designated list of courses treating Women's Studies, World Christianity, Liberation Theology).
- One additional course in Scripture.

The third requirement in Scripture may be met in one of the following ways:
1. by the biblical language sequences OLDTEST 115-16 or NEWTEST 103-4 (or an advanced language course in which a formal exegetical paper is required);
2. by an English exegesis course in which a formal exegetical paper is required (the courses to be specified in registration materials);
3. by a Greek or Hebrew exegesis course.

Field Education. Two units of approved field education are required; they may be winter term placements (30 weeks) or summer placements (10-12 weeks).

Student Pastors and Others with Heavy outside Employment. Students in candidacy for the Master of Divinity degree who serve as full-time pastors or work more than 15 hours per week in addition to their academic schedule are advised that their degree programs will usually require a fourth academic year.

Modification of this schedule requires the approval of the senior associate dean for academic programs on recommendation of the director of field education.

1. Students with pastoral charges or comparable extracurricular responsibilities ordinarily will enroll for not more than three courses.
2. Students who accept pastoral charges in their middler or senior year are required to have the prior approval of the director of field education. Such students will be required to restrict their course work in accordance with regulation 1 above.

3. Modifications of these regulations will be scrupulously administered. Academic achievement, normally a B average, must be demonstrated before any modification of these requirements is allowed. Because adequate indication of the student’s academic proficiency is not available before the completion of the first academic year, no modification of regulation 1 is possible for junior students.

4. Students who secure minor employment outside the channels of the office of field education are required to inform the director of field education. Students carrying an outside employment work load of more than 15 hours per week will be required to limit their academic load.

5. Ordinarily a student may not commute more than 50 miles (one way). Students living farther away than this will be required to stay in Durham during the academic week.

6. Student assistant pastors (not pastors-in-charge) may enroll for a full academic load if they are not on limited program, if their work is under the supervision of the director of field education, and if their field duties involve no more than fifteen hours per week.

Study Abroad. Study abroad, with transferable credit toward graduation, may be allowed for a candidate for the Master of Divinity degree by approval of the senior associate dean for academic programs. A strong academic record is a prerequisite. Ordinarily, permission for such study may be granted to students who have completed the work of the middler year. Both the institution abroad and a specific course of study proposed must have the prior approval of the senior associate dean for academic programs. Required courses and the two field education units must usually be completed at Duke.

Transfer Credits. Transfer of credit to the Divinity School of Duke University, leading to candidacy for the degree of Master of Divinity, will normally be limited to one-third of the academic credits (in proportional evaluation) required for fulfillment of degree candidacy (see the chapter, “Admissions”). Courses in which the student received a grade lower than B- will not be considered for transfer credit. Theological courses completed more than five years prior to the intended date of enrollment will not be considered for transfer credit.

Ordination Requirements. Students preparing for ordination are strongly advised to ascertain early in their seminary program the precise ordination requirements of their denomination.

United Methodist students must fulfill educational requirements in the Discipline by completing the year-long course on Methodist doctrine, history, and polity (PARISH 159 and 160), plus one course in evangelism. Most annual conferences also require one or more courses in preaching and worship and/or clinical pastoral education.

Students from other denominations should consult with their appropriate church bodies for specific requirements, which may include biblical languages. Polity courses for certain other denominations may be offered from time to time by faculty members or local clergy on prior request.

Continuation Requirements. The following are the continuation requirements for students enrolled in the M.Div. degree program:

1. The student must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 2.0. If a student falls below this level he or she may be dismissed or warned and placed on limited program. This means that the student may enroll in no more than three courses.
2. At the end of the second semester the student on limited program who does not attain a cumulative GPA of 2.0 is dismissed. In exceptional cases a student who shows substantial improvement the second semester but does not quite attain a GPA of 2.0 may be given a third semester to do so.

3. The progress of all students is reviewed at the end of every semester by the Academic Standing Committee.

The M.Div. degree must be completed within six years (12 semesters). The minimum time in which a degree can be completed is three years (six semesters).

To be classified as full time, a student must be enrolled in three or more courses in a semester.

The Master of Divinity and Master of Social Work Dual Degree Program. This program can be completed in four continuous years of full-time study (instead of five years) and leads to a Master of Divinity degree conferred by Duke University and a Master of Social Work degree conferred by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The program can be started through either school. The core curriculum of each degree must be completed at each institution. Students will be expected to be full-time during this program. Students may not transfer credits from other seminaries towards the Master of Divinity portion of this program. Acceptance into one of the programs does not guarantee acceptance into the other. Tuition and other expenses are paid to the school at which the student is taking classes. Students who are enrolled in either program may apply to the dual degree program after they have started at either school.

Complete information on the program, along with the course of study/paradigm, may be found on the Divinity School website.

M.Div. with a Concentration in Christian Education. Persons wishing a Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in Christian education will complete the stated requirements of the M.Div. curriculum. In addition, they would ordinarily take XTIANEDU 80 in the first semester of the junior year; XTIANEDU 132 in the first semester of the middler year; XTIANEDU 250, the Senior Symposium in Christian Education, in the second semester of the senior year; and two other Christian education courses. They would also complete one field education unit in a Christian education setting.

Certificate in Baptist Studies. Students in the M.Div. and M.C.M. programs interested in a certificate in Baptist Studies should declare that interest, on matriculation, to the director of Baptist Studies and/or the senior associate dean for academic programs. They will be assigned a Baptist faculty advisor. The requirements for the certificate are: (1) completion of three courses in Baptist studies (“The Free Church,” “Free Church Theology,” and a third course which may include a special topics in Free Church Studies or another elective approved by the director of the Baptist House) and (2) middler evaluation by a Baptist faculty member. It is also preferable that at least one field education placement be in a Baptist setting.

Certificate in Anglican Studies. Students in the M.Div. program may, on the recommendation of the committee on Anglican studies, receive a certificate in Anglican studies provided that in their first year they declare their intent to qualify for the certificate to their advisor or the senior associate dean for academic programs; participate actively and regularly throughout their program in the community of Anglican students and especially in the community’s worship life; elect the two semester sequence in Anglican studies (PARISH 155-56F), Christian Worship (LTS 78), and English Reformation (CHURHST 126)–or their equivalents; complete at least one field education placement successfully in an Episcopal setting; and satisfy their middler evaluation with a faculty member knowledgeable in the Anglican tradition.
The Master in Church Ministries Degree

The Program. The Master in Church Ministries permits students to work in specified tracks: Christian education, health and nursing ministry, and spirituality. Paradigms are outlined below. The tracks are intended to prepare persons for several of the specialized ministries now exercised in Protestant life and particularly those recognized for deacons by the United Methodist Church. Each provides opportunities for enquiry and guidance for students who want serious academic study about the church and its ministries and structures for apprenticeship and supervision appropriate for the distinct practices and specializations of ministry. The degree is governed by Association of Theological School rubrics for “Basic Programs Oriented Toward Ministerial Leadership.” (See ATS Bulletin 45, Part 1, Procedures Related to Membership and Accreditation, 111-113.) The degree conforms to SACS criteria. All tracks in the program share a common design and set of standard requirements:

Church’s Ministry (CHURMIN) limited electives, a CHURMIN small group component, and a senior final evaluation; core requirements of Church History 13 and 14; Old Testament 11 and New Testament 18; Christian Theology 32 and Christian Ethics 33; additional core requirements in the track; at least one supervised and approved field placement, an apprenticeship in the area of specialization.

Admission. Applications for admission to the Master in Church Ministries program are evaluated by standards and procedures outlined in the Admissions section of this bulletin and are comparable to those employed for the Master of Divinity degree.

1. The Christian education track within the Master in Church Ministries is designed to prepare persons for ministries as program directors, as directors of religious education, or as deacons. This track requires two full years of course work, 16 courses, two colloquia, and an approved field education placement.

The two colloquia, XTIANEDU 4 A and B, are noncredit but required courses devoted to exploration of vocational issues and special topics. These two colloquia, CHURMIN Limited Elective, Spiritual Formation small group (CHURMIN 1/CHURMIN 2), and the Senior Seminar, XTIANEDU 250, provide each semester a context for relating theory and praxis, the academic program to field experience, and the formal curriculum to person and vocation. Students undertake supervised and approved field education placements as Christian educators.

In addition, students may elect courses within the graduate education programs of...
North Carolina State University (Raleigh), the University of North Carolina (Chapel Hill), and North Carolina Central University (Durham).

II. The track in spirituality will serve individuals intent on laying a theological foundation for further work in spirituality, pastoral counseling, or pastoral care; persons already involved in lay and/or professional leadership roles intent on deepening their understanding of such ministry; some who may, under other auspices, seek credentials as spiritual directors; and persons who wish to deepen their own spiritual life. This track requires 16 courses and can be completed in two years. The faculty member most closely associated with the spirituality track is Michael Battle. The program features courses oriented toward the spiritual disciplines (SPIRIT 22, XTIANTHE 119, SPIRIT 210, LTS 78) and exploration of spirituality from theological (XTIANTHE 112, 222, 225 or 249), historical (CHURHST 206 or 250), and biblical (OLDTEST 163 or NEWTEST 197) perspectives:

Students in this track lacking college-level preparation in psychology and/or counseling may wish to take a basic pastoral care course. They will undertake an integrative paper or project either in the senior seminar, CHURHST 206/250, or in a directed study (SPIRIT 399) with their adviser. They will be expected to participate throughout in a Spiritual Formation small group (CM Small Group CHURMIN 1/CHURMIN 2) and to be under spiritual direction. Field placements would typically be with ministers involved in the Order of St. Luke or in other forms of spirituality and in churches or agencies involved with programs in spiritual disciplines.

Among the faculty involved in the spirituality track are Michael Battle (ministerial studies), Susan Keefe (history), William Turner (theology), James Crenshaw (Bible), and Geoffrey Wainwright (theology).

III. The track in health and nursing ministries is designed to prepare nurses to serve as health care ministers in local congregations. Applicants for this track must be registered nurses licensed or eligible for licensure in North Carolina.

The core faculty associated with the track in health and nursing ministries are Keith Meador and Alyson Breisch (School of Nursing).

Continuation Requirements. The following are the continuation requirements for the M.C.M. degree program:

1. The student must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 2.0. A student falling below that may be given a second semester to bring up the cumulative GPA to 2.0. Failure to do so results in dismissal.
2. The progress of all students is reviewed at the end of every semester by the Academic Standing Committee.

The minimum time in which the M.C.M. can be completed is two years (four semesters). The degree must be completed in four years (eight semesters). To be classified as full time, a student must enroll in three or more courses.

The Master of Theological Studies Degree

This two-year (four semesters) general academic degree is designed to provide an introduction to the theological disciplines as: (1) foundation for a graduate research degree (Ph.D.); (2) preparation for lay religious careers; (3) grounding for teaching, research, or practice in another field (e.g., history, psychology, music); (4) enhancement of institutional leadership roles; or (5) personal enrichment.

Requirements:

1. Sixteen courses and four or more semesters of residency (at least three semesters of which must be at Duke, i.e., transfer credit is limited to one semester);
2. a normal load of four courses per semester;
3. two courses from each of the biblical, historical, and theological divisions, specifically the Old and New Testament introductions; the two semester survey of church history; and the basic theology and ethics courses;
4. the maintenance of a cumulative grade point average of 2.5;
5. a paper submitted within a course in the final (fourth) semester and fulfilling, in part, the requirements of that course which addresses itself to the coherence, learnings, or major emphases of the individual’s program (choice of course by mutual consent of student, instructor, and adviser); and

\(^1\) 100 hours of clinical experience per semester.

\(^2\) Recommend CHE 266 or PASTCARE 64
6. completion of all requirements for the degree within a four-year (eight-semester) period.

Administration. In consultation with the M.T.S. faculty advisor, students will draft a set of program goals and project a four-semester course plan (or an appropriate alternative plan on a part-time basis). At each registration conference, students and the advisor (with their assistant) will reassess program goals and the course plan adopted by the student.

At the end of the first year of coursework, the faculty advisor will assess the progress and academic performance of the student. Before graduation and after the thesis is submitted, there will be a final evaluation of the student's academic performance. Both the assessment and the final evaluation are submitted to the academic dean and placed in the student's academic record.

At the end of each semester, the Academic Policies Committee shall review the progress and cumulative grade point average of each student. The M.T.S. program as a whole will be administered by the senior associate dean for academic programs in consultation with the faculty adviser to the M.T.S. program. The M.T.S. faculty advisor will take responsibility for any colloquia or their special M.T.S. programs.

The Master of Theology Degree

The course of study leading to the degree of Master of Theology is designed for graduates of accredited theological schools who desire to continue or resume their theological education for enhancement of professional competence in selected areas of study. Enrollment in the Th.M. degree program is open to a limited number of students who have received the M.Div. (or the equivalent) with superior academic records.

Inquiries on admission may be addressed to the director of admissions.

General Requirements. The general requirements for the degree of Master of Theology are:

1. Eight course units of advanced studies, with an average grade of B (3.0 average on a 4.0 scale).
2. Superior performance in a comprehensive examination covering the major area of study. As an alternative to the comprehensive examination, the student may elect to do a research project in one major area if approved by the supervising professor. This project shall carry one course unit, to be counted within the eight units required.
3. Residence for one academic year or the equivalent. (Equivalency to be determined by the senior associate dean for academic programs).

There are no general language requirements. However, classical or modern languages may be required for certain programs (for example, in biblical studies, Hebrew or Greek may be required).

The Program of Study. At least four of the required eight courses must be taken in one of the basic theological disciplines (biblical, historical, theological, or ministerial) that shall be designated as the candidate's major, and at least two courses in another discipline (i.e., an area of study distinct from the major) that shall be designated as the candidate's minor. A major and a minor may be chosen within the same area of study with the approval of the senior associate dean for academic programs and the chair of the division which oversees the desired area of study. Students enrolled in the Th.M. may take the elementary biblical languages; however, these courses may not count as fulfilling the major or minor requirements for biblical studies.

The comprehensive examination will be given at the close of the course of study for the degree, ordinarily in May or September. Persons electing to do a research project should obtain guidelines for its submission from the senior associate dean for academic programs. The research project, upon completion and approval, must be deposited in the library.

The entire program of studies and comprehensive examination or project can be completed within 12 months. In some cases, the time limit may be extended, but not usually beyond three years.

The candidate majoring in pastoral care may plan one of three programs or concentrations: a concentration in pastoral theology and theological understanding to professional ministry, especially the parish, through course work and supervised clinical or field experience; a concentration in pastoral care through course work and a residency in clinical pastoral education (CPE); a concentration in pastoral supervision through course work and a supervisory CPE program. In the latter two concentrations a maximum of three course credits may be granted for the residency or supervisory CPE. The Clinical Pastoral Education program is accredited by the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education, Inc., through which students majoring in pastoral supervision may seek certification as a chaplain supervisor. Course CPE 100 (or its equivalent) is considered a prerequisite for a major in pastoral care. It is not applicable toward the eight courses required for the degree, although it will be indicated on the student's transcript. The student majoring in this area should ordinarily make provision for a program extending for a full calendar year, with students in a pastoral care residency or pastoral supervision generally requiring 18 months to three years to complete course and clinical work.

Financial Aid. Please note in the pertinent sections of the chapter Financial Information that the charges for tuition and general fee for the Th.M. degree are combined and are made on the basis of the number of courses taken.

Continuation Requirements. The following are the continuation requirements for the Th.M. degree program:

1. The student must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 3.0. A student who falls below this level is terminated.

2. The progress of all students is reviewed at the end of every semester by the Academic Standing Committee.

The Th.M. degree must be completed within three years (six semesters). The minimum time in which the degree can be completed is one year (two semesters).
To be classified as full time, a student must be enrolled in three or more courses in a semester.

Th.M. students who have registered for the eight required courses and have completed all course work except the comprehensive exam or the project may maintain registration, obtain use of university resources (library), contract for supervision, and sustain their program by registering through a Course Continuation Fee (CONTDIV 101 or 102) in every semester until the program is completed. The fee is $100 per course (per semester).

Duke Summer Session

The Divinity School offers a limited summer program, including intensive biblical language courses (Greek/Hebrew), individual directed study, and one or more electives. Summer courses of graduate level may also be taken in other departments as cognate credits (maximum of two; see provisions under administration of the curriculum). Permission for such credits must be secured in advance from the instructor and from the senior associate dean for academic programs and may involve university rather than Divinity tuition.

Special Programs

Duke Divinity School is a participant in the National Capital Semester for Seminarians conducted by Wesley Theological Seminary in Washington, D.C. Students may, with the approval of the senior associate dean for academic programs, enroll in this one-semester program focused on political issues and social ethics and receive up to four transfer credits. Applicants must have completed at least two and not more than four semesters at Duke to be eligible.

International Study Programs

For several years the Divinity School has been developing programs of international study and exchange involving faculty and students. The main areas in which the development is centered at this time are the following:

Middle East Travel Seminar. The Middle East Travel Seminar is a three-week study tour, beginning in mid-May, to which our students may apply. Each year four to six Divinity students are selected to visit and study important sites with lay people and students from regional seminaries including Southern Baptist Seminary, Mercer Seminary, and Candler School of Theology.

Robert E. Cushman Exchange Fellowship. Each year faculty and staff nominate a student to represent the Divinity School in the Erlangen/Duke Exchange Program. Through the year program at Erlangen University (Germany), the student becomes thoroughly acquainted with another culture and different church life. Full participation in classes at Erlangen required. Language preparation necessary. Contact Reinhard Hütter for more information.

The Hispanic Summer Program takes place for two weeks every summer at a different site in the United States or Puerto Rico. Hispanic students, as well as others who are bilingual and who are interested in Hispanic ministries, may attend this academic program and take a maximum of two courses for two credits each. Courses in the Hispanic Summer Program cover a wide range of the theological curriculum, and are always taught with the Latino church in mind.
Courses of Instruction
Course Enrollment

The foundational courses typically carry two digit numbers (e.g., New Testament 18, Church History 13, American Christianity 28, Christian Theology 32). Other courses numbered through 199 are elective courses for Divinity School students only. Many courses numbered 200 and above are approved for credit by both the Divinity School and the Graduate School, and require the permission of the instructor. For other prerequisites the student should consult the roster of courses of instruction in this bulletin and should also refer to published registration advice at the time of registration for each semester.

Courses jointly approved by the Divinity School and the Graduate School of Duke University are published in the Bulletin of Duke University: The Divinity School. Courses offered in the Department of Religion of Duke University, or as cognate courses in other departments, must be of graduate level (numbered 200 or above) in order to fulfill requirements for degrees in the Divinity School.

Projected Course Offerings

The following list of proposed course offerings for the 2004-2005 academic year is tentative and subject to change. Detailed listings are available at the time of preregistration in the middle of the preceding semester, and more distant plans may be ascertained by consulting the divisional representative or the instructors concerned.

OLD TESTAMENT (OLDTEST)

2A. Hebrew Reading. A noncredit course for "reading maintenance" in Hebrew texts and to improve language skills. Prerequisites: Old Testament 115 and 116. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

101. The Prophetic Movement. A study of the prophetic movement in Israel from the earliest period to the postexilic development of apocalyptic with special reference to the content and religious teaching of the prophetic writings. Instructor: Efird. One course.

106. Exegesis of the English Old Testament. Register for course by designated suffix, A-L. One course each. Prerequisite: Old Testament 11 or equivalent. Instructor: Chapman, Crenshaw, or Portier-Young. Variable credit.

106B. Amos and Hosea. Instructor: Crenshaw. One course.

116. Introduction to Biblical Hebrew. Continuation of Old Testament 115. (Two semesters: no credit will be given for 115 without completion of 116.) Instructor: Crenshaw, Chapman, Davis, or Portier-Young. One course.

145. To Work and Watch: Toward a Biblical Ecology/Theology of Land. The aims of this course are to: 1. Explore ancient Israel's theological understandings of land tenure and use, and further, to explore how land is a crucial element in the relations between humanity and the other creatures, on the one hand, humanity and God, on the other. 2. To engage in a serious rereading of the Biblical text in light of the contemporary ecological crisis. 3. To identify ideologies of land tenure and usage that are operative in contemporary societies, including our own, and to examine them critically in light of the biblical text and the present crisis. Prerequisite: Old Testament 11. Instructor: Davis. One course.

150. Necessary Women: Biblical Representations of Women in Judges and Ruth. We will look at representations of women (especially the multiple representations in Judges and Ruth) from different interpretative perspectives: history of religions, sociology, feminism, ancient and medieval Christian and Jewish thought, literary theory, systematic theology, contemporary spirituality, and religious art. We will consider what these books indicate about ancient Israelite religion and religious imagination, and also how they may inform our own religious imaginations. Prerequisite: OLDTEST 11. Instructor: Davis. One course.

155. Israel and the Nations. This course explores the working hypothesis that a critical first step for reflection on the relationship between Christianity and other world religions is to locate the right balance between election and responsibility within the overarching Old Testament drama involving God, Israel, and the nations, if any of these questions are to be answered faithfully for the future. Prerequisite: OLDTEST 11 and NEWTEST 18. Instructor: Stephen Chapman. One course.

160. Old Testament Law and Community. This course aims to investigate the various legal codes of the Old Testament, primarily those within the Pentateuch, in order to: 1. Articulate their similarities and differences, and thereby gain a sense of the legal tradition of the Old Testament as a whole; 2. Situate the codes within the context of historical Israel's communal life, posing the sociological question of the relationship between corporate identity and communal discipline; 3. Frame the theological issue of contemporary Christian use and application of Old Testament legal texts. Prerequisite: Old Testament 11. Instructor: Chapman. One course.

163. Biblical Prayer. An examination of biblical prayer in its ancient context, with attention to the function of prayer in religious traditions and modern theologians' uneasiness over "petition." Instructor: Crenshaw. One course.
170. Women, the Bible, and the Biblical World. An investigation of selected literary and graphic materials from the ancient world through which the image, role, and status of females can be discerned. Instructor: Crenshaw or C. Meyers. One course. C-L: New Testament 170

180. From Text to Sermon. One course. C-L: see Preaching 180; also C-L: New Testament 180

207. Hebrew Prose Narrative. Three courses. C-L: see Religion 207

209. Old Testament Theology. A study of important religious themes in ancient Israel such as the presence and absence of God, divine justice and mercy, evil and suffering. Prerequisite: Old Testament 11 or equivalent. Instructor: Crenshaw or Chapman. One course.

210. Living By Exodus. This seminar will look at the importance of the book of Exodus for theology and the formation of religious identity among both Jews and Christians. Further, we will look at how its central significance is evidenced in the homiletical traditions of both communities from antiquity to the present. Prerequisite: Old Testament 11. Instructor: Davis. One course.

230. A Garden Locked: Approaches to the Song of Songs. This seminar will explore traditional readings of the Song, both Christian and Jewish, as well as a variety of contemporary interpretations. The aim will be to deepen our understanding of biblical hermeneutics, the nature of biblical language, and ways in which the Bible may properly be used for theological reflection. Prerequisite: OLDTEST 11. Instructor: Davis. One course.

237. Literature of the Ancient Near East. Emphasis upon the religions, literature, and art of Mesopotamia. Instructor: Staff. One course.

254. Suffering in the Old Testament. The course examines various responses to suffering in the Old Testament, both human and divine, and attempts to assess these understandings in light of modern conceptions. Focus on Job and Hosea, which discuss human and divine suffering respectively, and on related texts from the Bible and the ancient Near East which illuminate the fundamental problems resulting from divine and human conduct. Prerequisite: Old Testament 11. Instructor: Crenshaw. One course.

310. The Theological Interpretation of Scripture. The goal of this course is to promote reflection about how theologians, pastors, and churches can read Scripture theologically within the contemporary intellectual and cultural context. Prerequisite: OLDTEST 11, NEWTEST 18, CHURHST 13, CHURHST 14, XTIANTHE 32. Instructor: Chapman. One course.

325. History of Ancient Israel. This course offering is intended primarily for graduate students in the Ph.D. program in Religion, with two main goals: 1) to expose them to the current methodological and theoretical complexity of this area within the field; and 2) to give them an opportunity to become better acquainted with classic works in the history of critical scholarship. Instructor: Chapman. One course.

347. Hebrew Narrative Art. Analysis of the literary craft of selected biblical narratives, and critique of various approaches to studying the art of Hebrew narrative. Prerequisite: knowledge of Hebrew and consent of instructor. Instructor: Crenshaw or Chapman. One course.

NEW TESTAMENT (NEWTEST)

2A. New Testament Greek Reading. Focus on reading New Testament texts with some consideration of grammar, syntax, and prose style of various biblical texts. Prerequisites: New Testament 103 and 104 or equivalents. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

103. Hellenistic Greek. Designed for beginners to enable them to read the Greek New Testament. (Two semesters: no credit will be given for 103 without completion of 104; however, students with at least one full year of college Greek may be permitted to enroll in 104.) Instructor: Efird. One course.

104. Hellenistic Greek. Continuation of New Testament 103. (Two semesters: no credit will be given for 103 without completion of 104; however, students with at least one full year of college Greek may be permitted to enroll in 104.) Instructor: Efird. One course.

114. Jesus in the Gospels: The Passion Narratives. A consideration of the origins, transmissions, and literary fixation of the Jesus traditions with special attention to the message of the Kingdom, the problem of messianic self-consciousness, and the passions. Instructor: Marcus. One course.

115. The Art of Biblical Interpretation. This course is a basic introduction to methods of Biblical interpretation, with attention to the prior assumptions and purposes of different interpretive methods. Instructor: Eastman. One course. C-L: Christian Education 115

   116D. I Corinthians. Instructor: Staff. One course.

   117B. Romans. Instructor: Hays. One course.

170. Women, the Bible, and the Biblical World. An investigation of selected literary and graphic materials from the ancient world through which the image, role, and status of females can be discerned. Instructor: Crenshaw or C. Meyers. One course. C-L: Old Testament 170

180. From Text to Sermon. One course. C-L: see Preaching 180; also C-L: Old Testament 180

205. Bible Study Programs for the Local Church. One course. C-L: Christian Education 205

212. Judaism and Christianity: Ancient Roots and Modern Perspectives. Prerequisites: Oldtest 11, Newtest 18 Instructor: Marcus. One course.

222. John Among the Gospels. Instructor: Staff. One course.

226B. Romans. Instructor: Hays. One course.
226C. Mark. Instructor: Hays. One course.

227C. The Pastoral Epistles. Instructor: Staff. One course.
227D. Epistles of Peter and James. Instructor: Staff. One course.

257. New Testament Ethics. This course examines the distinctive patterns of ethical teaching in the various New Testament writings and considers various ways in which the New Testament might inform contemporary ethical reflection. The course will examine representative uses of the New Testament in theological ethics (for example, Niebuhr, Barth, Yoder, Hauerwas, Schüssler Fiorenza, Gutierrez). Finally, selected topics will be addressed: for example, violence, divorce, anti-Judaism, abortion, wealth, and poverty. Instructor: Hays. One course.

270. Paul's "Mother Tongue": Interpreting and Approaching Paul's Parental Metaphors. This course aims at recovering Paul's "mother tongue" through a close reading of his parental metaphors, with particular attention to his use of maternal imagery. We will attend to the background of that imagery of prophetic and apocalyptic literature, as well as appropriations in the early church. The course will include readings in metaphor theory, exegesis of selected texts, and reflection on ways both destructive and constructive, such parental metaphors function in the church today. Prerequisite: OLDTEST 11, NEWTEST 18, NEWTEST 103 and 104 strongly recommended. Instructor: Eastman. One course. C-L: Christian Education 270

275. The Life of Paul. Prerequisite: NEWTEST 18, one exegesis course, XTIANETH 32, Greek recommended not required. Instructor: Staff. One course.

276. Imitation and Transformation in the Letters of Paul. This course will investigate Paul's imitation language in relationship to the formation of Christian character. The course will include exegesis of specific texts and critical evaluation of contemporary interpretations. We will attend to both ancient and modern notions of imitation. Prerequisite: OLDTEST 11, NEWTEST 18, XTIANETH 33. Instructor: Eastman. One course. C-L: Christian Education 276

280. Justification by Faith in Paul. This advanced course will examine several aspects of the doctrine of justification by faith in relation to Paul. Prerequisite: NEWTEST 18, NEWTEST 103, and one Exegesis course. Instructor: Campbell. One course.

303. The Old Testament in the New: New Testament Writers as Interpreters of Scripture. This doctoral seminar will seek to examine the ways in which New Testament authors read and interpreted Scripture. Special attention will be given to Paul, the Gospels, and Hebrews. Prerequisite: New Testament 18, 103-104, or equivalents. Instructor: Hays. One course.

309. Hermeneutics. Consideration of the nature of understanding and of several interpretive methods including phenomenological, existential, historical, literary, and structural. Their application to New Testament texts, primarily the parables of Jesus. Instructor: Martin. One course.

321. The Theology of Paul: Structure and Coherence. Review of recent critical discussion of Pauline theology, with particular emphasis on the problem of the structure and coherence of Paul's thought. Reading knowledge of German, as well as some previous work in Greek exegesis of the Pauline corpus is required. Consent of instructor required. Instructor: Hays. One course.

II. Historical Studies

CHURCH HISTORY (CHURHST)

183. Renewal Movements in Church History. An investigation of renewal movements as parallel phenomena throughout Christian history utilizing social scientific studies of culture change and focusing on ancient monasticism, Franciscanism, Anabaptism, and early Methodism as representative renewal movements. Instructor: Staff. One course.

206. The Christian Mystical Tradition in the Medieval Centuries. Reading and discussion of the writings of medieval Christian mystics (in translation). Each year offers a special focus, such as: Women at Prayer; Fourteenth-Century Mystics; Spanish Mystics. Less well-known writers (Hadewijch, Birgitta of Sweden, Catherine of Genoa) as well as giants (Eckhart, Ruusbroec, Tauler, Suso, Teresa of Avila, Julian of Norwich, Catherine of Siena, and Bernard of Clairvaux) are included. Also offered as Medieval and Renaissance Studies 206 and Religion 206. Instructor: Keefe. One course.

247. Readings in Latin Ecclesiastical Literature. This class will introduce students to the reading of ecclesiastical Latin, using John F. Collins' A Primer of Ecclesiastical Latin. No prior knowledge of Latin is required. Throughout most of the semester, the primary focus will be on grammatical exercises and learning vocabulary, but students will be introduced to simple passages from the Latin Bible and other ecclesiastical texts, and by the end of the semester will be reading more lengthy selections from the Bible, besides the text of the Latin Mass. Instructor: Staff. One course.

250. Women in the Medieval Church. The history of the Medieval Church told from its women figures. Attention to the life and writings of saints, heretics, abbesses, queens, mystics, recluses, virgins, bishops' wives, and reformers. Topic varies. Instructor: Keefe. One course.

272. The Early Medieval Church. Instructor: Staff. One course.

272A. The Early Medieval Church, Out of Africa: Christianity in North Africa before Islam. In this seminar we will look at selected writings of Tertullian, Cyprian, and Augustine, as well as lesser known African Fathers. We will look at the African rite of Baptism, African Creeds, and African Church councils. Focusing on major theological, liturgical, and pastoral problems in the African church, we hope to gain an appreciation of the crucial role of the African church in the development of the church in the West. Instructor: Keefe. One course.

276. The Sacraments in the Patristic and Early Medieval Period. A study of the celebration and interpretation of baptism or eucharist in the church orders and texts of the early church writers. Instructor: Keefe. One course.

310. Four Carolingian Debates. Readings in Latin of pastoral, theological, and church-disciplinary literature from the late patristic and medieval period. Prerequisite: CHURHST 247 or equivalent, plus a fair reading knowledge of Latin. Instructor: Keefe. One course.

HISTORICAL THEOLOGY (HISTTHEO)

123. Readings in Historical Theology. Prerequisites: Church History 13 and 14. Instructor: Staff. One course.

204. Origen. The systematic and apologetic writings of an important Alexandrian thinker and exegete of the third century. Instructor: Staff. One course.

215. The Theology of the Alexandrian School. This course will focus on the writings of four of Alexandria's most influential thinkers: Philo, Clement, Athanasius, and Cyril. Prerequisite: CHURHST 13. Instructor: Smith. One course.

220. Topics in Historical Theology. Topics vary. May be repeated for credit. Instructor: Staff. One course.

225. Readings in Medieval Theology. This course examines the high medieval achievement in theology, both scholastic and spiritual, through close study of selections from many of the most important theologians from the 12th through the early 14th centuries. Prerequisite: CHURHST 13. Instructor: Staff. One course.

236. Luther and the Reformation in Germany. The theology of Martin Luther in the context of competing visions of reform. Instructor: Steinmetz. One course.

246. Problems in Historical Theology. Instructor: Staff. One course.

260. Creation and Eschaton in Patristic Thought. The course will concentrate on Irenaeus and Augustine. Both men developed their doctrines of creation in response to two similar schools of thought, second century Gnostics and fourth century Manichees, each of which maintained a strongly dualistic ontology and cosmology. The focus of the course will be how Irenaeus and Augustine answer the position of their opponents by describing the nature of creation such that the creation itself cannot be viewed as the cause of evil. Prerequisite: Church History 13. Instructor: Smith. One course.

265. Virtue and Theology in Early Christian Ethics. In this course, we will examine the classical concept of virtue (Homer, Plato, and Aristotle) and the way that Christian theology (Christology, anthropology, eschatology, hamartiology) causes early Christian theologians to modify the classical concept of virtue. After a survey of key Christian views of theology and discipleship (Clement, Nyssen, Ambrose, Augustine) we will examine key ethical issues. Prerequisite: Church History 13. Instructor: Smith. One course.

271. Christologies of the Early Church. Investigation of important soteriologies and debates centering on the person of Christ from the second through the fifth centuries. Instructor: Staff. One course.

302. Theology of John Wesley. Instructor: Staff. One course.
308. Greek Patristic Texts. In this course we will study the Greek syntax and style of key patristic texts, e.g., Martyrdom of Polycarp, Letters of Ignatius of Antioch, Acts of Paul and Thecla, Origen’s Preface to On First Principles, Nyssen’s Life of Macrina, and Nazianzen’s Third Theological Oration. Class will include a review of Attic grammar not common in Koine Greek. Instructor: Staff. One course.

317. Seminar in the Greek Apologists. A study of the apologetic writings of the Greek Fathers in relation to the challenges of their contemporary world. Special attention will be given to leading protagonists of late Graeco-Roman culture, such as Celsus, Porphyry, and Julian. Instructor: Staff. One course.

318. Seminar in the Greek Fathers. A study of selected topics from the Greek Fathers. Instructor: Staff. One course.

320. The Theology and Ethics of Ambrose of Milan. This new class on Ambrose will consider the following: Political and Philosophical Context of Fourth Century Christendom; Ambrose’s Exegesis; Ambrose’s Dogmatic Theology; and Ambrose’s Moral Theology. It is designed to be of value to both historians of late antiquity and ancient Christianity and students of theology and ethics. Instructor: Smith. One course.

323. The Theology of the Cappadocians. Instructor: Staff. One course. C-L: see Christian Theology 323

334. Theology and Reform in the Later Middle Ages. Examination of selected issues in the life and thought of the medieval church from the twelfth century through the fifteenth century. Readings in popular and academic theologians from Pierre Abelard to Gabriel Biel. Instructor: Steinmetz. One course.

337. Theology of St. Thomas Aquinas. Seminar on themes and problems in the thought of Thomas Aquinas. Consent of instructor required. Also taught as Religion 337A. Instructor: Steinmetz. One course.

340. Christ, Church, and Polity in Late Medieval English Writing. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32; Church History 13, 14, or equivalent. Instructor: Aers. One course.

AMERICAN CHRISTIANITY (AMXTIAN)

267. American Religious Thought. Exploration of major writings from the Puritans to the present. ‘Religious thought’ will be broadly construed to include formal theological treatises, spiritual autobiographies, folk theology, and the like. Instructor: Wacker. One course.

268. Worship in the Wesleyan Tradition. Instructor: Staff. One course. C-L: see Liturgical Studies 268

270. American Evangelicalism and Fundamentalism. A reading seminar covering major themes in the development of transdenominational evangelicalism and fundamentalism in America from the eighteenth century to the present. Instructor: Wacker. One course.

294. Christianity and American Society. Consideration of civil religion, church and state, the Protestant establishment and secularization in their historical development and contemporary expressions in America. Instructor: Staff. One course.

349. History and Historiography of Religion in North America. An opportunity for advanced students in North American religious studies to deepen their understanding of some of the major questions in the field. Examination of how religious history is actually written—with special attention to the imaginative and moral motivations that enter into that process. Consent of instructor required. Instructor: Wacker. One course.

HISTORY OF RELIGION (HISTREL)

5. Middle East Travel Seminar. A three-week, noncredit study venture visiting Syria, Jordan, Egypt, Israel, and Greece. Scheduled typically for mid-May to mid-June, it involves teams from Union (Richmond), Southern (Louisville), and Emmanuel (Tennessee). Up to five Duke students will be selected. Persons accomplished in biblical studies, with interest in archaeology and in the Middle East, with strong grades and outstanding promise for ministry and denominational leadership make the best candidates. Instructor: Crenshaw. No credit.

131. Introduction to Judaism: Calendar as Catechism. An integrated view of Judaism through a survey of the holy days of the Jewish calendar. The holy days are the focal points of well integrated and constantly elaborated teachings, rituals, liturgies, and folkways—all uniquely attached to a timely (historical) moment (for example, Passover), or to a timeless gesture (for example, Day of Atonement). Each event is a prism through which the light of Jewish civilization is refracted to reveal its various aspects and eras. Instructor: Sager. One course.

131A. Introduction to Judaism: Investigations into the Jewish Life Cycle: A Time to be Born; A Time to Die. This course will give particular attention to the liturgical and ritual responses to life and death. The studies of rite and liturgy will lead to investigations of the underlying Jewish theological and philosophical claims, as well as the psychological attitudes that inform rejoicing and grieving. Instructor: Sager. One course.

132. An Introduction to Jewish Prayer. A project to examine the forms, vocabulary, and uses of Jewish liturgy from ancient times through the present. Instructor: Sager. One course.

135. Introduction to Midrash: The Rabbinc Art of Interpreting Scripture. How does the single voice of Scripture contain the chorus of rabbinic interpretations? What is the nature of the dialogue between text and interpreter? What is the authority of exegesis? These are some of the questions that we will explore through selected midrash texts. The texts themselves will represent a variety of literary forms, styles, and topics. Instructor: Sager. One course.
140. Elijah the Prophet in Jewish Consciousness. Survey of aspects of Jewish continuity, custom and ritual through the lens of traditions relating to Elijah the Prophet. Instructor: Sager. One course.

180. Introduction to Asian Religions. Preliminary consideration of problems and methods in the study of religious traditions, followed by a survey of the historical development, beliefs, practices, and contemporary significance of the Islamic religion and the religions of India, China, and Japan. See other courses offered in the Department of Religion. Instructor: Staff (Department of Religion). One course.

III. Theological Studies

CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY (XTIANTHE)

32. Christian Theology. The course aims at furthering the active appropriation of the Christian faith in the context of the contemporary church and in engagement with the world of today. It treats principally the themes of the classic creeds or the traditional topics of dogmatics. It also introduces students to the epistemological issues of revelation, faith, authority, interpretation, and social location. Instructor: Staff. One course.

100. The Love of Learning and Desire for God. The focus of the course will be to stimulate students' imagination to see why a desire to love God entails a willingness to engage in serious study of theology, broadly understood. Instructor: L.G. Jones. One course.

105. A Theological Introduction to Roman Catholicism. An exploration of fundamental themes of Roman Catholic history, theology, liturgy, and spirituality, with special attention to the mass. Instructor: Berger. One course.

112. Providence and Prayer: How in the World Does God Act?. The course invites people to the adventure of theological reflection, assuming that students come with a variety of ways of thinking through their faith already. We will begin by foregrounding questions related to issues of providence and prayer. What do our prayers reveal of our ways of thinking about God's presence in the world? Instructor: Berger. One course.

114. The Free Church. This course is designed to introduce students to the theological ethos of the Free Church tradition from the origins in Europe and Great Britain, through its spread to North America, to contemporary expressions in the post-colonial two-thirds world. The approach to the subject will be historical and theological, providing a narrative that traces the development and growth of the Free Church movement as well as a typological description of the character of the Free Church. Instructor: Freeman. One course.

115. Free Church Theology. Extending Schleiermacher's observation that theology in the West is either Catholic or Protestant, this course explores a third type: Free Church theology. It will prepare students to think theologically about the convictions and practices that are distinctive to the standpoint of the Free Church tradition in conversation with Catholic and Protestant theologies. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Freeman. One course.

120. Reformed Theologies. This course is designed to acquaint the student with the theological ethos of the Reformed tradition, in both its early Continental and its contemporary expressions. Instructor: Staff. One course.

125. Faith and Freedom. This course is designed to help students answer from a Christian standpoint what it means to be free. Conceptions of freedom from the broader cultural horizon will be engaged in conversation, but the primary sources for reflection will be from Christian Scripture and tradition. The life stories of St. Augustine, John Bunyan, and Jarena Lee (and her "Sisters in the Spirit") will serve as models to display the convictions and practices of Christian freedom. Instructor: Freeman. One course.

130. The Pastor's Vocation. This course proposes to revisit the notion of the pastor's life, drawing on classical as well as contemporary texts, theological analysis as well as memoir and fiction, and men and women from diverse Christian communities. The course will explore key themes of the pastor's vocation: calling, the pastoral office, spiritual life and care, preacher, and the pastor as leader of the communities of faith and resistance. Writing assignments will ask students to reflect on their understanding of the pastoral vocation in conversation with the readings. Instructor: L. G. Jones. One course.

133. Thinking Theologically. An introduction to the nature and task of theology as part of the life of the church. Instructor: Staff. One course.

139. Women, Theology, and the Church. An introductory course about gender and the church that considers issues of authority in the mainline churches and theological traditions, surveys the range of feminist theologies from biblical and evangelical to radical, and allows the student to work on practical issues of gender and ministry. Instructor: Staff. One course.

140. Theology and Interpreting Scripture. We will pay special attention to how understanding of God and corporate life are connected to different judgements about the nature of the Bible as scripture, its use, and what counts as faithful practices. Instructor: Fulkerson. One course.

144. Topics in Theology. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

149. The Lord's Prayer. By studying historic and contemporary expositions of the Lord's Prayer, the course provides an introduction not only to the doctrines of God, humanity, prayer, and the kingdom, but also to the variety of the Christian spiritual tradition in time and space. Instructor: Wainwright. One course.

150. Conflicts in Faith: Christianity and Feminism. Prerequisite: Christian Ethics 33, Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

211. Authority in Theology. The idea and function of authority in theology. Instructor: Staff. One course.

212. Christ and Cultural Studies. This seminar will treat contemporary issues of theology and culture. Instructor: Fulkerson. One course.

218. The Sacraments: Rites and Theologies. Contemporary study of the sacraments brings together ritual studies, liturgical history, the history of dogma, and systematic reflection. This course examines the baptismal and eucharistic rites of the Church, both past and present, along with theological rationales of and commentaries on them offered by ecclesiastic writers of the patristic, medieval, Reformation, and modern periods. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32, Church History 14, Liturgical Studies 78, or consent of instructor. Instructors: Tucker and Wainwright. One course.

C-L: Liturgical Studies 218

219. Theological Controversies from Schleiermacher to Barth. Examination of major figures and theological issues of nineteenth-century Protestant theology. Attention to the relation of faith and culture, the role of experience in theological reflection, religion as illusion, the Jesus of history and the Christ of faith. Instructor: Staff. One course.

220. Theological Topics. A seminar on contemporary theological issues, content to be designated by the Theological Division. May be repeated for credit. Instructor: Staff. One course.

222. Augustine's The City of God. In an age suspicious of 'meta-narratives' and of most, if not all, claims that history and being itself have meaning and thus are going 'somewhere' to say nothing of how they got there, this course asks what it means to interpret history theologically. This course, in pursuing this question, enters with Augustine into the labyrinthine argument of The City of God. We will first seek to receive and thereby understand what may be taken to be Augustine's christological and, ultimately, trinitarian understanding of history and, having so appropriated it, we then critically assess aspects of it given contemporary concerns. Prerequisite: XTIANTHE 32, CHURHST 13. Instructor: Carter. One course.

225. The Doctrine of Creation. This course will seek a profound understanding of the Christian doctrine of God as Creator. There will be several related theological concerns. Attention will be given to the relation of natural science to Christian theology. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

231. Eschatology. A study of issues in individual, communal, and universal eschatology against the background of twentieth-century scholarly work in the kingdom of God. Instructor: Jennings or Wainwright. One course.

235. The People of God, Israel, Church, and Beyond. A course drawing on dogmatic theology and some modern philosophy to approach a Christian theology of Israel and the peoples of God. Addressing a theology of the 'people and the peoples' requires engaging the problem of Christian supersessionism, the attitude in numerous ways written into a Christian self-understanding that the peoples (i.e., the Church) replace the people (i.e., Israel). The course considers the link between supersessionism and other problems facing the modern world, problems such as racism, patriarchy, colonialism, the formation of American civil religion, and the relationship between the Abrahamic faiths (i.e., Judaism, Islam, and Christianity; Israel, the Arab states, and the 'Christian' West). Instructor: Carter. One course.

240. Christian Interpretations of the Psalms. The Psalms have been widely and constantly used in Christian devotion, liturgy, preaching, hymnology, and pastoral care. This course follows two hermeneutical tracks: it examines how particular writers view the entire Psalter, and it traces select Psalms through their practical use and interpretative history. Instructor: Wainwright. One course.

245. Readings in Lesslie Newbigin's Theology. This course studies works of theology produced in deep and sustained engagement with ecclesial practice in the contexts of both India and the modern west. Newbigin is viewed as pastor, ecumenist, missiologist, social thinker, and Christian apologist. The principal writings are The Household of God, The Open Secret, and The Gospel in a Pluralist Society. Instructor: Wainwright. One course.

250. The Theology of Karl Barth. Prerequisites: Christian Ethics 33 and Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Hütter. One course.

256. John Wesley in Controversial and Ecumenical Theology. A study of John Wesley and his theology both in his engagements with other confessional traditions, and in his views on such matters as church, ministry, sacraments, and authority. Prolongation into present-day relations between Methodism and other Christian communions. Instructor: Wainwright. One course.

259. Icon Theology. A study of theological controversies surrounding the use of images in Christian worship, followed by an attempt to perceive the symbolic conventions and doctrinal content of some Eastern, Western, and contemporary icons. Instructor: Wainwright. One course.

260. Eschatology: The End of Life and the Ends of God. With this course we intend to offer a fresh look at possibly the most central aspect of the Christian faith: eschatology. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructors: Wainwright and Hütter. One course.

266. Kant the Theologian. Prerequisites: Christian Ethics 33 and Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Hütter. One course.

270. Remembrance and Reconciliation: Geographies of Memory. Exploration, drawing on a variety of texts, of the complex dynamics of remembering and forgetting as they bear on difficult pasts and the possibility for reconciliation. Particular attention given to racial reconciliation in South Africa and the United States. Consent of instructor required. Also taught as Distinguished Professor Course 202S and English 272S. Instructors: Holloway and L.G. Jones. One course.

275. Hans Urs von Balthasar. A course considering the thought of 20th century Swiss-German and Roman Catholic theologian Hans Urs von Balthasar. The course considers his theological vision and how it organizes his outlook on literature and culture, philosophy and religion, and Christian thought broadly conceived. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32 and either one other Theology or Church History/ Historical Theology course. Reading knowledge of German preferred. Instructor: Carter. One course.

285. Freedom and Law. Lecture course will explore the centrality of freedom and law to doctrine of God as well as to the understanding of the human being and unfold their complex interrelationship in the traditions of theology and philosophy. Also taught as Religion 285. Prerequisites: Christian Ethics 33, Christian Theology 32, Church History 13 and 14. Instructor: Hütter. One course.

286. The Second Vatican Council (1962-1965). The course is designed as a theological introduction to the Second Vatican Council (1962-1965), one of the fundamental markers of Catholicism in the twentieth century. The Council, and the developments it engendered, are crucial to understanding the nature and identity of the Catholic Church at the beginning of the twenty-first century, including its pastoral and missionary activities, its social and political involvements, and its ecumenical and inter-faith commitments. The course will find its focus in the documents of the Council itself, giving particular weight to the core ecclesiological texts. We will also study some of the post-Vatican II documents which witness to the struggle over interpretation that

308. Theologies, Tradition, and Difference. Prerequisites: Christian Ethics 33 and Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

315. Negative Theology. This seminar-class will investigate the recently re-emerged interest in a "negative theology" as a critique of the onto-theological character of (modern) metaphysics and the theologies drawing upon this metaphysics. Simultaneously, the class will investigate the question in which ways negative theology is a genuine moment of Christian discourse. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Hütter. One course.

325. Philosophical Theology I. Selected readings from Plato and Aristotle which helped to shape philosophical theology from Origen through Augustine and Aquinas. Instructor: Staff. One course.

326. Philosophical Theology II. Main problems of philosophical theology in the modern period. Instructor: Staff. One course.

332. System in Theology. An examination of the various factors that go into the shaping of a systematic theology, followed by a study of several recent and contemporary examples of the genre. Instructor: Wainwright. One course.

336. Faith and Reason. Seminar will take up the impulse given by the encyclical Fides et Ratio and explore the relationship of faith and reason, of theology and philosophy, on the threshold of a new century. Consent of instructor required. Instructor: Hütter. Three courses. C-L: Religion 336

337. Theology of St. Thomas Aquinas. Seminar on themes and problems in the thought of Thomas Aquinas. Consent of instructor required. Also taught as Religion 337B. Instructor: Hütter. One course.

CHRISTIAN ETHICS (XTIANTETH)

33. Christian Ethics. The course tackles theological and conceptual issues to do with the ways in which Christian moral discourse is generated in the life of the Church, in order that students may gain a sense of basic methodological alternatives in Christian traditions. It introduces students to such matters as the Church's relationship to the world, casuistry of various kinds, character formation, a moral psychology necessary for the development of Christian virtue, the place and function of scripture, and how Christians understand social responsibility. Instructors: Hall and Hauerwas. One course.

107. The Biblical Bases of Christian Ethics. Examination of major themes and moral teachings, principally in the Decalogue, the Gospels, and the Epistles, with application to some contemporary issues. Prerequisite: New Testament 18, Old Testament 11, or equivalent. Instructor: Staff. One course.

113. Themes and Readings in Christian Morals. Constructive examination of selected areas of public and private morality. Instructor: Staff. One course.

130. Dying and Death. Critical consideration of biblical, legal, medical, and ethical Instructor: Hall. One course.

205. War in the Christian Tradition. An analysis of how Christians have understood and evaluated war. Particular attention to the question of whether war should not be regarded as a positive moral good. Works by Augustine, Aquinas, Bainton, Ramsey, Childress, Niebuhr, and Johnson will be considered. Instructor:
Hauerwas. One course.

220. Ethical Topics. A seminar on contemporary ethical issues, the specific content in any given semester to be designated by the Theological Division. May be repeated for credit. Instructor: Staff. One course.

228. Theological Dimensions of American Law and Politics. A legal system inevitably overlaps with systems of belief and value, usually but not always termed religious, which claim to provide an ultimate valid construction of reality and a finally determinative set of values. Historically, most cultures have recognized this overlap by enlisting the law. It is arguable that the United States has attempted to do neither. This course will examine Western religious and theological reflections on the nature and legitimacy of law and politics and on the appropriate relationships between law and religion. Instructor: Powell. One course.

230. Sexual Ethics. Prerequisite: Christian Ethics 33. Instructor: Hall. One course.

242. Human Sexuality. Examination of biological, biblical, cultural, and other aspects of human sexuality, together with analytical and constructive interpretation.
Consent of instructor required. Instructor: Staff. One course.

244. Interdisciplinary Seminar in Medical-Legal-Ethical Issues. A seminar composed of students and faculty from the Medical, Law, and Divinity Schools for critical consideration of selected pertinent issues of mutual professional interest.
Consent of instructor required. Instructor: Staff. One course.

251. Goodness and Personhood. Concepts of "the good" are inextricably linked to the way in which personhood is understood. This seminar treats texts both ancient and recent that address such issues as the relationship between the finitude of human life and its meaningfulness, the metaphors of the "inner" life and "centeredness," the differences and affinities between reason and desire, and the significance of the notions of presence and transcendence. Authors include the writers of the Song of Songs and Job, Plato, Augustine of Hippo, Iris Murdoch, and Martha Nussbaum. Prerequisite:

266. Ethics and Health Care. Critical examination of philosophical and theological bases of medical practice, and analysis of selected aspects of biomedical technologies, with particular attention to informing ethical assumptions. Instructor: Staff. One course.

268. Revelation and Authority in the Church. A critical and constructive examination of contemporary concepts, exploring such questions as: Is the Church’s memory autonomous or constituted and directed by what it remembers? How does ecclesiology shape epistemology, and vice-versa? Does the word of the church also become the mission of the church? Is the word of God constitutive of human community? Instructor: Staff. One course.

291. Historical Forms of Protestant Ethics. A survey of major types of Protestant ethical theory from Luther through contemporary figures. Instructor: Staff. One course.

292. Happiness, the Life of Virtue, and Friendship. An investigation of the interrelation of these themes in selected authors. An examination of whether the loss of the interrelation of these themes accounts for some of the problems of modern philosophical and theological ethics. Instructor: Hauerwas. One course.

296. Community, Faith, and Violence. This seminar explores attempts to formulate fundamentally theological modes of social and political criticism with the focus on the role of faith and violence in secular society. Readings include works by theologians, social critics, and political theorists. Instructor: Powell. One course.

340. Kierkegaard’s Influence on Continental Philosophy and Theology. In this doctoral and upper-level divinity seminar, we will read through several key figures who took up and used Kierkegaard’s concepts in their own work. We will read mainly selections from Heidegger, Barth, Derrida, and Deleuze, with reference to the work of John Caputo and John Milbank. We will trace Kierkegaard’s influence through philosophy and theology, toward an understanding of the current use of Kierkegaard within deconstructive and radically orthodox theology. Instructor: Hall. One course.

383. Moral Theology in the Twentieth Century. Critical and comparative examination of ethical theory as exhibited in the work of selected contemporary theologians. Instructor: Staff. One course.

BLACK CHURCH STUDIES (BCS)

100. Introduction to Black Theology. A course introducing black theology from its inception to the salient features of its most recent configurations by second-and third-generation exponents. Thus, the course considers ‘classical’ expressions of black theology as well as certain innovations in black theology like womanism and African American pragmatic theology. Instructor: Carter, Jennings, or Turner. One course.

124. The Black Church in America. A consideration of the historical and theological development of the separate black Christian denominations in America with attention to some of the major leaders, black worship, and black preaching. Instructor: Jennings or Turner. One course.

126. Black Religion and Social Conflicts in America. An examination of some of the reactions of black religious groups to the limits placed upon black people in American life, efforts made to break down racial barriers in society, and attempts to institutionalize black responses to such barriers. Instructor: Turner. One course.

128. The Life and Thought of Martin Luther King, Jr. An examination of the life of Martin Luther King, Jr., his theology, and his continuing influence on the church's ministry. Instructor: Lischer. One course.

130. Contemporary Black Culture and Consciousness. A theological investigation of prevailing cultural, political, social, and economic motifs in black cultural life and their relation to theology and the life of the church. Prerequisite: Black Church Studies 124, Christian Theology 32, or consent of instructor. Instructor: Jennings. One course.

144. Selected Topics in Black Church History. An exploration of pivotal events, key issues, and persons in the development of the black church in America. Instructors: Staff. One course.

168. Leadership in the African-American Churches for the Twenty-First Century. This course provides an opportunity for students with special interest in the history and role of the African-American churches to examine their resources and contributions in the light of current challenges, and to assess their potential influence in the twenty-first century. Instructor: Staff. One course.

230. Theology and the Black Activist Tradition. At the methodological center of the tradition of black radicalism is a certain understanding of the (black) intellectual and his or her task. This course examines this center from the vantage point of religion and theology. It will do so by considering this tradition's formation, on the one hand, and the meaning of the intellectual, who is a central figure in it, on the other. In this sense, the course seeks religiously and theologically to intervene into the question of the so-called crisis of the black intellectual with a view to showing it to be, in many respects, a "crisis of intellectuality" (academic, ministerial, and otherwise) as such. Central to our inquiry will be the religious meaning of the figure of W. E. B. Du Bois. Instructor: Staff. One course.

WORLD CHRISTIANITY (WXTIAN)

129. The Church: Fragmentation and Wholeness. A study of some of the major theologies of the church in our century, as they emerged together with the growth of the ecumenical movement. The course will focus on how specific ecclesiologies treat the question of the unity of the church(es) in the light of ecumenical hopes, proposals for unity and practical endeavors. Instructor: Berger. One course.

135. Contemporary Issues in the World Church. Analysis of political, social, cultural, and religious conditions in a selected area of the world, and of theological-ethical insights and perspectives within the indigenous Christian community. Instructor: Staff. One course.

140. God and Caesar: Learning from the Church Struggle Against Apartheid. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Storey. One course.

150. Christianity in Asia. Prerequisites: Christian Theology 32 and Church History

156. The Ecumenical Movement. Its contemporary development, structures, activities, and problems, against the background of Church unity and disunity. Instructor: Staff. One course.

200. The Faces of Jesus in Africa. The course will seek to explore and highlight the assumptions underlying the various constructions of ‘the Faces of Jesus’ within African theology. In particular, the social, historical and theological factors surrounding African Inculturation, Liberation and Feminist Christologies respectively will be examined. The goal of the course will be to lead students to a better appreciation of the complexity of African culture in general, of the challenges facing African Christians today in particular. Prerequisite: XTIANTHE 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

210. Beyond Borders: Latin American, Latino, and Hispanic Theologies. This course will theorize Crossing Borders and the shared space of Latin American, Latino/a, and Hispanic religious voices. The course will have a historical component, beginning with a look at the encounter between European religious traditions and the indigenous religious map of the Americas. We will then study the emergence of Latin American Liberation theology and trace the development of this theological flow through to the present day. The last part of the course will concentrate on Latino/a and Hispanic religious voices in the United States and interpret their specific discourse within the larger shared space mapped in the first part of the course. Instructor: Berger. One course.

211. Healing in the Developing World and Care of the Underserved: Medical and Theological Considerations. The course pays particular attention to issues of religion, especially the ways in which an appreciation of religious and theological issues can be helpful in developing a noncolonial perspective when providing care in a developing country or with the underserved in the USA. The development of health ministries cross-culturally will be a theme throughout the course. Instructors: Berger and Walmer. One course.

230. The Nation State and Theology in Africa. This course will focus on the problematic status of the nation state in Africa in relation to church, economic development, and violence. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

240. Postcolonial Identities and Theologies in Africa. This course will provide an overview of the current trends in African theological philosophical thought, especially those relating to or built around the notion of (post)-colonial identity. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

245. The Rwanda Genocide and the Challenge for the Church. The course explores the events and ‘reasons’ surrounding the 1994 genocide in Rwanda, from both a historical and theological perspective. The current ‘explanations’ for the genocide are critically analyzed and discussed with a view of raising wider issues relating to African history, memory and violence on the one hand, the church’s social role in Africa on the other. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

263. Third World Theology. The course is designed to give students a broad introduction to the life of the church in Latin America. It will focus on three areas: the historical development, the current theological reflection (concentrating on liberation theology), and the life and witness of the Church today. Instructor: Berger. One course.

IV. Ministerial Studies
CHURCH MINISTRY (CHURMIN)

115. The Love of God and Neighbor. This course will survey a sample of primary sources, beginning with the biblical canon, within the Christian tradition demonstrating the relationship of personal and evangelical piety with activities of justice and service to neighbors. Students will reflect critically on historical and theological sources, integrating these reflections with their vocational journeys. Instructor: Warner. One course.
120. The Holy Spirit and Ministry. Christian ministry is utterly dependent on the Holy Spirit. This course explores the work of the Spirit in the practice of ministry. Instructor: Turner. One course.

CARE OF PARISH (PARISH)

130. Christianity and Contemporary Literature. This course will interpret recent literature (both fictive and nonfictive) from a theological perspective, employing a variety of interpretive lenses. Instructor: Utz. One course.
135. The Poetic Imagination. This course will examine poetry written out of the Western Christian tradition. Although the readings will provide something of a historical overview, the emphasis will be on twentieth-century works. By concentrating on literary art of a non-narrative nature, we should be able to focus more keenly on the power of language and the relation between art and theology, truth, and beauty. How do the particular qualities of verse lend themselves to spiritual, theological and philosophical exploration. Does telling the truth by telling it slant (to paraphrase Emily Dickinson) gain us different truths than those found through prose? Instructor: Utz. One course.
142. Women and Ministry. Theological and practical issues related to women and ministry. Instructor: Staff. One course.
143. Understanding Congregations and Their Communities. This course explores congregations and their communities from theological and social scientific perspectives, considers various frameworks for understanding congregations, and helps students develop methods and techniques for engaging in congregational study. It will include a field study of a congregation. Instructor: Staff. One course.
146. Prophetic Ministry: Vision, Leadership, and Change. Our rapidly changing neighborhoods, communities, nation, and world give rise to new and confusing issues, dilemmas, and challenges for our congregations and faith communities. This course will focus on ways ministers and congregations can lead faithfully and creatively in these new contexts. The course will examine theological, biblical, ethical, and especially practical dimensions of prophetic ministry in our postmodern age. Instructor: Rosenquist. One course.
147. The Pastoral Responsibility for Leadership and Administration. The major responsibilities of the pastor in the leadership and effective administration of the local church are explored within the context of vision, missions, history, culture, team and integrity. This course seeks to build a bridge between the seminary and the local church:
rural, suburban, or urban and is intentional in focus on parish ministry. Instructor: Staff. One course.

149. The Ministry to the Campus. An exploration of theological, historical, pastoral, and "practical" dimensions of the church's ministry in higher education and to campus ministry as a mission of the church. Instructor: Ferree-Clark. One course.

150. Gender and Theology in Congregations. Prerequisites: AMXTIAN 28 and XTIANTHE 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

151. The Town and Country Church. The small church, the circuit church, circuit administration, larger parish and group ministry, and the town and country movement. Instructor: Mann. One course.

152. Introduction to Evangelism. A study of the nature, purposes, and methods of contemporary Christian evangelism with special attention to the local church. Instructor: Staff. One course.

154. The Urban Church. The function, nature, program, and administration of the effective city church and of the urban minister's distinctive task. Instructor: Staff. One course.

155. Denominational Studies. Register for course by designated suffix, B-U. Instructor: Staff. One course.

155D. The Presbyterian Churches. One course.
155E. The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). One course.
155F. The Anglican Tradition. Instructors: Graebner, Mullin, and Wall. One course.
155U. Unitarian Studies. One course.

156. Denominational Studies. Register for course by designated suffix, B-U. Instructor: Staff. One course.

156D. The Presbyterian Churches. One course.
156E. The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). One course.
156F. The Anglican Tradition. One course.
156U. Unitarian Studies. One course.

160. Twentieth-Century Methodism: History, Theology, and Polity. The development of the United Methodist Church, focusing on theological diversity and patterns of organizational life, with major concentration on the polity of this church as provided by the current Discipline. Instructors: Heitzenrater, L.G. Jones, or Warner. One course.

161. The Canterbury Course. An international summer graduate course on Anglican identity and spirituality, foundational theological issues in Anglicanism, and the Communion's ecumenical promise. Held at Canterbury Cathedral, the course features the life, history, and personalities of Canterbury and its centuries of spiritual hospitality. The course is open to Divinity students, persons matriculated at other ATS accredited seminaries and holders of the M.Div. Instructors: Staff and Canterbury Chapter. One course.

164. Theology of Pentecostalism. An exploration of this tradition with examination of its distinctive emphases and interpretations of Christian faith. Instructor: Turner. One course.

175. The Local Church in Ministry to God's World. Prerequisite: Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Storey. One course.

178. Women and Evangelism. An exploration of women's leadership and participation in evangelistic ministries focusing particularly on the previous three centuries. Based on this historical study, the course will also provide opportunity for critical reflection upon contemporary practices and theologies of evangelism. Prerequisites: Church History 14 and American Christianity 28. Instructor: Warner. One course.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION (XTIANEDU)

80. Introduction to the Education of Christians. This course is guided by two questions: as Christians how do we know God? and what does it mean for Christians to be known by God? These questions will be addressed utilizing the following theoretical bases in Christian religious education: 1. human developmental theories; 2. the liberal progressive perspective; 3. liberation praxis theory; 4. communitarian approaches; 5. postmodern educational theories. Instructor: Staff. One course.

102. Christian Education and the Small Membership Church. An overview of the educational ministry of churches with small memberships including goal setting, program-format, leadership development, selection of curriculum resources, organization-design, and evaluation methodology. Instructor: Staff. One course.

110. The Changing Family in the Changing Church. An introductory course to the educational ministry of the church with adults and families. Guidance and resources toward the development of comprehensive programming. Attention will be given to adult ages and stages and family life cycles. Prerequisite: Christian Education 80. Instructor: Staff. One course.

112. Adolescent Selves, Adolescent Contexts, and the Formation of Christian Adolescent Identity. This course will examine various myths and realities of the cultural isolation of teenaged Christians. Weekly class sessions, interviews with adolescents, plus a project will encourage participants to find ways to integrate adolescents into relationships and patterns within their worshipping communities. Also, we will focus on developing ways to guide adolescents in making meaning and to engage them in distinctively Christian ways of living. Instructor: Edie. One course.

115. The Art of Biblical Interpretation. This course is a basic introduction to methods of Biblical interpretation, with attention to the prior assumptions and purposes of different interpretive methods. Instructor: Eastman. One course. C-L: New Testament 115

132. Curriculum and Pedagogy in the Church. This course will center on these two questions: first, who decides what theory of Christian religious education is used in the church? Central to this question is the theory of curriculum that dictates what and why
Christian religious education is going on in the church. The second question concerns which teaching paradigm is going to be used in the church. This question focuses on pedagogical theory, otherwise known as the how, when, and where of Christian religious education. Not only will students discover whose curriculum goals and which pedagogical approach should be used in the church, the course will also broaden the students' concept of teaching and learning in the context of local congregations and parishes. Instructor: Staff. One course.

167. Strengthening Laity in Ministry. In this course students will examine the Biblical and theological foundations of the ministry; identify images of the ministry from the Bible, the church's history, and the Christian community today; and practice methods of interviewing and listening to lay people in order to develop models of Christian religious education which can strengthen laity in ministry and encourage creation of structures which challenge and support laity in ministry. Instructor: Staff. One course.

175. Liturgy and Christian Formation. This course examines the ways in which the liturgy (word, sacrament, prayer, song) forms and transforms persons and communities for life in the church and the world. We will assume that the church's worship is not a species of activity that is symbolic or instrumentalist, but that the liturgy itself is a practice essential to the acquisition of Christian virtues and to the formation of Christian disciples. What we do and how we act in the liturgical assembly shape us in particular and powerful ways. Thus we will insist that Christian formation—the whole of the efforts within the church to make disciples— is inseparable from doxology from the praise and adoration of the triune God. Instructor: Staff. One course.

179. Human Development. The goal of this course is to teach students the primary theories of human development, and its role and function in the field of Christian religious education, and its implications in the life of the church. The material covered in this course will focus on the historical, philosophical, theological, and sociological roots of human developmental theories, cover the primary theories of human development in use today, explore new paradigms in human developmental theories, and discover the presence of these theories in the life of congregations and parishes. Instructor: Staff. One course.

185. The Arts and the Church. An exploration of the intuitive way of knowing and the place of the imagination in Christian faith and life with special attention to the use of the arts in the church, especially in Christian education, and in worship. Instructor: Staff. One course.

190. Discipleship and Adult Catechesis. Catechesis, in this course, is defined as the whole of the efforts within the church to make disciples. The purpose of catechesis is to help the church learn to live by the story that has been called into existence. Discipleship, then, is at the core of Christian catechesis: to learn, to know, to be trained and instructed in the Christian faith is to be morally transformed into holy disciples of Jesus. With this understanding in mind, this course will examine (and challenge) the various ways catechesis is constituted and carried out in the life of the church. Foundational to our purpose will be the attempt to articulate concrete and material ways in which the church might best educate, catechize, form, and nurture women and men through the life journey, the pilgrimage of faith from baptism to death. Instructor: Staff. One course.

195. The Significance of Catechumenate for Making Disciples. Students will be invited to attend to the ways cognition, affect, and even self-consciousness arise from bodilly processes. In addition, they will explore how these processes shape human capacities for participation in sacred mystery, and by extension, human moral engagement with the world. Prerequisite: Church History 13 and Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Edie. One course.

250. Church's Teaching Ministry. Required of students concentrating in Christian education in the M.C.M. or M.Div. programs. The symposium functions as both a capstone course in the theory and practice of educational leadership in the church and as an evaluation of professional knowledge and competence. Instructor: Staff. One course.

254. Religion in American Literature. A study of selected works of American literature with significant theological motifs. Emphasis will be on the utilization of literary materials to enhance preaching and teaching in the church. Instructor: Staff. One course.

276. Imitation and Transformation in the Letters of Paul. This course will investigate Paul's imitation language in relationship to the formation of Christian character. The course will include exegesis of specific texts and critical evaluation of contemporary interpretations. We will attend to both ancient and modern notions of imitation. Prerequisite: OLDTEST 11, NEWTEST 18, XTIANETH 33. Instructor: Eastman. One course. C-L: New Testament 276

300. Advanced Seminar- From Development to Pilgrimage: Rethinking the Foundation of Educational Theory. Prerequisites: Christian Ethics 33 and Christian Theology 32 or Christian Education 80 and Christian Education 132. Instructor: Staff. One course.

Pastoral care with inpatients and pastoral counseling of individuals, couples, families, and groups in a pastoral counseling center. (Two course units each.) Th.M. students may pursue advanced standing in the hospital-based CPE program through the established policy and procedures for that status. The conditions for level two CPE resemble those of the level one- 30 hours per week; limit six; pass/fail option. Prerequisite: interview. Instructor: Staff. Two courses.

250. Level Two Clinical Pastoral Education, Transferred. An enrollment category for students who have completed Level Two Clinical Pastoral Education and who are transferring the credit towards a degree at Duke Divinity School. Three course credits maximum. Variable credit.

HEALTH AND NURSING MINISTRIES (HNM)

11. Introduction to Congregational Nursing. Provides a basic introduction to the fundamentals of congregational nursing ministry. Students are introduced to an overview of the various roles filled by the congregational nurse: health educator, health counselor, referral agent, coordinator, facilitator, advocate, and supporter. Fall. Also taught as Health and Nursing Ministries 11. Instructors: Breisch and Meador (Divinity). Half course.

12. Congregational Nursing II. Building upon the principles of Introduction to Congregational Nursing, students in Congregational Nursing II begin to implement the aspects of basic congregational nursing within the context of a faith community. This course provides opportunities for discussion and exploration of congregational nursing as both a ministry of the church and a specialty of professional nursing. 50 hours field experience. Spring. Also taught as Health and Nursing Ministries 12. Prerequisite: Nursing 500. Instructors: Breisch and Meador (Divinity). Half course.

200. Health and Nursing Ministries Field Experience. This course provides the student with opportunity to implement the nursing component of health ministry within a faith community. The student integrates the theological dimensions of faith while utilizing skills in individual and group assessment, principles of health education, and program planning and evaluation. Students have the opportunity to develop a continuity relationship within a specific faith community. The field experience includes 300 hours over three semesters with weekly seminars. Prerequisites: Health and Nursing Ministries 11 and 12. Instructors: Breisch and Meador. One course.

290. Seminar on Care at the End of Life: Suffering and Dying Well. In this course, students examine contemporary efforts to recover the ancient practice of ars moriendi, the "art of dying." Students examine the phenomena of chronic illness, suffering, and dying from a variety of historical, biblical, theological, medical-physiological, and psychosocial perspectives. Students also examine contemporary modalities of care for persons at the end of life, including tertiary palliative care, the hospice movement, and ancillary "death with dignity" organizations. Course goals include developing the student's ability to imagine ways of caring for individuals with chronic and terminal illness. Instructors: Breisch and Keck. One course. C-L: Pastoral Care 290

300. Seminar in Health and Nursing Ministries. Students work toward the development of a philosophy of faith-based health care grounded in the core practices and the corresponding central theological commitments of their respective religious communities. Under the leadership of faculty from both the School of Nursing and the Divinity School, students analyze contemporary theories and practices of health care; particular attention given to the complex relationship between faith and health. Prerequisites: Health and Nursing Ministries 11, 12, 200, 290, and Nursing 502. Instructors: Breisch and Meador. One course.

PASTORAL CARE (PASTCARE)

64. Pastoral Care and Theology in the Cure of Souls. An examination of contemporary ecclesial practices of pastoral care in the context of historical pastoral theology and the classical practices of the cure of souls. Instructor: Meador. One course.

65. Pastoral Theology and the Care of Embodied Souls. One course.

175. Special Practicum Projects. For advanced students who want additional clinical experience under supervision in a pastoral care setting (inner-city; alcoholic rehabilitation; counseling; etc.). Instructor: Staff. One course.

176. Pastoral Care and Persons in Institutions. Register for course by designated suffix, A-C. Instructor: Staff. One course.

176A. Care at the Murdoch Center. Lectures by staff and ward visits at the Murdoch Center for the Mentally Retarded and the facilities in the Butner, North Carolina, complex (state hospital, alcoholic rehabilitation, training school). Instructor: Staff. One course.

176B. Care in Prison Facilities. The church's ministry to prisons and related correctional facilities explored through lectures and ward visits at participating facilities. Instructor: Staff. One course.

176C. Care of the Elderly and Home Bound. The church's ministry to the elderly and homebound explored through lectures, case conferences, and visits to the elderly and homebound parishioners of local Durham churches. Instructor: Staff. One course.

177. Pastoral Care in Health Care Crises. An exploration of the theological and psychological dimensions of health crises with particular attention to developing the student's understanding of health care systems as experienced by pastors and parishioners. (Highly recommended for those not planning to take CPE). Instructor: Travis. One course.

178. Pastoral Limits and Pastoral Authority. A course designed to develop an understanding of the nature of pastoral authority, its relationship to various forms of power, and the form and nature of pastoral leadership. It will explore pastoral boundaries, ethical constraints, and the limits of time, skill, and energy. Instructor: Staff. One course.

180. Pastoral Care and Women. A course that explores the cultural and ecclesial context for the pastoral care of women, with a focus on the theme of embodiment and relationality. Special topics include vocation, spirituality, aging, abuse, and depression. Instructor: Staff. One course.

182. Level One Clinical Pastoral Education. Units of Basic CPE offered in the summer, fall, and spring in programs accredited by ACPE. (Two course units each, maximum credit.) Instructor: Staff. Two courses.

182A. Summer. Instructor: Staff. Two courses.

182B. Fall. Instructor: Staff. Two courses.

182C. Spring. Instructor: Staff. Two courses.

185. Theology and Health in a Therapeutic Culture. Instructor: Staff. One course.

200. Theology and Spirituality of Aging. An introduction to aging and a theology and spirituality of aging. A brief overview of the demographics and the social/psychological/physical aspects of aging will be given. The primary focus will be on the theological and spiritual dimensions of aging, studying biblical references to aging, and the theological and spiritual growth that occurs throughout the lifespan. In addition, some time will be spent studying counseling strategies for coping with loss, bereavement, and grief; the older adult's role within the church; and the church's responsibility toward the older adult. Instructor: Staff. One course.

234. Depression: Pastoral and Theological Issues. A class to foster pastoral insight into experiences of depression, to understand bio-psycho-social models thereof, to develop skills in pastoral caregiving with depressed people and to explore theological responses to the phenomenon. Prerequisite: Pastoral Care 64 or equivalent. Instructor: Staff. One course.

271. Marriage and Family. The psychodynamics of marital conflict and family problems; principles and procedures in marriage and family counseling. (For seniors and Master of Theology candidates.) Prerequisite: Pastoral Care 64. Instructor: Staff. One course.

275. Individual Study in Pastoral Psychology. Selected readings in major issues in pastoral psychology issuing in a research or honors paper. Instructor: Staff. One course.

278. Psychological Theories of Personality. A systematic presentation of leading personality theories, with reference to their historical and cultural significance. Theological implications and relevance to Christian ministry will be discussed. Prerequisite: Pastoral Care 64. Instructor: Meador. One course.

290. Seminar on Care at the End of Life: Suffering and Dying Well. One course.
PREACHING (PREACHING)

100. The History of Christian Preaching. Prerequisites: Christian Theology 32 and Preaching 30. Instructor: Staff. One course.

161. Preaching and the Church Year. Preaching the lectionary texts in the context of the church's worship and calendar. The appropriate cycle of the lectionary will be followed. In-class preaching and evaluation. Prerequisite: Preaching 30. Instructor: Lischer. One course.

165. Preaching as Public Address. A workshop on preaching and worship leadership organized around the principles of speech and effective communications. Extensive use of audio-visual recordings and private conferences. Prerequisite: Preaching 30. Instructor: Staff. One course.

170. Contemporary Pneumatologies and Preaching. This course examines the relationship between the doctrine of the Holy Spirit and preaching. We will explore this doctrine in relation to modern trends in theology with special emphasis on those cases where there is an accompanying social movement. We will then analyze the ways in which pneumatology might influence preaching. Instructor: Turner. One course.

172. Preaching and the Literary Forms of Scripture. This course will be an advanced seminar which explores the way the literary form of the biblical text influences the preached text. Prerequisite: Preaching 30; New Testament 18 or Old Testament 11. Instructor: Willimon. One course.

180. From Text to Sermon. Preaching from biblical sources. Emphases on the goal and methodology of exegesis, the hermeneutic problem, and verbal communication in the present. Prerequisite: Preaching 30. Instructors: Chapman or Davis. One course. C-L: New Testament 180, Old Testament 180

186. Twentieth-Century Preaching. A study of contemporary preaching based on printed, recorded, audio- and video-taped sermons of leading homileticians of our age. Prerequisite: Preaching 30. Instructor: Staff. One course.

195. Preaching about Social Crises. The sermon will be studied as a means of educating parishioners on social crises, and the understanding of the Gospel in calling for discipleship in social, as well as personal, Christian witnessing. Instructor: Staff. One course.

196. Preaching in the Parish. A consideration of preaching in relationship to pastoral duties and the total task of ministry with attention to week-by-week preaching in the parish setting. Some attention will be given to funerals and crisis situations. Prerequisite: Preaching 30. Instructor: Turner. One course.

202. Scripture and Ecclesiology in Homiletical Methods. An examination of the place and function of revelation, particularly as it relates to theories about scripture and ecclesiology, in a variety of homiletical methods. A representative group of homiletical texts and sermons will be analyzed with a view toward each student constructing his or her own methodological statement and writing a sermon. Prerequisites: Christian Theology 32 and Preaching 30. Instructor: Staff. One course.

220. Selected Topics. Topics vary. May be repeated for credit. Instructor: Staff. One course.

280. History of Preaching. A study of theological trends and significant personalities in homiletics in various periods from the Apostolic Age to the present. Prerequisite: Preaching 30. Instructor: Staff. One course.

281. Contemporary Preachers and Their Craft. A theological and rhetorical analysis of the most effective preachers of our era. In-class student preaching will intentionally reflect the sermons and preachers studied. Prerequisite: Preaching 30. Instructor: Lischer. One course.

282. Women and the Word. An examination of theological, social, historical, and communication issues pertaining to women and preaching. Sermons, video-tapes, and other resources will be used in analyzing the styles and content of preaching by women representing various traditions and historical periods. Prerequisite: Preaching 30. Instructor: Staff. One course.

283. Twentieth-Century Theology and Preaching. A study of important theological models, from liberalism to liberationism, and their effect on contemporary preaching. Seminar presentations and in-class preaching. Prerequisite: Preaching 30; Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Lischer. One course.

LITURGICAL STUDIES (LTS)

2. Music Skills for the Parish. A noncredit course designed to develop fundamental skills for reading musical notation and rhythmic patterns, using examples from the United Methodist Hymnal. Sightsinging and single-note keyboard playing not a prerequisite but will be encouraged throughout the course. Not intended for persons with prior knowledge of music skills. Instructor: Arcus. No credit.

78. Introduction to Christian Worship. An introduction to the history, theology, and practice of Christian worship from an ecumenical perspective. Surveys major aspects of worship, including: the Lord’s Day, the Christian calendar, Word and sacraments, daily and occasional services, liturgical music, and liturgical space and arts. Lecture, small group discussions, and practicum. Prerequisite: Church History 13 or 14.
Instructor: Staff. One course.

141. The Church Year. An examination of the historical, theological, and pastoral dimensions of the Christian calendar and lectionary. Prerequisite: Liturgical Studies 78. Instructor: Staff. One course.

158. Ways of Worship. Prerequisite: Liturgical Studies 78 or consent of instructor. Instructor: Berger. One course.

180A. Church Music for Nonmusicians. A three-fold study including (1) an examination of historic and contemporary theologies of church music; (2) a survey of the musical forms used in worship by the church; and (3) basic musicianship and song leading with an emphasis on the selection and use of hymns and service music contained in denominational hymnals. Instructor: Staff. One course.

180B. Church Music for Musicians. An in-depth two-fold study for students with prior musical knowledge, namely: (1) musicianship skills including song leading, basic conducting and literature, including select masterworks for the church and hymns; (2) pastor and musician teamwork, with emphasis on case studies of specific pastor-musician teams. Readings and projects will acquaint students with issues of church music and encourage a continuing development of skills, research, and resource building. Instructor: Arcus. One course.

198. Theology Set to Music. Prerequisite: Liturgical Studies 180A or 180B or consent of instructor. Instructor: Arcus. One course.

203. Directed Reading in Church Music. An advanced course offering students the opportunity to explore an area of church music of special interest to them, culminating in a major paper and/or public presentation. Includes compilation of bibliography for the study of church music. Enrollment limit: ten. Consent of instructor required. Instructor: Arcus. One course.

218. The Sacraments: Rites and Theologies. Instructor: Staff. One course. C-L: see Christian Theology 218

220. Selected Topics. May be repeated for credit. Instructor: Staff. One course.

248. Pastoral Offices: Christian Rituals for the Life Cycle. Prerequisite: Liturgical Studies 78 or consent of instructor. Instructor: Staff. One course.

250. Advanced Seminar in Liturgical Studies. Reading and research in a selected area of liturgical study to be announced. Instructor: Staff. One course.

252. Theologies of Church Music: From the Early Church to the Present. The church, throughout its history, has sought to clarify its relationship to culture. In particular, is the church to accommodate its worship to culture or avoid adopting of cultural forms? The relationship of culture and worship will be explored from the angle of the historical church's use of music. How have the church's theologians defined the role of music in the church? What are the most appropriate musical forms for use in the church? These issues will be examined with an eye to discussing and evaluating contemporary Christian musical expressions. Instructor: Staff. One course.

268. Worship in the Wesleyan Tradition. A study of the historical, theological, liturgical, and sociological influences which have shaped the worship patterns of the Episcopal Church and the major American denominations that claim a Wesleyan heritage. Historical and contemporary liturgies will be examined, and concerns related to the leadership of contemporary liturgies will be discussed.
Prerequisites: Care of the Parish 159 and 160, Liturgical Studies 78. Instructor: Staff.
One course. C-L: American Christianity 268

SPIRITUALITY (SPIRIT)

22. Introduction to Christian Spirituality. An introduction to spirituality, spiritual formation, and the development of a personal spiritual discipline. Instructor: Battle.
One course.

100. A Practical Spirituality of Parish Work. Instructor: Staff. One course.

205. African Christian Spirituality. Prerequisite: Christian Ethics 33, Christian Theology 32, or Spirituality course. Instructor: Battle. One course.

210. Spiritual Direction. This course is an introduction to the process of spiritual direction; its theological foundations, its nature, its preparation, and its practice.
Prerequisite: Spirituality 22 or consent of instructor. Instructor: Battle. One course.

231. Prayer. A theological and psychological exploration of Christian prayer understood as our human communication with the Triune God. Instructor: Battle. One course.

233. Pastoral Spirituality. An introduction to spiritual direction, the spirituality of healing and reconciliation, and spiritual formation. Instructor: Battle. One course.

240. Spiritual Direction Practicum. The process and skills of spiritual direction will be the focus of this course. Students will have the opportunity to develop and practice the skills with one another and will also be required to see two persons in direction during the course. Prerequisite: Spirituality 210. Instructor: Battle. One course.

251. Studies in Spirituality. A consideration of different dimensions of the spiritual life. Instructor: Staff. One course. C-L: Liturgical Studies 251

270. The Inculturation of Spiritual Direction. This course is about the theory and practice of spiritual direction in light of racial, cultural, and gender differences. Students will work with both traditional and contemporary understandings of spiritual direction in order to negotiate how diverse backgrounds encounter and benefit from the practices of spiritual direction. We will use didactic material, case and verbatim work, and enacted practice sessions. Prerequisite: Spirituality 22. Instructor: Battle. One course.

301. The Spirituality of Nonviolence. Instructor: Battle. One course.

RELIGION AND SOCIETY (RSO)

157. The Church and Social Change. A sociological study of the relationship of the church to the process of social change, including the role of the church as innovator, the church as participant in social movements, method(s) of accomplishing change, and the religious leader as an agent of social change. Instructor: Staff. One course.

158. Contemporary Religious Movements. The nature, ideology, development, clientele, and role of contemporary religious movements; the process by which such movements develop into established organizations; and their relationship to the mainline churches. Instructor: Staff. One course.

166. AMERC. A six-week summer course offered in and around Berea, Kentucky, through the ATS-accredited consortia, Appalachian Ministries Educational Resource Center (AMERC). The program offers participants training in small town and rural ministry and in relating Christian theology and ministry to the people, cultures, and political economies of Appalachia. It features field trips for direct experiences of Appalachian life, a faculty of experts on the region and its religion, use of the eighty-acre AMERC farm campus, and access to the Berea College special Appalachian collection. Instructor: Staff. One course.

177. Diversity, Liberation, and Christian Community. In view of prevailing tensions, ethnic and cultural alienation, and social fragmentation, and the growing pressures for justice and equality throughout the society, this course will be concerned with strategies and possibilities to promote community in light of the Christian gospel. The focus will be on the ministry of the local parish as well as corporate and diocesan church bodies. Prerequisites: Christian Ethics 33 and Christian Theology 32. Instructor: Staff. One course.

221. Religious Life in Sociological Perspective. An examination of religion and religious life as social phenomena, aiming to provide perspectives and conceptual tools for understanding the ways in which various aspects of religious life are embedded in and related to society and social processes. The theoretical perspectives will then be brought to bear on current issues. Students will participate in one or more group field experiences. Instructor: Staff. One course.

254. Contemporary American Religion. This seminar focuses on American religion, especially since the 1950s. Students will examine trends and issues in contemporary religious life, consider paradigms for interpreting the trends and issues, and explore topics of their choosing in research papers to be presented in the class. Instructor: Staff. One course.

V. Clinical Training and Internships

Students may earn up to two course credits for a quarter or unit of clinical pastoral education in programs accredited by the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education (ACPE).

Students involved in clinical training under the direct supervision of members of the pastoral psychology staff during the academic year should register for credit under CPE for two course units unless a course credit has already been received for Pastoral Care 177, in which case only one rather than two credits will be granted for the CPE quarter. Students should apply for such training through the director of clinical pastoral education.

Students involved in clinical training in summer CPE quarters should register with ACPE and the associate dean for academic programs as soon as accepted for training by a chaplain supervisor.

INTERNSHIP (INTERN)

125. Special Ministry Internship. When a student needs to develop professional competencies in a highly specialized form of ministry, the director of field education will assist in designing an appropriate learning contract and in negotiating for a suitable placement setting, provided the arrangements meet the basic criteria approved by the Field Education Committee. One course.

126. Special Ministry Internship. Continuation of Internship 125. One course.

131. Ministry through Social Agency Internship. A twelve-month placement in a regular personnel position in a social service agency to meet the job description of the agency and to develop a personal mode and style of ministry in a secular setting through understanding, appreciation, involvement in, and critical theological reflection on environment, structures, values, and decision-making processes as conveyed by the conduct of the agency. One course.

132. Ministry through Social Agency Internship. Continuation of Internship 131. One course.

137. Parish Ministry Internship. A twelve-month placement, individually designed to engage the student in specified learnings in a wide variety of ministry functions in a local parish, under qualified supervision and using the guidelines of a learning contract. One course.

138. Parish Ministry Internship. Continuation of Internship 137. One course.

143. Campus Ministry Internship. A nine- to twelve-month placement in approved locations designed to provide special learnings in delivering a ministry to college students under qualified guidance and utilizing a learning contract which specifies seminars, a personal journal, directed reading, and consultations to develop competency in these functions. One course.

144. Campus Ministry Internship. Continuation of Internship 143. One course.

175. Clinical Pastoral Education Residency. A twelve-month placement in a clinical program accredited by the Association of Clinical Pastoral Education (ACPE). One course.

176. Clinical Pastoral Education Residency. Continuation of Internship 175. One course.

197. Mission Internship. A special internship to prepare for service in church missions may be arranged by enlisting in the national or overseas program of the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries for one to three years. As a requirement for agency planning, applications should be initiated in the fall of the middle year. Other denominational and/or work-study experiences abroad may be given field education credit by special arrangement with the director of field education. One course.

VI. Colloquia/Interfield/Field Education

COLLOQUIA/INTERFIELD/FIELD EDUCATION (CIF)

2A. Writing Program for Divinity Students. The writing course in reader expectation theory, a noncredit course, provides students with tools and techniques to strengthen analytic and writing skills using papers assigned in other courses. Students practice the skills and techniques presented in lectures and have opportunity to discuss questions about research and writing. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

2B. Writing Program for Divinity Students. Continuation of Colloquia/ Interfield/ Field Education 2A. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

3A. Choir. A noncredit course for those participating in choir and desiring that involvement to show on the transcript. Instructor: Klausmeyer. No credit.

3B. Choir. Continuation of Colloquia/ Interfield/ Field Education 3A. Instructor: Klausmeyer. No credit.

4A. Christian Religious Education Seminar. A colloquium of faculty, students, and religious educators that meets bi-weekly in exploration of the vocation of religious education and in examination of current and future needs of the profession. Strongly advised for M.C.M. students and M.Div. students concentrating in Christian education. Meets every other Tuesday from 4:45 to 5:45. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

4B. Christian Religious Education Seminar. Continuation of Colloquia/Interfield/Field Education 4A. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

COURSE CONTINUATION DIVINITY (CONTDIV)

101. Course Continuation Fee. $100. A mode of registration required in instances in which students have registered for but not completed all the courses or requirements for their program. A registration status for Th.M. students and others maintaining matriculation while finishing a thesis or other incomplete work. No credit.

102. Course Continuation Fee. $100. Continuation of Course Continuation Divinity 101. No credit.

FIELD EDUCATION (FIELDEDU)

1. Field Education Seminar. Students in the M.C.M. must satisfy one such placement, either 1A (summer) or 1B-1C (academic year). Students in the M.Div. must satisfy two such placements, 1A or 1B-1C and 2A or 2B-2C. Register for course by designated suffix, A-F. Instructor: Stanley et al. No credit.

1A. Approved Summer Placement. Instructor: Staff. No credit.
1B. Approved Academic Year Placement. Instructor: Staff. No credit.
1C. Approved Field Education Placement. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

2. Field Education Seminar. Students in the M.C.M. must satisfy one such placement, either 1A (summer) or 1B-1C (academic year). Students in the M.Div. must satisfy two such placements, 1A or 1B-1C and 2A or 2B-2C. Register for course by designated suffix, A-F. Instructor: Stanley et al. No credit.

2A. Approved Summer Placement. Instructor: Staff. No credit.
2B. Approved Academic Year Placement. Instructor: Staff. No credit.
2C. Approved Field Education Placement. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

3. Field Education Practicum for Episcopal Students. Pass/fail grading only. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

4. Student Pastor Formation Groups. Student pastor mentoring groups. Student pastors in years 1 to 3 are required to take these pastoral formation, noncredit, courses. Register for section by year: .01, first; .02, second; .03, third. Pass/fail grading only. Instructor: Staff. No credit.

4A. Summer. No credit.
4B. Fall. No credit.
4C. Spring. No credit.

5. Pre-enrollment Ministry Discernment Program. Program provides, through the Duke Endowment, a small number of opportunities (usually about a dozen) for United Methodist students to serve supervised internships during the summer immediately prior to enrollment. Students serving in these placements do not receive Field Education credit but in addition to the invaluable contextual learning that they gain, they are compensated financially through Duke Endowment. Instructor: Stanley et al. No credit.

I. GUIDELINES FOR INCLUSIVE LANGUAGE

The decadence of our language is probably curable. Those who deny this would argue, if they produced an argument at all, that language merely reflects existing social conditions, and that we cannot influence its development by any direct tinkering with words and constructions. So far as the general tone or spirit of language goes, this may be true, but it is not true in detail. Silly words and expressions have often disappeared, not through any evolutionary process but owing to the conscious action of a minority.

George Orwell
Politics of the English Language

The necessity for change is the parent of tradition. If we want a change in our language to come, we must first facilitate that change through concerted action. Our language is determined both by who we are as individuals and communities, and who we want to become.

The affirmation of the integrity of people with various opinions and interpretations on the issue of language is assumed. It is recognized, however, that exclusive language can work unwitting and unintended harm by distorting reality and excluding members from our community. Therefore, all members of this Duke Divinity School community (students, faculty, administrators, and staff) are invited to join together in using language that most adequately reflects the unity of the people of God and the reality of God.

LANGUAGE ABOUT PERSONS

A. Generic Usage

Although "man" originally carried the meaning of both "human beings" and "adult males," such can no longer be assumed. Even though technically "man" is inclusive, its actual use is often exclusive.

1. Use precise language. When in the past you would have been inclined to use the generic term "man," find creative ways to use such words as "humankind," "humans," "persons," "everyone," "men and women," "children of God," etc.

2. Use words that do not include "man" when referring to occupations and positions that can include both males and females. Alternative descriptions can often be found which are not awkward compounds:

Cleryperson - Clergy
Congressperson - Representative
Policeman - Police Officer
Fireman - Fire Fighter
Chairperson - Chair, Moderator, Presiding Officer

B. Pronoun Usage

Pronoun usage that avoids gender specific categories is an effective way to include all members of society or a given community in general references. Although English grammars generally maintain that the nonspecific individual be referred to as "he," such a reference is not inclusive. One should attempt to make all pronoun references inclusive.

1. When speaking in general terms or when referring to both women and men, use pronouns so as to make explicit that both men and women are included. This may be accomplished by using such methods as "he" and she,’’ ‘‘hers and his,’’ or combinations such as ‘‘he/ she,’’ ‘‘s/ he,’’ and ‘‘his/ hers.’’

2. Other approaches to the pronoun issue include:
   a. Use writing that reduces unnecessary or excessive gender specific pronouns: ‘‘The average American drives his car to work’’ can become ‘‘The average American drives to work.’’
   b. Rephrase statements into the plural: ‘‘Most Americans drive their cars to work.’’
   c. When speaking in generic terms or when including women and men in the same group, some guides suggest alternating female and male pronouns: ‘‘A person should take good care of her car. He should check the oil level daily. She should also make sure that the tires are properly inflated.’’
   d. The indefinite use of the second person plural pronoun, ‘‘you,’’ to refer to people in general is a widespread conversational device. You must realize, however, that the use of the second person in writing creates an intimate relationship between the writer and the reader. For this reason, when you use the second person, be sure that the person or persons to whom the argument is directed is clearly identified.
   e. Masculine pronouns can be replaced by the impersonal pronoun ‘‘one,’’ and this is still preferred in formal usage. However, one should use this form sparingly.

C. Forms of Address

Traditionally there has been little need for particular ways to refer to individual women or married individuals with different titles. Women did not have titles other than ‘‘Miss’’ or ‘‘Mrs.,’’ and it was assumed that their identity derived from their marital status. That assumption is no longer valid, and forms of address should recognize the identity that women have as individuals.

1. In referring to an individual woman there is no need to refer to her marital status, just as traditional references to men give no indication of their marital status. Examples:
   a. Ms. Lorna Stafford
   b. The Reverend Ms. Louise Lind
   c. The Reverend Mr. Louis Lind
   d. Dr. Jennifer Jones

2. Different titles should be recognized when addressing married couples.
   Examples:
   a. Clergywoman married to a layperson: The Reverend Ms. Sally Jones and Mr. Gerald Jones
   b. Clergy couples: The Reverends Ms. Sally Smith and Mr. Gerald Jones; The Reverends Ms. Sally Jones and Mr. Gerald Jones; The Reverends M/M Sally and Gerald Jones
   c. Other titles: Professor Louise Lind and Dr. Jonathan Smith; Drs. Cynthia and Jackson Whittaker

3. Although the use of individual names is assumed when married people have different titles, this is desirable for others as well. Instead of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jackson, try:
   a. Steve and Lorna Jackson
   b. Mr. and Mrs. Steve and Lorna Jackson
   c. M/M Steve Jackson and Lorna Stafford

4. Titles can be eliminated altogether, but in formal usage this practice is generally not preferred.
D. References to Collective and Abstract Nouns

Social institutions (e.g., Church), concepts (e.g., evil), or inanimate objects (e.g., a ship) do not have gender. Referring to them as female or male encourages stereotyping groups of people with the qualities specific to that institution, concept, or object.

1. Pronouns that refer to collective and abstract nouns should be neuter, except in direct quotations.
   a. Direct quotation: “And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. ...” (Rev. 21:2).
   b. Modern usage: The Church is described as the new Jerusalem. It is adorned for the worship of God, and its relationship with God is seen as a gift from God.

2. Direct quotations can often be made inclusive through the use of brackets: “A person must make his [or her] own way in this broken world.”

LANGUAGE ABOUT GOD

Although these guidelines are designed mainly for use in terms of language about people, care and attention should be given also to language about God in writing, speaking, and worship. Language about God should articulate the variety and richness of God’s manifestations to humankind. It should also respect the deeply personal nature of God as expressed through the Trinity. These suggestions are offered as a beginning point from which one can develop androgynous language about God.

A. The exclusive use of either masculine or feminine pronouns for God should be avoided.

B. Metaphors showing God’s personal relationship with humans should be used, but need not be personalized with “he” or “she.”

C. A variety of sex-specific metaphors can be used: “God is the father who welcomes his son home, but she is also the woman who searches for the lost coin.”

Imagination, patience, and diligence are required in order to use language that expands and enriches our understanding of God.

II. CONDUCT COVENANT AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURES

Duke Divinity School

This appendix on Conduct Covenant and Judicial Procedures contains language adopted in January, 1987, and February, 2003:

1. The Conduct Covenant for Duke Divinity School*

   We, the faculty and students in the Divinity School of Duke University, make covenant, individually and corporately, to uphold the highest standards of personal and academic integrity. This includes, but is not limited to, never lying, cheating, stealing, causing harm to self or others, or defacing property. Set aside by our calling, we hold ourselves and each other to the highest standards of conduct (1).

   As a Divinity School committed to forming and educating persons for the ministry of Jesus Christ, we covenant together to embody truth in every aspect of our lives, including our academic work. In joyful obedience to Christ, we gratefully involve our

*Duke Divinity School is a Christian community shaped by the Gospel of Jesus Christ. While we do not expect members of other faith traditions to share the theological framework out of which this covenant was developed, we welcome into our community anyone who is willing to live and work under the standards of conduct specified herein.

2. Covenant Keeping

   Introduction: Breaches of community covenants are grievous matters, both to the individuals concerned and to the community as a whole. To encourage covenant faithfulness, the Divinity School conduct covenant tries to be explicit in describing the kind of attitude and behavior that honors the distinctive nature of the Divinity School. The Divinity School will work to make students aware of our covenant together from the beginning of their academic program.

   Pastoral Process: The response of the community to both alleged and confirmed fractures of our covenant will be guided by pastoral concerns. In this instance pastoral denotes reconciling, restorative, healing. At times we can be reconciling, restorative and healing simply through sharing, listening sympathetically and responding with forgiveness and understanding. In other instances reconciliation, restoration to the community and healing of person and community can occur only through confession, an attitude of penance and penitential acts indicating remorse, contrition, and a desire to learn from one’s errors. Members of the covenant community who are aggrieved by the conduct of other members of the community should find a friend and approach the offending party to work out the misunderstanding or offense (Matthew 18:15-20). However, because of their gravity, matters related to plagiarism, cheating, theft or abuse of property (including academic property), fraud, or personal (and especially sexual or racial) harassment, should be brought directly to the Academic Dean for address and resolution following the processes described below. As members of a covenant community, all persons have a moral obligation to report breaches of the covenant.

   Judicial Procedures: The judicial process hereinafter described is constituted for the Divinity School community as required by the Judicial System of Duke University and the university’s rubric on student life. It conforms to and functions within those larger structures (see Bulletin of Duke University: Information and Regulations).

   When grievances are brought to the Academic Dean, the following processes will be implemented:

   A. Faculty accused of covenant violation will be subject to the policies and procedures of the currently effective Duke University Faculty Handbook.

   B. Students accused of covenant violation may elect (1) to authorize the Academic Dean to initiate an informal process to resolve the accusation and apply any indicated disciplines, or (2) to authorize the Academic Dean to initiate a formal process involving fellow students, faculty and administration who will attempt to determine whether there has been a violation and take appropriate pastoral action.

   i. Informal Process: Under this procedure the person bringing the accusation, the accused, the Academic Dean, and whomever the Academic Dean deems appropriate will work to review the facts of the offense. The Academic Dean will decide on guilt or innocence, the Divinity School’s response to it and any indicated discipline.

   ii. Formal Process: Under this process (operated in conformity with the Bulletin: Information and Regulations), alleged offense(s) will be reviewed by The Divinity School Judicial Board, composed of the Academic Dean (who will serve as Chair of the Board), the Associate Dean for Student Services, four students (one of whom shall be designated an alternate), and three faculty and/or staff members (one of whom shall be designated an alternate). This committee will review the grievance, dismiss it or admit it, and decide on any action to be taken in response to it.
In either the informal or formal processes, the student who is the subject of a complaint or accusation will be fully informed of his/her rights and the grievance(s) brought against him/her, given ample opportunity to respond and be assured s/he will be heard fully, fairly and in Christian charity. Proceedings under both (1) and (2) should be held in strictest confidence by all parties concerned. Disciplinary measures, depending on the severity of the offense, may include but not be limited to: required counseling, a mandated leave of absence for a term or terms, failure of a course, and suspension or expulsion from the Divinity School.

Appeal: A person convicted of a covenant breach may appeal the case to the Dean of The Divinity School by providing: 1) written notice of that intention within 48 hours and 2) a written statement of the grounds of the appeal within 7 days of the receipt of the verdict. Grounds for appeal include new and significant evidence that might alter the case or violation of due process.

3. Interpretation/Exposition (This section is designed to foster continuing conversation regarding the Covenant and its relationship to the Divinity School community):

A. Our call is lived out in community. We do not claim as our own that which belongs to the community. We will respect the places of learning, help to care for the facilities, and share in the exchange of materials, neither stealing nor abusing books or other valuable tools of learning. We will abstain from cheating of every kind. We will not plagiarize, fabricate, or falsify our work or aid others in these forms of dishonesty. When we observe any forms of dishonesty, we recognize that we are under moral obligation to report the offender to the Academic Dean. In the truthful pursuit of knowledge and understanding, we will foster the honest and respectful exchange of ideas, prepare for class, listen carefully, seek to understand, and give a fair, accurate, and charitable account of ideas, positions, and arguments with which we agree and disagree. In this vital exchange, we will open ourselves to judgment, always seeking to learn and not bear false witness.

B. Those who claim Christ speak and live truthfully. We are called to show respect to all we meet, acknowledging in our daily behavior on and off the campus that we are called to live in the image of God. We work to strengthen one another in Christ. We are welcoming and hospitable, endeavoring to create a place where all will feel safe and free to share joys and struggles, passions and conflicts, hopes and fears. We serve and do not exploit one another. We honor the friendships we form, transcending self-service with mutual service. We live honestly before our friends, giving and receiving godly wisdom and holding ourselves accountable to one another as disciples of Jesus Christ. We attend to the concerns of our families, avoiding neglect, abuse, or evil counsel. We are faithful to the covenants we enter: personal, marital, familial, communal. We encourage each other to ever-deepening commitment to Christ in prayer, fasting, chastity, worship, study, and acts of charity, justice, and mercy.

The Duke University Standard reads as follows: “Duke University is a community of scholars and learners, committed to the principles of honesty, trustworthiness, fairness, and respect for others. Students share with faculty and staff the responsibility for promoting a climate of integrity. As citizens of this community, students are expected to adhere to these fundamental values at all times, in both their academic and non-academic endeavors.”

Duke has also determined that the various schools of the University should create and retain their own unique honor systems because such systems will best match the varying needs of the individual schools. The Divinity School Conduct Covenant is thus consistent with the University’s efforts to nurture a culture of integrity in the academic arena as well as the arenas of faculty and student conduct.
